ADIOS-VAMOS A MEXICO—The Rogue Valley fruit harvest almost complete, Mexican laborers are on their way home. Leaving by bus in contingents of 50 to 100, spaced several days apart, only 129 remained this morning after a group of 47 departed last night. Above, Francisco Gonzales, Salvador Ochoa and Jose Zepeda, all of Concepcion de Buenos Aires, Mexico, bid goodbye. A total of 451 have returned to Mexico. Those remaining will wind up the harvest of late varieties of pears, which should be finished within a week, according to county agents.

DODGERS WIN, 1 TO 0, IN 10TH

ROBINSON'S BLOW SCORES GILLIAM

Brooklyn—(U.P.)—Jackie Robinson singled with two out in the 10th inning to drive in Junior Gilliam and give the Brooklyn Dodgers a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees today, evening the World Series at three games each.

The blow, a hard line drive which went over Enos Slaughter's head in left field, gave Clem Labine, the Dodgers relief specialist, the nod over Bullet Bob Turley of the Yankees in one of the greatest duels in series history.

Turley, striking out 11 men and pitching without a windup as Don Larsen did Monday, paved the way for his own defeat in the first extra inning when with one out he walked Junior Gilliam.

Brooklyn—(U.P.)—Manager Walter Alston of Brooklyn today named Don Newcombe, his 27-game winner, to pitch the seventh and deciding game of the World Series Wednesday.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees said he would start Johnny Kucks, an 18-game winner, "unless I change my mind."

Pee Wee Reese, trying to bunt his way on, grounded one to Turley who threw him out at first, Gilliam going to second.

Then as they did in the eighth inning, the Yankees purposely put on Duke Snider with a base on balls to bring up Robinson. In that eighth Robinson had popped out, but this time, after taking a wide one for a ball and fouling off the next pitch, he lined one to left. For a time it seemed Slaughter might make the catch, but he couldn't quite reach it, and it bounced off the wall as Gilliam raced home from second with the run that kept the Dodgers alive in this topsy-turvy World Series.

Heart Breaker for Turley to Lose

It was a heart breaker for Turley to lose for he gave up only four hits, and two of them were flukes. He also struck out 11, but he gave up eight bases on balls and in the end it was his wildness which brought about his defeat.

It was the first time since 1913 that a series game went nine innings without a run and marked the first series shutout hurled at Ebbets field since Burleigh Grimes did it for the Dodgers against Cleveland back in 1920.

Court of Appeals Refuses To Block Hells Canyon Dams

No Instance of Violation Found

Washington —(U.P.)— The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused today to block private construction of three dams in the Hells Canyon region of the Snake river.

A three-judge panel of the court said it could find no instance in which the Federal Power Commission "went beyond the confines of the Constitution for the governing statute" in issuing licenses for the dams.

Several Million Spent

The licenses were granted last year to the Idaho Power Co. It already has spent several million dollars on construction of the first dam.

The suit attempting to block the private project was filed by the National Hells Canyon Association which represents a number of public power groups.

The Senate earlier this year defeated a bill to authorize a $350 million federal dam in Hells Canyon. This project was advocated by the Hells Canyon Association.

Violation Argued

The association had argued in the Court of Appeals that the FPC violated the Federal Power act by not recommending federal construction, and by not making an independent survey of the project.

The court ruled, however, that the commission had conducted what was "in effect an adversary hearing" lasting a year or more to compare the public and private plans.

The court said it had no authority to go behind the commission's finding. It therefore rejected the association's request for a court order blocking the private dams.

Dulles Declares Suez Must Not Be Used as 'Instrument of Policy'

United Nations, N.Y.—(U.P.)—The United States said today settlement of the Suez crisis depends on "insulation" of the waterway from international politics.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the United Nations Security council that unless Egypt agrees that the canal must not be used as "an instrument of national policy" by any country there is little hope of a negotiated settlement.

Dulles again voiced full American support for the Anglo-French resolution calling for international control of the waterway and urging Egypt to deal with the western-formed Suez Canal Users' association while negotiating a settlement.

Last Speech

Dulles, the last speaker in the council's debate which included six foreign ministers before him, called for a Suez settlement "by peaceful means . . . in conformity with the principles of justice and international law."

Dulles said the canal was Egyptian only in the sense that it passes through "what is now Egypt."

"But the canal is not, and never has been, an internal affair of Egypt with which Egypt could do what it wanted," he said. "It has always been, from the very day of its opening, an international waterway dedicated to the free passage of the vessels of all nations."

Scores Russian Speech

Dulles complimented the council members for the debate, which he said "has on the whole been temperate and constructive."

