British Delta-Wing Bomber Crashes in Flames at Airport

London — (U.P.) — One of Britain's newest delta-wing bombers crashed in flames today at London Airport killing four crewmen. The chief of the Royal Air Force Bomber command and one crewman escaped alive.

An Air Ministry spokesman at the scene of the crash said Air Marshal Sir Harry Broadhurst, the RAF Bomber Command chief, and Squadron Leader Donald Howard, the pilot, apparently used their ejector seats when the plane hit the ground. Broadhurst was reported in critical condition.

Runs from Scene
Howard apparently was unhurt and ran from the scene of the crash to the airport terminal. His wife, who had been waiting to welcome him home from a training flight to Australia, had seen the crash and ran into his arms.

The wreckage of the giant plane blazed with a magnesium-like glare for 15 minutes afterwards. Police cordoned off the scene and warned onlookers: "Things are still tricky. The fuel tanks may explode."

As he spoke the flames reached the tanks and they blew up with a dull boom that sent a giant piece of twisted metal into the air. Other bits of smoldering wreckage formed a 100-yard trail that resembled a wartime flarepath.

The plane was an RAF Avro Vulcan jet "atom bomber," one of the latest in production in Britain. The pilot decided to land it on a 4,000-mile flight from Aden despite rain and low-hanging clouds that caused three Soviet jet passenger planes to divert to an American air base.

The plane slewed sharply to its left, the nose dived into the ground and the craft exploded. Shingler Finds Old New York World

E. T. Perkett, 1123 West Main st., Medford, self employed as a shingler, discovered a May 5, 1911 evening edition of the New York World today in the attic of the W. H. Muirhead residence, 2003 Hillcrest rd.

Perkett's wife, Betty, reported to the Mail Tribune this morning that Perkett found the paper while repairing the Muirhead residence roof.

Railroad Stock Hits New Low on Market

New York — (U.P.) — Stocks declined for their 15th out of 18 sessions today with railroad shares down to a new low since last Nov. 2.

Trading increased on the decline, indicating heavier liquidation of stock holdings. Recently the worst that could be said of the market was that a buyers' strike was in progress.

All sections were hit along with the rails. Industrials fell to a new low since Feb. 14 and utilities since Feb. 1. Dealings were the heaviest since Aug. 21.

Altogether in the period since Sept. 5, the loss in dollars was estimated at $12 billion on paper. Reasons for the decline were unchanged, hinging on Suez, elections, and bond market competition which in turn was made possible by tight money.

Tobacco met heavy selling that sent all of them to new lows. A new cancer scare provoked the selling. Losses in the group at the lows ran to more than 4 points in American Tobacco.

Other issues to lose 3 points or more included Aluminum Limited, Alcoa, American Home Products, Continental Oil, Du Pont, Firestone, National Dairy, National Lead, Reynolds Metals, Rohm and Haas and Liggett and Myers.

Dow-Jones Averages
Dow-Jones final stock averages: 30 industrials 468.70, off 6.55; 20 railroads 150.55, off 3.46; 15 utilities 64.93, off 0.64, and 65 stocks 165.38, off 2.51.

Sales today were about 2,600,000 shares compared with 1,720,000 shares Friday.
