Business Women Praised By Many National Leaders

City, state and national officials and leaders have praised business and professional women of the United States and their accomplishments as a part of the annual National Business Women's week, now being observed. The special week opened Sunday and will continue through September 30.

President Eisenhower issued a message from the White House saying "Since 1919 the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs has occupied a position of leadership, advancing the interests and status of women in all types of endeavor. Through individual projects the organization has benefited communities throughout the nation; it has supported efforts to promote international understanding and a durable peace."

Adlai Stevenson, the president's opponent in the coming general election, also praised women of the federation, saying "I do not need to point out to you the importance that women have attained, and rightly so, in fields that were formerly considered to be the sole domain of men. And I think it is both proper and fitting to observe that this so-called 'invasion' is at least partly the result of the pioneering efforts of the first members of your organization, and the competence and reliability of those who followed."

Other national leaders who have issued statements of praise include Senator Irving M. Ives, who last March introduced a bill to give women equal pay for equal work; the Hon. Joseph W. Martin, minority leader and member of the House of Representatives, who declared that "without the flowing idealism which women bring to the political forum America could not hope to realize the full meaning of constitutional freedom"; and Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor company, who commented on the influence women have in modern industry.

Words of praise came also from Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, and Ambassador Clare Booth Luce who wrote from Italy that "It is not the least of your achievements that women throughout the world find a guide, a spur and an inspiration in the position achieved by the American woman."

James P. Mitchell, Secretary of Labor for the United States, said "One of the specific objectives which the Department of Labor shares with your membership is extension of women's opportunities for employment and advancement. In the more than three decades since your national organization was founded, women workers have found ever-expanding outlets for their skills. Progress, however, must continue and bring with it a growing recognition of the abilities women workers possess."

Mayor Earl Miller of Medford has issued a proclamation officially declaring National Business Women's week in Medford.

In observance of the national week the Medford club named Mrs. Harriett Watson, a past president, as "Beep of the Week" and a series of public appearances planned. This noon she was honored at a luncheon at the Jackson hotel, with Jennings Pierce as speaker. Representatives of various other women's organizations of the city attended.

Bethel Undertakes Unusual Project

Shady Cove—Members of the Shady Cove Bethel of Job's Daughters have an unusual project underway to earn funds for the group. Members will collect deer hides during the coming hunting season. Anyone having deer hides to donate is asked to call Miss Barbara Henderson, Eagle Point; Miss Deborah Dunlap, McLeod, and a member of the Bethel will collect the hides.

Guests Arrive

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sloneker of Phoenix, Ariz., and the Rev. George Arthur Sloneker of Oakland, Calif., are in Medford to visit their brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sloneker, 712 West Jackson boulevard. They will also visit Mr. and Mrs. Russel Uhrine and family, 621 Dakota avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guber and family, 1319 West Ninth street.

Student Club At Talent Plans Year

Talent — Florence Allen Future Teachers' club of Talent High school held its first meeting of the current school year at the home of the advisor, Miss Ina Freeman.

The proposed state constitution was discussed and, if possible, delegates will be sent to the state meeting in Portland in October at which time the state constitution will be voted on.

Two films have been requested by the group to be shown as a service to the school. It is planned to show, "A Desk for Billie" at a student assembly during National Education week in November. The other film, "Every Teacher's Business," will be shown to all students interested in teaching.

An administrative staff for the high school store was appointed for this school year. Bob Messenger will continue as manager; Julie Hanson will act as assistant manager and Doris Bench is bookkeeper. All members serve as sales persons. This is the second year the Future Teachers' club has had the store for its money-making project.

One of the most interesting and important projects of the group is the observation program in the grade school. Most of the upper-class members are having a regular schedule of observation beginning in the first grade and continuing through all grades.

New members will be initiated in October. The Misses Marilyn Suksdorf, Patsy Thompson, Garda Walter and Joyce Zeickoff are among those who will be taken into active membership at that time.

Officers for the year are Miss Julie Hanson, president; Miss Kathleen Kern, vice-president and Doris Bench, secretary.

Anthropologist Says American Women Unhappy, Disgruntled

By ROBERT MUSEL, United Press Correspondent, Battle, England.—U.P.—The American woman used to fight for her man. Now she fights him, and usually wins.

Dr. Eric J. Dingwall, a British anthropologist, has been covering this "war of the sexes" for 20 years, dashing to the United States from time to time for eyewitness studies and returning to Europe to preserve his objectivity.

This week he published his analysis of the struggle so far. "The American woman" is what the trade calls the controversial book. This means a lot of people will write Dr. Dingwall nasty letters.

For Dr. Dingwall spared neither sex in arriving at the conclusion that the American woman is a developing matriarch who takes her dominance even into the bedroom. He describes her as:

"The most nervous, unhappy, disgruntled woman that possibly one might find."

