Do Americans commercialize SEX?

Are we distorting our normal sex and marriage attitudes by stressing the physical aspects of sex in music, movies, comics and advertisements?

Do we set up a false picture for our youth of what acceptable standards are? Are we giving them the impression that society no longer regards sexual irregularity as an offense?

In the October Ladies' Home Journal, five college students and two mothers discuss with Journal editors just how movies, TV, advertising, comics are influencing your own, your son's and daughter's behavior. Here are some important and surprising answers.

Two sides to today's teen-age sex conflicts!

A daughter reveals shocking facts about teen-age activities... tells the kind of parental authority needed in "I Wish My Parents Were More Strict."

A mother tells how, lulled into false security by her daughter's popularity, a tragedy made her realize her mistakes in "What's a Mother to Do?"

Problems Of Children To Be Topic

How to solve the everyday problems of children will be the topic under consideration at a meeting to be held at First Methodist church in Medford on Friday, September 21, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

This workshop pertaining to discussion groups of parents about childhood problems is the first of a series to be sponsored jointly by parent-teacher associations and Jackson County Public Health association. All women interested in participating in or starting a local discussion group are invited to attend and contribute their ideas.

Dr. Harry Danielson, consulting psychiatrist, will answer questions and give general advice on problems common to most children, and how to get the most value from discussion group meetings of local people.

As this project is county-wide, there will be representatives from all parts of Jackson county. Objectives were discussed at an executive meeting attended by Mrs. L. E. Gustison, of the parent-teacher association; Mrs. Chester Fitch, Ashland, representative of the P.T.A., on the public health association; Miss Dorothy Huskey, Jackson county public health association; Mrs. Reilly Cook and Mrs. Walter Bish, family life council of the Jackson County Public Health association, and Dr. Danielson.

Coffee will be served, but participants are requested to take a sack lunch. Baby sitting facilities will be provided.

Thompsons Home From Trip North; Attend Ceremony

Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Thompson, 822 Sherman street, recently returned from a trip to Portland and Walla Walla, Wash. While gone they attended capping ceremonies for a nursing class at Portland Sanitarium hospital; their daughter, Miss Kay Thompson, a member of the class, having entered the hospital in June.

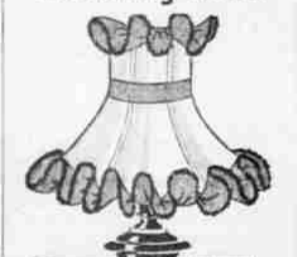

From Portland the couple motored to Walla Walla where they visited their son, Dale, a pre-dental student enrolled in Walla Walla college as a freshman.

The Thompsons' oldest daughter, Jewel, left Wednesday for LaSiera college, Arlington, Calif., where she is a junior majoring in biology.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Ronnie—My husband rejects the aptitude tests.
Jack—I know my boy is good for business.

Ronnie—Our boy is going into his senior year in high school, and we are naturally thinking of his future. My husband is terribly anxious to have him go into his business, but he has taken aptitude tests that, to my mind, indicate that he should not.

My husband, Jack, was opposed to his taking the aptitude tests, but they were recommended by the high school and he reluctantly agreed. The aptitude tests showed a marked scientific bent in our boy, and indicated that he would not be at his best in dealing with people.

My husband is furious because I want to encourage the boy in the direction indicated.

Jack—I have worked very hard to establish my little retail business. I had my fill of being kicked around from pillar to post in my younger days, and I know the value of being your own boss and working to build something for yourself and your family.

I don't care what the aptitude tests show. Our boy has always wanted to come with me to the store and has never complained about helping. It is true that he is shy and doesn't wait on customers. But he is very useful and willing when he helps me, and he seems to know a good deal about the merchandise.

Maybe it's all right in Russia for the authorities to disregard the parents and tell a child how he should run his life, but I feel that I should have something to say about my son's future.

The Council: Aptitude tests are a modern educational tool, but they should not be mistaken

Many Women Fish and Hunt, Survey Shows

By GAY PAULEY United Press Correspondent

New York — (UP) — The big game woman stalks these days is just as apt to be a lion as a scion.

Uncle Sam has published the first comprehensive survey on who does the hunting and fishing in these United States. It reveals that women, in numbers which amaze the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, are taking to field and stream.

The researchers, hired by Crossley, S-D Surveys, Inc., reported that 4,838,000 women hunted or fished in 1955. The figure is about 20 per cent of the total of 25 million men, women and children over 12 who hunted or fished.

The service wanted to determine how many "man days" and how much money were spent on the two sports.

Spending in 1955 totalled nearly $3 billion on everything from food to ammunition, the survey estimated.

The researcher did not attempt to determine just how much of the total was spent by women. But they did find that women take to rod and reel more often than the rifle.

Some 5 million women fished in 1955; only 250,000 hunted. But the hunters are a fearless lot gunning for big game as well as small game and waterfowl, alongside the men.

Reasons for the increase in women anglers and hunters the researchers didn't find — officially. But they unofficially go along with one candid wife who said "my husband is an avid fisherman. I decided if I couldn't change him, I'd join him."

The researchers found whole families who hunt and fish, although some of the women said, "We do more cooking than catching."

The 300 interviewees — most of them were women — also were an intrepid lot. One woman hired a jeep, a guide and borrowed long underwear during a winter-time trek into rugged territory in California.

Another, who later confessed she'd never before ridden horseback, hired a pack mule to reach one remote area.

"I've had men leer at me, dogs bite me, floods deter me," another wrote her supervisor. But like the postman, neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom...

HEARD ON TELEVISION

South Haven, Mich. — (UP) — Farmer Ben Burgh of rural Pullman believes movies are here to stay. Burgh, 87, saw his first movie recently and said "it was just wonderful." He hopes to see his first television program soon. "I've heard of television," he said, "but I haven't seen it yet."

Prospect Women To Attend Session In Grants Pass

Prospect — Five members of the Prospect Lion auxiliary are planning to attend the Lions work shop meeting in Grants Pass, Thursday, September 20.

Members and visitors attended the monthly meeting of the group held September 12 at Beckie's cafe in Union Creek. Visitors included Mrs. Delbert Orgain, Mrs. D. Baker, Mrs. Ed Lowne, and Mrs. Oda Hudson.

A report on the Lady Lions style show in Shady Cove was given by Mrs. Ralph Goode. It was also decided at the meeting that another quilt would be made by the group and sold to benefit the Blind school in Salem. Mrs. Lowell Ash, chairman, presided at the meeting.

Can you find the "guarantee" in this picture?

You buy a refrigerator only two or three times in your lifetime. Yet you don't hesitate to buy one without getting so much as a look at the intricate "works" that makes it run.

How do you dare make such an important purchase without having an expert check it over for you? What makes you so sure you're getting your money's worth when you say, "I'll take that one?"

The answer's obvious. You look for the brand name on the refrigerator—your "guarantee." You've learned to follow this first rule of safe and sound buying:

A good brand is your best guarantee
No matter what kind of product you want to buy, you know a good brand won't let you down. You know the maker stands back of it—guarantees it. And so, when you buy a good brand you know you're right.

Read this newspaper to find out which are the good brands (and the stores that sell them.) The more good brands you know, the surer you are about all your shopping.
