

World Series Heroes Tell 'How I Do It'

Hodges Near Gehrig Total

(Editor's Note: Gil Hodges slammed out a single and two doubles Friday to drive in four runs in a 13-8 Brooklyn victory that put the Dodgers two games up on the Yankees in the World Series. In the following dispatch, he tells how he did it.)

By GIL HODGES
As Told To The United Press
Brooklyn — (U.P.) — You can never tell about anything in baseball and that goes double in a World Series.

Remember that 1952 series against the Yankees? I'll never forget it. That's the one where I couldn't buy a hit in 21 times up. In this one so far, I've driven in a total of seven runs and they tell me Lou Gehrig holds the Series record with nine RBIs.

Well, don't worry about it, because his record probably will stand up.

Wear Self Out
That's what I mean about World Series games being so unpredictable. You wear the ball out one day and the next day all you do is wear yourself out.

For me, though, this was the biggest day in a series, only it'll be a lot bigger if we can go on to win two more games.

Of the three hits I got Friday, the second one—my first double off Tom Morgan in the fourth inning—gave me the biggest boot because it drove in the two runs that broke a 7-7 tie. I picked out a good curve ball on that one.

An inning later, when I got my second double, I hit a killer.

McLoughlin Clips Comet Ninth 21-0

McLoughlin Junior high's ninth graders, improved over their opening performance of the previous week, clipped the Crater freshmen 21 to 0 at Central Point Friday afternoon.

With the line charging better and the backs covering more effectively, the Bulldogs went for two touchdowns in the first quarter and for one in the second.

McLoughlin went to a touchdown the second time it got its hands on the ball. A 55-yard march ended with Curtis Saltmarsh going on a six-yard plunge and Skip Bennett running the extra point.

Pass Scores
A 27-yard pass play, Bennett to Ray Konopasek, was the payoff of a 55 to 60-yard push and Saltmarsh crossed with the extra.

Dick Reams recovered a fumble on the Crater 40. The Bulldog surge concluded with Bob Hamilton traveling the last six yards. Bennett ran for a conversion.

McLoughlin gained 185 yards rushing to Crater's 55 and had five first downs to the Comet team's one.

Reams, 230-pounder, sparked the line on defense and Bennett proved a hard hitter for the Bulldogs both ways.

Eagle Point Scores 33-6 Victory Over Phoenix High

Eagle Point — Eagle Point wore down a scrapping Phoenix high gridiron contingent Friday night to whack the Pirates 33 to 6 in the District 6 A-2 starter for both schools. It was also the second win in the Rogue circuit for the Eagles.

First quarter count favored the Eagles 7 to 0 and they were on top 20 to 6 at the half. Scoring was completed in the fourth quarter.

Jack Greb crossed for three EP touchdowns and Errol Tresham and Norm Hooper with one each. Gary Simmonds threw to Jim James for the Phoenix score.

Tresham's nine-yard TD run ended a 51-yard drive which required 10 plays. Ralph McClure bucked for the extra. Greb then came up with an 82-yard run to make the score 13 to 0.

Fumble Recovered
A Phoenix recovery of a Jim Duncan muff on the Eagle 11 set up the Pirate counter. The TD pass came three plays later. Greb next rambled for 76 yards to the pay area and McClure ran the conversion.

In the third quarter Greb ran the kick-off back to the Phoenix 27 and on the fifth play of the opportunity Greb crossed the last horizontal stripe from the six. Hooper drove from the 12 to tally for EP in the fourth after his club got the ball on the Phoenix 45. Greb hurled to Wayne Christian to convert.

Eagle Point netted 427 yards to 72 for Phoenix and was out in front in first downs 13 to 3.

'Old Folks' Helps Yanks

(Editor's note: Forty-year-old Enos (Country) Slaughter powered the Yankees to their first World Series victory over the Dodgers Saturday and he tells about it in the following dispatch.)

By ENOS SLAUGHTER
(As Told To The United Press)
New York — (U.P.) — Some of the guys call me "Old Folks" but I felt prouder than a high school kid on graduation day when I saw that ball sail into the seats in the sixth.

It wouldn't be exactly right to say that Saturday's homer gave me the biggest kick of my baseball career because, truthfully speaking, I got a great thrill out of every hit I'm lucky enough to collect.

But I'd be fibbing if I didn't own up to the homer meant something a little extra special for me. You know, I'm getting toward the second half of my career, so to speak, and you like to prove you can still do it, even though they call you "Old Folks."

That homer against Roger Craig was the third one I've hit in World Series competition. The other two came while I was still with the Cardinals. I hit my first series homer off Red Ruffing of the Yankees in 1942 and the last one I hit before this one was against Tex Hughson of the Red Sox in 1946.

Kind of a long time between homers, wasn't it?

The ball I hit off Craig Saturday was down — a low, fast ball, I think. All I know is that it was down.

Talent Turns Fumble Into Winning TD

Rogue River—Dick Bradford fell on a fumbled ball in the Chiefain end zone for the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter here Friday night as Talent chalked up a 13 to 7 Jackson County B league football win over Rogue River high.

The ball rolled over the pay line when Lawrence Wagner of the Chiefs was tackled on the RR 10.

Fred Bond went over from the one-yard line in the second quarter to end a 60-yard campaign for the Chief TD. Fred Hopper kicked the extra.

In the third quarter Phil Combs broke around left end and journeyed 65 yards for a Talent six-pointer. Ron Weindhold made it seven and a tie game with the conversion slam.

It was the first Talent football win over Rogue River in four years. The Chiefs dominated the first half in which Talent netted only 16 yards from scrimmage but over the long haul the Talent line outcharged the home forward wall in a tough fought fray.

Talent for the full distance had a rushing yardage net of 131 and Rogue River was close with 129. In the air RR gained 67 and Talent only two. Rogue River had 11 first downs and the Bulldogs eight.

Iowa guard Frank Bloomquist broke through to block the conversion attempt.

In the third period, the Oregon State forward wall opened a big hole in the left side of the Iowa line and halfback Paul Lowe scooted through for 49 yards and the second Oregon State touchdown.

Iowa began its first touchdown march on the Oregon State 45 where a wind-blown punt went out of bounds. Fullback John Nocera, a 210-pound battering ram, almost alone carried the Hawkeyes to the Oregon State 10 and then threw a pass to end Frank Gilliam for the touchdown.
