PAP Says Balloon Downed Jet Plane

London — (UPI) — Communist Poland said today a propaganda balloon launched by Radio Free Europe downed a Polish MIG13 jet trainer on Aug. 3 with the loss of two lives. A government statement broadcast by PAP, the official Polish agency, said careful investigation showed the MIG fell as result of hitting a hydrogen-filled balloon carrying leaflets. It said the accident occurred early in the morning near Sochaczew and identified the victims as Capt. Roman Lachick and Sub Lt. Josef Raze. PAP said Radio Free Europe balloon launchings had been "markedly intensified" in early August and "caused serious menace to the safety of air navigation in Poland." It said the responsibility must be borne equally by the West German government which provides launching sites and "favors and supports this campaign" and the United States which "exercises direct and indirect control over the organizations."

Quotes From the News

By UNITED PRESS
Washington President Eisenhower renewing his plea for moderation in the school segregation disputes: "We hear the people that are adamant and are so filled with prejudice that they can't keep still—they even resort to violence; and the same way on the other side of the thing, the people who want to have the whole matter settled today."
San Francisco—Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson describing the recent Republican National Convention: "After listening to that thing on television, I came to the conclusion it wasn't a convention, it was a coronation."
Hollywood—Film star John Wayne deploring the shooting ability of big game hunter Richard Welby in wounding Robert Harrison, publisher of Confidential Magazine: "... I think he's a nice enough fellow and I hope he's not in trouble, but I deplore the fact he's such a poor shot."
Spencer, N.M.—Brakeman Charles Kincaid, aboard the Santa Fe Chief when it collided with a mail train, describing his experience in the crash: "I didn't remember anything else until I woke up sitting on the ground outside the train. I must have been thrown through a window or a hole torn in the car."
Washington—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California replying to Adlai Steven's call for an end to the military draft: "The Democratic candidate's speech . . . is a blatant attempt to get votes."

Layman Suggests Caucus for Speaker

Newberg, Ore. — (UPI) — State Rep. George Layman, Newberg Republican and candidate for the 1957 speakership of the Oregon House of Representatives, yesterday suggested that a caucus of the full House should meet to choose a new speaker. Layman said he was not suggesting that party organization had no place in government processes but that a caucus of just one party to choose the next presiding officer would not tend to promote legislative harmony. Layman said he agreed with Reps. Ed Cardwell, Loran Stewart and Robert Elstrom that the caucus should be held following the Nov. 6 election and that pre-election pledges were inadvisable. He questioned the propriety of the present speaker in calling a caucus of members of just the Republican party.

Inquest Starts Into Death of Two Girls On First School Day

Chicago — (UPI) — An inquest opened today into the auto-pedestrian deaths of two little girls on the first day of school. Sandra Griffith, 5, and her sister, Jean, 7, were killed when struck Wednesday by the auto of Richard Dombek, 18, Evanston, Ill., who was driving his father's auto for the first time alone. Dombek broke away from officers at a police station after the accident, banged his head against a wall, and shouted: "My God, what did I do now?" The Griffith sisters were in a group of 25 children returning home from lunch when the accident occurred. Another youngster, 5-year-old Linda Gustafson, suffered burns from boiling radiator water, but her condition was not serious. Police said Dombek was traveling too fast when he turned a corner into the street of the school where the girls had just been dismissed for lunch. The car—out of control—leaped the curb, smashed into a light pole, struck an iron fence and then rammed into the group of youngsters. Dombek later told police he knew he was going to strike the children, but was unable to stop the car. Bodies of the Griffith children were so badly mangled they were not identified immediately. However, the children's grandmother made the identification at a funeral home after learning of the accident when she phoned the school to find out if classes had been dismissed for lunch. Sandra had started kindergarten Wednesday while Jean was in the second grade.

Bend Nursing Home May Be Reopened

Portland — (UPI) — The State Board of Health said today it had paved the way for possible reopening of the Riverview nursing in Bend. At an informal hearing here yesterday it was indicated that a license would be issued after the owner of the home obtained an operator and met all state health and safety requirements. Dr. Thomas G. Burke, Portland chiropractor who owns the home, closed it Aug. 31. He said he was unable to correct deficiencies because of conflicts in orders of various state inspecting agencies. He also said he had no assurance the home would be allowed to operate even after correction because the state advisory council on hospital licensing had twice ruled he does not possess the necessary educational requirements for licensure as an operator.