"I say, 'on the whole,'" he said, "for there have been exceptions. One such was the portrayal by the Soviet Foreign Minister (Dmitri Shepilov) of so-called 'U.S. monopolies' clad, as he put it, in 'snow-white robes' and with 'whetted appetites' on the prowl throughout the world seeking new victims."

With all 11 council members and Egypt having been heard, the council went into secret session in an effort to get down to a more frank discussion of Suez. The United States especially was counting on the secret talks to produce real results.

Dry Kiln Destroyed At Donna Company

Central Point—A dry kiln full of green pine lumber was destroyed by fire at the Donna Timber Products company plant on Beal lane last night.

More than 50 men and 10 trucks responded to the call, which Central Point Rural Fire Protection district received at 10:09 p.m. Men were on the scene until about 7:30 a.m. today.

Origin of the fire was not determined, according to L. C. Lisenbee, chief of the rural fire department. He said the kiln was a complete loss with the exception of electric motors and air compressor.

Firemen concentrated on saving nearby buildings. Only damage to other buildings was charred roofing paper, Lisenbee said.

He said that several mill workers and bystanders assisted firemen. Sixteen lines of hose were used by various fire departments.

Central Point Rural department sent four trucks and 19 men to the scene. Other departments which responded under the mutual aid agreement were Central Point city department with one truck and 20 men and Medford with one truck and three men. Elk Lumber company dispatched three trucks and six men, and the state department of forestry sent one truck and two men to the scene.

Graham said he is contacting other state and national candidates to determine if they plan to attend in person or appoint representatives to be present at the Fair.

He said most local candidates have indicated they plan to attend, and several state office candidates also are planning to participate.

Apple Harvest Starts In Jackson County

Apple harvest is getting under way this week in most orchards in Jackson county, according to C. B. Cordy, county horticulture agent.

Cordy said the quality of this year's apple crop appears good, though the quantity is relatively low. He attributed the low yield this season to normal yield alternation. Apples, he explained, grow abundantly one year and in less quantity the next year.

Washington —(U.P.)— Average hourly pay of factory workers hit an all-time high of $2 last month, the Labor Department has reported.

Planning Group to Review Zoning for Municipal Airport

The Medford planning commission last night decided to review the airport zoning plans and make a preliminary report and recommendation to the airport zoning board.

The airport zoning board authorized the planning commission to review the plan. The commission called for a public hearing on the airport zoning regulation Nov. 13 at the city hall.

City Attorney E. R. Bashaw presented to the commission a map of the airport area along with regulations for zoning apareas to the airport. He pointed out that the map and regulations had been compiled in accordance with CAA regulations and that the purpose of the airport zoning is to regulate the height of structures within the airport approach.

The commission recommended that the city council approve the change of zone on South Grape st. from 10th to 11th sts. from class II (multiple family) to class IIIA (limited commercial). The action followed discussion that the area is changing from a residential area to an industrial area.

The commission recommended that the city council approve a request from the First Free Methodist church, 1266 South Peach st., Medford, to be annexed to Medford. A request from the Church of the Nazarene to vacate First st. between Holly and Grape sts. was denied.

The commission decided the vacation might possibly create a fire hazard and that streets should not be vacated because of the difficulty in opening them originally. Purpose of the request was to secure added safety conditions for children in the area.

Eisenhower Schedules Speech at Pittsburgh

Washington —(U.P.)— President Eisenhower flies to Pittsburgh today for another "gloves off" speech answering what the White House called campaign "misstatements" by Adlai E. Stevenson.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made clear that Mr. Eisenhower again would use the direct, hard-hitting pitch for votes he employed last week in addresses at Cleveland, Ohio, and Lexington, Ky.

"The President will take up some of the misstatements that have been made in this campaign by the opposition and answer them factually," Hagerty told newsmen.

The speech, before a Republican state rally at Pittsburgh's Hunt Armory, will be carried over a NBC radio-television network to a nationwide audience, 9-9:30 p.m. (EDT).

Autopsy Called in Death of Medford Man in City Jail

Fay Walter Ferris, 56, of 330 North Front st., Medford, died about 8 a.m. today in the city jail. He was confined there yesterday on a charge of being intoxicated in public, police records show.

Police Chief Charles Champlin said he has requested that an autopsy be performed to determine the cause of death. It will probably be conducted Monday, he stated.

Police records show Ferris was arrested about 1:40 p.m. yesterday after Officer Milton Hansen found him lying near the railroad tracks at the intersection of Front and Jackson sts. He went there after Larry Russell Rock, 3074 Crater Lake highway, had observed the man and called the police station.

