 The proud old Yankees, pennant winners again for the 22nd time in 36 years, completed one more champagne campaign today, but the tummy bubbles in that mad National league race were caused by just plain anxiety.

The cup of victory was doubly bubbly for the Yankees in their celebration. For it was Mickey Mantle who clinched it all with his 50th homer in the 11th inning that provided a 3-2 victory over the White Sox. That made him the only man besides Babe Ruth, who ever reached that magic figure in a Yankee uniform.

Moreover, the Yankees beat the only club with a mathematical chance to tie them and they beat them on their home ground, and with their best pitcher, Billy Pierce on the mound.

There was measured happiness for the Milwaukee Braves. They rose to within one percentage point of first place Brooklyn, with a 6-4 victory at Pittsburgh, produced on the margin of Johnny Logan's two-run single in the eighth, and saved by Bill Bruton's over-the-head catch of a ninth inning center field line drive with two Pirates on base.

Despair in Brooklyn

But in Brooklyn there were only dregs of despair. Ken Boyer hit a two-run homer in the ninth to give St. Louis a 6-5 triumph in a game where the Dodgers had climbed courageously from behind to lead briefly in the seventh on a two-run homer by Gil Hodges. Boyer's blast came with two out. In two previous games where the Redlegs rose to challenge with two out in the ninth the Dodgers came back to win. But they were not equal to the bounce Tuesday night.

Brooklyn still has a game advantage in the lost column and has two more games to play than Milwaukee, which gives the Dodgers a bigger winning potential. But now they were virtually tied again, whereas they had been a game in front.

Cincinnati faced virtual elimination. The Redlegs dropped two at Philadelphia where Curt Simmons and Robin Roberts gained 4-3 and 7-4 pitching triumphs. Wally Post hit two homers in the first game and Ed Bailey blasted a three-run homer in the second for Cincinnati, but again the Redlegs found they could not do it on power alone. They're now 4 1/2 games out with only nine more to play.

Braves Jitters

The Braves had jitters again at Pittsburgh and blew a 3-0 lead as Lew Burdette was kayoed for the third straight time. But old pro Lagan came through with the big hit and Bruton saved it.

Herb Score struck out 14 to win his 18th game, a four-hitter and Mike Garcia followed with a three-hitter to give Cleveland 1-0 and 6-0 triumphs over Washington, while Lou Skizas hit a ninth inning homer to defeat the Red Sox, 6-5, at Kansas City despite three hits including a homer by Ted Williams. Ray Boone's grand slam homer gave Detroit a 6-2 margin over Baltimore and 11 wins in 12 games in the other AL game.

The Giants, paced by Jackie Brandt who drove in five runs with four hits, including a homer, defeated Chicago, 8-2, after the Cubs took the first game, 4-2, on a four-hitter by Bob Rush.

Yanks Installed Series Favorites

New York — (UPI) — The magic name of the Yankees installed them as automatic favorites to win the World Series with the bookmakers, no matter who their National league opponents may be.

In spite of the fact the Yankees lost the series last year to the Dodgers and that the National league not only has two straight triumphs in the World Series, but also in the All-Star game, the New Yorkers are the choice.

If the Dodgers are their opponents, the Yankees will be favored at 6-7. Against Milwaukee the price now is 7-8 and against Cincinnati 7 1/2-8 1/2.

Cleveland 6, Washington 0 (2nd, night).
 New York 3, Chicago 2 (11 Innings, night).
 Kansas City 6, Boston 5 (night).

Thursday's Games
