Cotton Car Coats Now Top Fashion

Designers are showing high-fashion car coats in newsy silhouettes and in a great variety of cotton weaves, textures and prints, reports the National Cotton Council.

Printed cottons, corduroys, poplins and twills are featured in short, regular and even seven-eighth length coats. All are water repellent. Colors include natural, white, platinum, khaki, loden green and red.

Brilliant plaid corduroy is used for one eye-catching car coat which boasts its own matching boy's cap. A bright red cotton print is selected by one designer for a short coat which he lines in quilted poplin and shows with a skirt or olive drab cotton twill pants.

Black and white, a favorite color scheme in the fall fashion picture, is used to make a streamlined coat in white poplin set off with a head scarf in black and white printed cotton. The same print is used to line the coat in quilted version for cozy warmth. Pennsylvania Dutch designs are embroidered in black on white poplin to make another car coat in this smart color scheme.

For the outdoor enthusiast who has a bit of the siren in her make-up, there is the car coat made in velveteen, printed with a leopard pattern.

Church World Service Appeals For Clothing Needed Overseas

The appeal for warm used clothing for overseas relief is meeting with a good response in the Rogue valley, according to officials at the state office of the Council of Churches, Portland. The drive is sponsored by Church World Service.

It is interesting to note that among the larger churches assisting in this work, First Presbyterian church of Medford, has collected well over a thousand pounds of clothing and bedding. Other churches also are reporting success in this clothing drive.

Time for collecting has been extended to October 10 for pickup by van which is to be sent from Medford, Calif. Smaller churches not having many boxes of clothing are asked to take these to First Methodist church or to First Presbyterian church for pickup since it is desired to have as few clothing depots as possible in order to cooperate fully with the free van service. All interested persons are invited to assist in the drive which is perhaps more needful this year than in some time past for the storehouses in the bay area depleted of materials for distribution overseas, it is stated.

Instructions for packing are as follows: Place articles in cartons of any size, tie well with strong cord and address to Church World Service Center, 1010 Ninth street, Modesto, Calif. Churches are asked to assist in shipping charges overseas which amounts to eight cents per pound. Names of churches may be written on boxes sent. For further possible needed instructions call 2-2914. Amounts for shipping expenses may be left at the Presbyterian church or the Methodist church and made out to Church World Service, in care of Mark A. Talney.

Those directing the drive urge that all articles be prepared and at one of the depots not later than October 10.

First Baptist Church Women's Fellowship To Meet on Tuesday

"Harvest Time Rally Time" will be the theme of the business-missionary meeting of Women's Fellowship of First Baptist church to be held Tuesday, October 9, in the church annex. The program will start with a dessert luncheon at 1 p.m.

Devotional for the afternoon will be given by Mrs. D. R. Zimmers, the mission report by Mrs. Angus Lindstrom on "Missions in the Belgian Congo."

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. R. S. Wilder, Mrs. Walter Norton and Mrs. Geneva Ruth. The social committee will be Mrs. Minnie Alberts, Mrs. E. H. Niedermeyer, Mrs. Minnie Bryant and Mrs. Crook Hunter, Sr.

All women of First Baptist church automatically belong to the Women's Fellowship; a special invitation is issued by the officers for all who possibly can to attend this meeting.

Japan maintains its lead with the world's largest commercial fishing fleet.

Those directing the drive urge that all articles be prepared and at one of the depots not later than October 10.