Starting with records of the Puritans of the 1600s, Dr. Dingwall has examined 10,000 books, magazines, newspapers and diaries to fill out the picture given him personally by American women over the years.

He thinks most American troubles are due to contradictions. For example, purity is stressed in the home, but outside it the girl or boy is subjected to a torrent of sex in films, television, radio, books, photographs and advertising.

The Americans, he said, constantly preach rugged individualism. Yet they are a "standardized type, wear standardized clothes, eat standardized foods, behave in a standardized way" and are suspicious of anyone who doesn't conform. Before marriage, he says, the American girl plays the part of a romantic doll. But after marriage, "when the dreams of youth have been shattered and the prince charming is seen without the halo," she becomes the dominating "mom" ruling both children and husband.

The American man isn't a very good lover in any circumstances, says Dr. Dingwall, and this unnatural dominance by the female reduces many of them to impotence.

Oregon Regent Is Guest of DAR

Mrs. Roy D. Armstrong, Portland, state regent of the Oregon society, Daughters of the American Revolution, made her official visit to Crater Lake chapter last Saturday. She was honored at a luncheon at Tally Ho restaurant, Talent.

During a talk to the group Mrs. Armstrong said the national society is emphasizing what the group is for, and not against. "We are for the principles for which America has stood beginning with the Declaration of Independence and the constitution, and the high ideals which have made America the greatest nation on earth," she stated.

Mrs. E. A. Moore, a past regent of Crater Lake chapter, has reunited with the chapter.

Mrs. Charles Champlin sang several solos, accompanied by Mrs. H. E. Marsh.

Mrs. D. O. Hood and Mrs. G. Q. D'Albini were in charge of luncheon arrangements.

Gardeners Plan Events For Autumn

Plans for fall events of Siskiyou district, Oregon Federation of Garden clubs, were completed at a recent meeting held in the Jackson county courthouse auditorium. Presiding over the meeting of presidents and secretaries of garden clubs of the district, was Mrs. Ira Fitzgerald, Eagle Point, district director, assisted by Mrs. Otto Nagel, assistant director.

Among the guests were Mrs. A. O. Floyd, state treasurer and Mrs. Lawrence Luy, state program chairman. Flowers about the room were arranged by Mrs. J. E. Harper.

Sales to raise funds for district finances will begin with a food sale Saturday, September 29 at the Home Appliance store, 115 East Main street at 10 a.m., with Mrs. C. C. Hoover in charge. On October 3 and 4, a rummage, plant and miscellaneous sale will be held at the Fehl building, 106 North Ivy street, under the direction of Mrs. R. D. Kay, Central Point.

Under committee reports, Mrs. Gaston Floux, Central Point, flower show school chairman, announced that a flower arranging demonstration will be held October 5 at Phoenix Community club house. Tickets may be secured from club presidents.

Other chairmen reporting included Mrs. Evelyn Tice, co-sage; Mrs. Earl Brooks, Rogue River; garden craft; Mrs. Harper, horticulture; Mrs. Floyd, Camp White hospital; Mrs. W. R. Stevens, legislation; Mrs. Warren Holbrook, Crater club; Pacific Gardens and Homes magazine; Mrs. W. A. Grochocki, Phoenix, scrapbook; Mrs. Everett Shafer, prospect, slides; Mrs. E. G. Taylor, Talent, Town House pottery, and Mrs. Hoover, yearbooks.

The fall district meeting will be held at the Talent Community hall on Tuesday, October 30. Each president is to bring a short report for the business session to begin at 10 a.m.

Prizes of iris went to Mrs. Kay, Mrs. Mattie Carson; Mrs. Maysel Lemmon, Grants Pass; Mrs. Helen Overgaard, Wolf Creek; Mrs. Elizabeth McKenna, Brookings and Mrs. Clarence Davies, Eagle Point.

Raisin bread sandwiches with a cream cheese and chopped walnut filling make a tasty sandwich for a school lunch box. It's wise to wrap each sandwich separately in waxed paper or a sandwich bag.

PTA Executive Meeting Thursday

An executive meeting of the Jackson county Council of Parents and Teachers associations will be held Thursday, September 27, at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Leigh Gustison, 54 Summit avenue.

Plans will be made for the school of instruction October 8 and the first business session of the year will be conducted. Mrs.

Lester N. Bradshaw, Eagle Point, is president of the association this year.

Cut a crosswise slice of cantaloupe and place on garnished salad plate. Center with a mound of cottage cheese sprinkled with chopped walnut. Accent with 4 or 5 plump cooked prunes, and serve with husky squares of hot gingerbread.