Delirium Tremens

The officer's report indicated Ferris was intoxicated, apparently suffering from delirium tremens, and had a cut on his forehead.

The police officer summoned Medford Ambulance service, and Ferris was taken to Sacred Heart hospital, where a physician stitched up the forehead cut, and recommended Ferris be taken back to jail to sober up.

Chief Champlin said Ferris spent the night in jail. This morning, several officers and other prisoners observed him mumbling to himself, apparently still delirious. He died a few moments later, the report said.

County Coroner Carlos Morris was called immediately, and took charge of the body.

Radio Highlights

President Eisenhower will be heard over station KMED (1440 kc) at 9 o'clock tonight.

Hart, Miss Collard Submit Resignations

Two of the principal officers of the county health department, Sanitarian Bob Hart and Miss Dorothy Collard, RN, supervisor of public health nursing, have resigned, it was learned today.

Dr. A. Erin Merkel, public health physician, and head of the department, confirmed the resignations have been submitted. Miss Collard's was submitted Friday and Hart's this morning, he said.

Dr. Merkel declined to comment on a rumor that he, himself, was considering resigning. He said there "are no commitments."

Health Education

The two resignations follow by a few months the resignation of Miss Dorothy Huskey, who has been public health educator with the department for the past several years. Her resignation, it was reported this morning, had been requested by Dr. Merkel at the insistence of members of the county court. She was given a hearing before the court at which time she was told the reasons for the action, according to County Judge Rodney Keating. Details of what transpired at the hearing have not been made public.

Both Hart and Miss Collard indicated that both salary and job security reasons entered in to their resignations. Hart, who has been receiving a salary of $4,500 here, has accepted a position in Colorado which will pay him $5,500, with a raise to $7,500 in three years, Dr. Merkel said. In his letter, Hart said his present salary here is apparently at a maximum, even though it is just barely beyond the recommended minimum for the position, and no provisions are made for systematic salary increases.

He added that he feels "insecure" in his job, and thus cannot give his work full capacity.

Lack of Security

Miss Collard, in her letter of resignation, cited the lack of job security "due to county personnel policies," the lack of a merit system ,and the impossibility of advancing beyond a minimal salary.

Dr. Merkel said there has been considerable criticism in recent weeks of the action resulting in Miss Huskey's leaving the department, and indicated that both the recent resignations were connected at least in part, with that action. He also said the fact that salary increases are not in sight for departmental personnel has been the cause of considerable dissatisfaction.

Judge Keating this morning said he did not recall asking Dr. Merkel to ask for Miss Huskey's resignation. "It wasn't quite as broad as that," he said. But he said he did feel her resigning was in the best interests of the department.

'Good Civil Servant'

He said he was sorry to learn of Hart's resignation, and that he is a "darn good civil servant." "I regret very much that this thing came up this way," he said.

Dr. Merkel said the county board of health, an advisory body of community health leaders, will meet Thursday, and that the matter will be discussed at that time.

The two resignations bring to four the number of county personnel resigning in recent months. Jim Armson last month resigned as deputy juvenile officer to accept better paying employment.

Approximately 125 appointments have been made for donations of blood tomorrow, when the Bloodmobile unit will be stationed at the Medford Elks temple between 1 and 5 p.m.

Red Cross officials said a total of 250 donors will be needed to meet Medford's quota. Appointments may still be made this afternoon by calling the Red Cross office in the courthouse, 3-3813.

Officials expressed hope that a large number of people who have not made appointments would arrive to donate blood during the Bloodmobile visit. The Medford Lions club has urged club members and residents to make appointments, and noted that 125 more donors are needed.

Federal District Court Adjourns

Federal court adjourned here today until further notice. The case of George F. Valerio, George Pinneo, and H. J. Pinneo, all of Sacramento, against Lewis J. Fullerton, Roseburg, in a suit for fraud, concluded the session, which resumed Monday after a short adjournment.

Federal Court Judge Gus Solomon took the case under advicement. The plaintiffs were all of Fir Operations, a lumber firm, of Sacramento, and charged that Fullerton was in debt to them for $10,950.07 from a timber contract made June 26, 1952.

Yesterday Judge Solomon ruled that an estate belonging to Milo Smocovich, who died in Ashland recently was the property of Siskiyou county. The case involved the West Coast Life Insurance company, doing business in Oregon, against Floyd Merrill, public administrator of Siskiyou county, in an interpleader suit arising out of the ownership of Smocoviches' estate. The estate was valued at $3,000.

The insurance company stated that they had no title to the estate, that it was either the property of Merrill or Joseph Hosick, administrator of the estate.
