family who have been living in Newport, Ore.

The community extends heartfelt sympathy this week in the accidental death of one of Jacksonville's sons, Jesse (Junior) Groves, to his wife Mabel and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Groves.

The men discussed, with great anticipation, the coming duck season, Luther Noble providing first hand information from the hunting area in which he lives. Jet and Panther, the family Labradors, joined in with excited tail wagging at the mere mention of the words 'duck hunting.'

This correspondent and husband paid a belated visit on the Walter L. Sutherlands last week and viewed the devastating effects of the recent fire which razed the north end of the Sutherlands' beautiful hillside home on the Stage road. According to Mrs. Sutherland, four guests visiting them at the time of the fire, a passing bus load of high school pupils and numerous friends and neighbors were mainly responsible for saving all of their furniture and personal belongings. The house guests were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Cragg of Phoenix, Arizona and Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Christensen of Manhattan Beach, Calif. The Sutherlands also expressed thanks to the Ted Bakers, neighbors, who took them in for several nights and to Mr. and Mrs. Charley Jantzer of Central Point who voluntarily loaned them a trailer house to live in while their home is being repaired. Untouched by the fire, the Sutherland's flower gardens bloom profusely. The Sutherlands expect to reoccupy their home within a month or so and repairs are already underway.

Due to change of plans the John Calquhouns of Bonneville, Wash., will not be moving into the house at 310 South Oregon st. Former residents moving back to Jacksonville this week were Mr. and Mrs. Don Godley and
