The show was presented through the courtesy of Mann's Department store of Medford, and directed by Mrs. Mildred McCarty. Music was played throughout with Mrs. Ronald Curren at the organ and Mrs. Delbert Spain at the piano. Commentator was Mrs. Wyles Berry. Trail, Mrs. Earl Sheppard, Shady Cove, was general chairman.

The major portion of the proceeds will be used toward a college scholarship, one of the projects sponsored by the auxiliary. Miss Paule Bourreil, teacher in a girls' school in Paris, France, and George de Cocq, 16, have been guests this summer of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Espourteille, Shady Cove, brother-in-law and sister of the young man. They will leave Saturday by air for New York city, accompanied by Mrs. Espourteille who will travel with them as far as New York. Visitors from Paris to Leave Saturday By Air for New York

Miss Paule Bourreil and George de Cocq of Paris, France, who have been guests this summer of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Espourteille of Shady Cove, will leave Saturday on the return trip to Europe. They will make the trip by air, and will be accompanied by Mrs. Espourteille as far as New York.

Miss Bourreil is a teacher of history and geography in a French public school for girls, and young de Cocq, who is Mrs. Espourteille's brother, is a high school student. Miss Bourreil has six classes of girls between the ages of 14-17 years, and teaches in a school which would be comparable to an American senior high school.

During her stay in Jackson county Miss Bourreil has visited the Grants Pass and Cave Junction High schools and this week planned to visit the Shady Cove elementary school. She has met and visited with a number of teachers during her stay.

Miss Bourreil, who is on her first trip to this country, and young de Cocq, who visited here several years ago, have been in the United States for two months. They made the transcontinental trip to San Francisco by train, and were met there by the Espourteilles who brought them by car up the coast highway in order that they might see the Redwood forests.

Miss Bourreil commented on the vastness of this nation, and said she enjoyed her stay in San Francisco very much, calling it a gay, delightful city.

The visitors were taken through a Medford super-market by their hosts and were much impressed. Miss Bourreil stated that while a few self-service stores are now in operation in France, they are found only in the largest cities and are not as

Buffet Supper Follows Bridge At Camp White

Camp White — A buffet supper followed the last meeting of Camp White Veterans Bridge club, with Mrs. S. W. Alcorn and Mrs. Howard Boyd in charge. Table decorations, arranged by the two hostesses, featured a centerpiece of fruit and cutails in the harvest theme.

Prizes furnished by the American Legion auxiliary of Medford were awarded to veterans holding the highest scores for August. First went to Walter Humes, second to Bill Hickey and third to Asa Kimball.

Mrs. Mamie Hendryx, Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Coode, Wilderville, were guest players.

Play was for master points. North-south winners were Mrs. Frank Baker and Mrs. W. W. Stevenson, first, 142 points; Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, second, 133; the B. L. Sandersons, third, 120; Mr. and Mrs. Coode, fourth, 119½ points.

East-west winners were the Berg Martens, first, 138½; Mrs. Fred Purdin and Arthur Scarseth, second, 138 points; Don Reverman and Ray Wise, third, 119½ points; the Jack Loves, Mrs. Josephine Clark and Mrs. Hendryx, tied for fourth and fifth places with 114 points.

The Espourteilles, who live on a large ranch in the Shady Cove area, have riding horses and both the French visitors have enjoyed riding this summer. The young man also has learned to drive the ranch cars, since in France one cannot be licensed and drive until 18 year of age. The high school he attends teaches much the same courses as do those here, it was explained, and there is an extensive program of sports.

Miss Bourreil states that an effort is being made to keep classes in the French school below 40 in number, but that the school are overcrowded, much as in this country, and that many new buildings are needed.

The association will sponsor an open square dance with F. J. "Jonesy" Jones calling the squares, Monday, October 1, at the Jacksonville Community Hall. Dancing will be from 8 to 11 p.m.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Mrs. L. B. M.—Our son embraces a strange religion.

L. B. M.—He will probably get over it.

Mrs. L. B. M.—My husband and I have always considered ourselves liberal in religious and political matters and we have not been able to participate in the rather narrow religious and community life of our neighbors.

Recently I became aware of fact that our 16-year-old boy has been going to a church connected with a creed quite different from the one to which I and my husband were born. It seems that he became interested in this church because in a teacher in school who befriended him belongs to this church. In any event I feel very upset that our boy should be so attracted to this strange church and sect.

My husband disagrees with me and makes light of the matter. But I have a terrible foreboding about it.

L. B. M.—We've never taken our boy to church, and so he is curious. I think this will pass, as so many other childhood fads and fancies pass. I am afraid that if we make a big fuss about his going to this church, it may get to seem important to him and it may really get a firm hold on him.

I had my fill of churchgoing as a youngster, and I think if we let our boy have his fill, he will be cured. If he has to be a regular church person, I do not see that it makes very much difference to us what church he belongs to. I am hopeful that he will get over this.

The Council: Mr. L. B. M. makes a common error in mistaking his son for himself. The fact that he got tired of churchgoing as a youngster has little bearing on his son's reaction.

It would appear that this boy has felt a great hunger for spiritual experience that his parents have denied him. Quite possibly, had they taken him to their church in his younger days, he would not have become attracted to a "strange" church as he has been.

Parents have no right or reason to assume that their children are exact replicas of themselves and that they will inherit all their ideas and reactions. If parents wish to have some effect on the inner lives of their children, they must make conscious efforts at molding them.

These parents preferred that their boy inherit their attitude of indifference toward the church to which they were born. Now they find him drawn irresistibly to what they consider a "strange" church, and they have only themselves to blame.

They cannot expect their son to turn from his spiritual attraction if they offer no substitute, and they are not in a good position to offer a substitute unless they develop a positive interest in their own church and religion. Their boy is not likely to be moved unless they themselves develop a moving interest in faith.

These parents may be pained by their boy's course, but they should realize that they might have brought about an even worse result. Had the boy not discovered some outlet for his spiritual longings, he might have become a distorted and destructive person. Parents may not always be able to make their children feel spiritual values, but they should at the very least expose them to such values very early in life.

Jeunesse Butler Author of Article

Thomas L. Thomas, widely known baritone, is the subject of a recent article in the Christian Science Monitor written by Miss Jeunesse Butler of Medford. Miss Butler has written for the newspaper over a period of many years.

Miss Butler interviewed the famous singer when he appeared in concert here for Jackson County Civic Music association during the last season.

The writer quotes Mr. Thomas as saying that "Audiences are supposed to relax and have a good time" and deplores the idea that concerts should be "deadly serious." The singer also gave advice to the young seeking a musical career, said "overnight careers" seldom happen and added that he auditioned 96 times before obtaining his first professional solo role.

Finger-Painting Good For Children; Hard On Cleaning Women

Los Angeles—(U.P.)—One authority has come up with some child-rearing advice easy on the child, but hard on the cleaning woman.

Let them finger-paint on the refrigerator or in the bathtub, if they have to stay indoors because of weather, health or some other reason, said Mrs. F. D. Sinclair of the American Institute of Family Relations.

"This is a real treat for youngsters," she said, "and you've no idea how this keeps them from getting under foot when you're busy. The finger-paints wash off easily. Linoleum or tile also are good materials on which children can use finger-paints."

Retired Dentist At Ceremonies

Dr. B. R. Elliott will leave for Portland today, and tomorrow will attend the dedication ceremonies for the new University of Oregon Dental school in Portland. Dr. Elliott, a graduate of the school and retired dentist will also attend a reunion of the class of 1915.

The new building has been erected near the University of Oregon Medical school buildings in Portland.