Search Fruitless For Body of Girl

San Rafael, Calif. — (UPI) — An Air Force helicopter crew "chased buzzards" with no results Wednesday in a macabre search for the body of a San Francisco girl who leaped to her death from a small plane Monday. A ground search over the brushy slopes of Mt. Tamalpais was also fruitless. The victim, pretty Flora Elizabeth Anderson, 22, plunged to her death from a light plane rented by Stanley Gordon, 28, of Belvedere.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

Garlic is good for you in many ways. Especially, as a cold preventive. However, up to now it has not been wise for a young fellow to consume garlic before going on a moonlight stroll with a beautiful girl. Now "kiss proof garlic" has been originated. So a young man can have a bit of garlic for dinner, then go for a moonlight stroll with an affectionate female and love can still be a many splendored thing. "Kiss proof garlic" was originated and is produced in Brooklyn. Good, old Brooklyn!

Successful Lovelers

Have you a daughter who wears glasses? How is she doing? What are her matrimonial prospects? Or has she already acquired a grade-A spouse? The boys who wear glasses seem to be doing very well recently. They are winning the hearts and hands of some very beautiful girls. Not only beautiful girls, but high salaried or wealthy girls. As for example, the bespectacled Arthur Miller, who married Marilyn Monroe. Also Sidney Lumet who captured the heart of Gloria Vanderbilt. To what can be attributed the sensational success in the matrimonial field of boys who wear glasses. Our horses and women experts have done some research on this situation and will report on the same in the near future.

Swedish Custom

In Sweden if you light a cigarette for a girl and then blow the match out she is supposed to kiss you. But you must use a match. Cigarette lighters don't count. Remember that when you are in Stockholm. Or when you meet a Swedish beauty in this country. As for example, Anita Ekberg.

That Carpet

When Lily Langtry, "The Jersey Lily," made her first New York appearance in 1907 she asked the theatre manager to lay a carpet from her dressing room to the stage. The manager agreed. He had a carpet laid out. It was a red carpet. Anna Held subsequently made a similar demand. That is the origin of the saying, "Roll out the red carpet."

Asking

Queries from clients: Q. Are you familiar with a college song titled "Retribution"? A. Never heard of it. If you had asked me about the college song "Drink a Highball at Nightfall" I could have helped you. Or if you had inquired about "Ring the Bells of Old South College," "I'm a Rambling Wreck From Georgia Tech," "By the Banks of the Old Raritan," or "Lord Jeffrey Amherst." The last named is my favorite college song. . . . Q. What was Grace Kelly's salary for the last film in which she appeared? A. About $1,600 a week. That is still her salary, according to her contract, if she makes another picture.

Interest Renewed In Fir Bark Wax

Salem — (UPI) — Renewed interest in a program to extract wax from fir bark was reported to the state board of forestry yesterday by board member Eliot Jenkins of Eugene. Jenkins said that the M. H. Kellogg company which dropped an earlier wax program after investigation, was now considering renewing the program. He added that several exploratory conferences had also been held with Weyerhaeuser Timber Company regarding the wax project. The board authorized sale of $700,000 in forest re-forestation bonds to carry on reforestation in the Tillamook burn in 1957. State Forester Dwight Phipps said the money would be used to purchase seed and would also cover the cost of planting. Rehabilitation bonds are authorized under a constitutional amendment that was adopted by voters following the disastrous Tillamook forest fire.

Price Named to Group For Watershed Study

Salem — (UPI) — F. E. Price, director of agriculture at Oregon State College, was named yesterday as chairman of Gov. Elms Smith's special committee for a comprehensive Oregon watershed study. The special committee was the outgrowth of a proposal made by Gov. Smith several weeks ago to the Natural Resources Committee for an experimental program to determine the various inter-related uses of water in Oregon.
