

Rams Break Jinx To Beat Eagles 27-7

Los Angeles—(U.P.)—The Los Angeles Rams broke the Philadelphia Eagles' Memorial coliseum jinx Sunday to win their Western Division opener 27-7.

The win was the Rams' first over the Eagles in the coliseum and their second in eight games. The teams tied once.

A sturdy, charging line, the passing of quarterback Billy Wade, the brilliant running of halfback Ron Waller and five pass interceptions were the elements of the Ram victory.

Coach Sid Gilman's big Ram line of Les Richter, Art Hauser, Bud McFadin, Sid Fournet, Bob Griffin and Larry Morris stopped most of the Eagles' drives with hard charging and pass interceptions took care of the rest.

Pass Intercepted
The Eagles' only score came on the second play from scrimmage in the first quarter when quarterback Norman Van Brocklin threw a short pass to the Rams' 28-yard line where it was intercepted by back Rocky Ryan, who returned the ball to the 11. Halfback Ted Wegert took it over from there on the next play.

Sam Wesley Apparently Lost by OSC

Corvallis—(U.P.)—Oregon State today faced possible loss of fleet back Sam Wesley for the season after a report that he had attended another school before enrolling here.

Wesley was held out of the Friday night game with Southern California. This was done after reports that he had attended classes at Lincoln college of Missouri.

The Oregonian said today that it had learned that Wesley had registered at the school which would make him ineligible for further action at OSC. Transfers from one four year college to another automatically lose a year of eligibility. Wesley played freshman football at OSC, which would cause a penalty loss of another year's eligibility.

Reports indicated the PCC Commissioner Victor Schmidt first found out about Wesley's earlier college attendance about Sept. 1 from an unidentified informant.

Wesley, as a sophomore, was a sparkplug for OSC last season and also stood out in the Beavers' opening win over Missouri.

George Shaw Sparks Colts In 28-21 Win Over Bears

By UNITED PRESS
The Chicago Cardinals topped a string of four upsets in the National football league opener Sunday by stealing the old and new tricks of the champion Cleveland Browns for a 9-7 triumph.

It was the first time the Cardinals have beaten professional football's most successful team. And they did it by kicking three field goals—one of the weapons the Browns have used so successfully in winning six Eastern division titles and three league crowns since 1950.

The Cardinals even beat the Browns in what had loomed as a duel of "space helmets." Coach Paul Brown had planned to use his closed circuit radio system to talk to his quarterback but it broke down and he had to use his old system of alternating guards to call Cleveland's plays.

Coach Ray Richards popped up with a surprise electronic hearing device and used it to call about half the Cardinal plays.

Two Favorites Win
The Los Angeles Rams and New York Giants were the only favorites able to win as the league began its 37th season. The Rams, defending Western Division champions, defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 27-7, and the Giants beat the San Francisco Forty-Niners, 38-21, but the underdogs made merry in the other games.

The Baltimore Colts, with quarterback George Shaw passing for two others, upended the Chicago Bears—pre-season favorites for the Western division title, 28-21; the Pittsburgh Steelers whipped the Washington Redskins, 30-13; and the Detroit Lions edged the Green Bay Packers, 20-16.

Vancouver Firm to Start Study Of State's Industrial Potential

Portland—Sandwell and company, Inc., of Vancouver, B.C., forest products consulting engineers, will carry out the first major step in implementing Stanford Research Institute's study of Oregon's industrial potential.

Signing of a survey contract between Sandwell and the Oregon Development commission was announced in Portland today by Commission Chairman Joseph W. Smith of Portland.

The Canadian firm, which has major research projects under way on this continent and in Europe and Asia, "is starting its Oregon study immediately," Smith said.

Forest-Related

Stanford's findings made it clear that Oregon's most important group of manufacturing opportunities will continue to be related to forest products at least for the near future. The institute recommended at the same time that the Oregon commission make detailed studies of the most promising industrial possibilities uncovered by SRI, in order to work up basic data covering such essentials as raw material, labor, market and services characteristics.

Sandwell will define types and quantities of wood in Oregon, according to Smith. The Vancouver engineers will determine the processes to which a given wood can best be adapted and will also produce engineering data which will tell the state development agency how many units, for example, are needed to justify location of a chipboard plant.

Smith said that Sandwell, the commission and communities which are shown to have a good potential, will work cooperatively toward expansion of Oregon's timber-based payrolls.

Legislative Authorization

The Stanford study was authorized by the 1955 Legislature. It defines Oregon's growth and employment patterns and specific manufacturing opportunities and suggests future action designed to translate these opportunities into Oregon jobs and products.

Research conducted for the Oregon commission by SRI indicated myriad opportunities for small plants oriented to serve local and regional markets. Most of the possibilities lie in about 30 types of manufacturing which the institute grouped under chemicals; textiles and apparel; machinery, metal products and instruments, and miscellaneous.

Listed with timber as a substantial contributor to Oregon's fairly immediate industrial growth were the livestock industry and processing of fruits, vegetables and meats.

Paul Douglas Charges GOP With Corruption

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—(U.P.)—Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) charged the Eisenhower administration with corruption Sunday night but said it has gone almost unnoticed because of a favorable press.

Douglas, speaking at a Democratic rally, said former Air Secretary Harold Talbot received $132,000 in fees while in office was arrested on charges of statutory rape of a 12-year-old Oregon City girl.

LC Pioneers, CI Coyotes Win In NWC

By UNITED PRESS
The North West conference counting campaign is only one week old but the league flag could be decided this week end.

College of Idaho and Lewis and Clark tangled Saturday night in a game at Caldwell. These two teams tied for the title a year ago, were rated the top two contenders again this season and both made their way through opening round action Saturday.

Lewis and Clark had considerably more difficulty than did College of Idaho. The Pioneers had to come from behind in the final period to eke out a 19-17 win over Linfield. College of Idaho rolled along easily, drubbing Pacific 39-7 in its opening game Saturday.

Fresno Raps Willamette
The other two conference members stepped outside the league. Willamette spotted Fresno four touchdowns then scored two itself Saturday night as the Bulldogs rolled up a 27-12 win. Whitman nudged Eastern Oregon 32-31 in a free scoring game.

Oregon Collegiate conference play opens this week end with Oregon college at Eastern Oregon and Portland State at Oregon Tech. Southern Oregon has a non-counter scheduled with Chico State.

In action last Saturday, Portland State spotted Central Washington 17 points in the first quarter then came to life but still lost 23-6. Compton racked up an impressive 45-0 win over Oregon Tech. Sacramento State posted a 27-12 win over Southern Oregon and the Seattle Ramblers edged Oregon college, 26-25.

The soil bank program, an issue in the political campaign, took effect last summer. It provides payments to farmers who reduce acreage of surplus crops. The department said it now appears that farmers will get "somewhat" less than the $261 billion it estimated they could earn under the soil bank program this year. Since making the estimate, the department has allowed farmers who violated 1956 soil bank contracts through "misunderstanding" to cancel or revise their agreements.
