

Cover Crop Planting Should Start Before Fall Rains Commence

Cover crop planting should begin as soon as possible before fall rains start, according to C. B. Cordy, county horticulture agent.

Orchardists may use natural cover crops, such as grasses and other voluntary plants, or cultivate the ground and plant vetch or rye, he said.

Natural cover crops, if substantial, are considered preferable from the economic standpoint, but require as much fertilizer as any other cover crop.

If the crop is to be planted, Cordy recommended rye or vetch, Common or Hungarian vetch should be planted at the rate of 60 pounds per acre. If circumstances are not favorable for growth of vetch, rye is recommended.

Fast Growing

Cordy said abuzzi rye is fast growing and in early April will give better tonnage than other varieties, he said. It should be planted at the rate of 60 to 80 pounds per acre.

If vetch and rye are to be combined, Cordy suggested reducing the amount of rye so it will not choke out the vetch. The recommended rate is 40 pounds and 20 pounds of rye per acre. Two hundred to 300 pounds of ammonium sulphate per acre is recommended as cover crop fertilizer. Additional fertilizer applications should be made for benefit of the trees.

Yields will be better if cover crops are planted before the rains begin, Cordy emphasized.

Alaska Election Tilts To Demos

Juneau, Alaska—(AP)—Alaska's "weathervane" general election tilted slightly to the Democrats early today as the party to press the territory's bold bid for statehood.

Voters throughout the vast territory balloted Tuesday for two unofficial U.S. senators and one representative under an Alaska-Tennessee plan which would send their choices to Washington to lobby for statehood.

With but 40 of the territory's 286 precincts reporting, unofficial returns showed former Gov. Ernest Gruening, a Democrat, leading his Republican opponent, John Butrovich of Fairbanks, for one "Senate" seat by a 1,436-1,282 count.

The other token senatorial race showed Democrat William Egan of Valdez ahead of his GOP opponent Robert Atwood, Anchorage newspaper publisher, by a 1,479 to 1,176 margin.

For the unofficial seat in the House of Representatives, Democrat Ralph Rivers of Fairbanks led Republican Charles Burdick of Juneau 1,579-1,057.

Butte Falls Youths Awarded 4-H Pins

Nineteen Butte Falls youths received pins for first, second and third year 4-H club work at a meeting of the Butte Falls Parent-Teacher association Monday.

First year awards went to Daniel McKeen, Gary Price, Donny Ash, Arthur Ellis, Daniel Edmondson, Linda Lou Webster, Jimmy Lytle, Garland Ruddle, and Martin Lytle.

Receiving second year pins were Beverly Mattern, Dick Norling, Leon Todd, Raymond Abbott and Roger Allifson.

Third year pins went to Dorothy Fuiten, Carolyn Fuiten, Martha Dalton, Darlene Edmondson and Wayne Fuiten.

Gene McCurley, agriculture field representative, First National bank, presented the awards and gave a talk on 4-H club work. J. W. Bigham, Antelope 4-H club, leader and chairman of the Jackson County Fair association, accompanied McCurley.

Senate Committee Calls Hodge 'Liar'

Chicago—(AP)—Former state Auditor Orville E. Hodge was called a liar and told he may be denied parole for not cooperating with a Senate committee investigating his $1 million embezzlement of state funds.

Sen. J. William Fulbright Tuesday asked Hodge, currently serving a 12-15 year prison term, how he spent the money he pilfered from the state treasury.

"I don't know," Hodge responded to the Arkansas Democrat's questions during a public hearing of the U. S. Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

"I think you're lying to the committee," Fulbright snapped.

Hodge's memory had failed completely when he tried to account for a series of fraudulent checks totaling $85,000.

"When we ask you trivial questions your memory works fine," Fulbright said. "But when we ask you about phony checks, you refuse to tell us."

"We have a system of parole," he added. "It seems to me that if you had a more cooperative attitude you'd be more likely to get the benefits of the parole system."

State to be Short Dentists in 1975

Washington—(AP)—Good news for small fry and others who are in the habit of stalling about going to the dentist.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported today a survey shows it will be pretty hard to get a dental appointment in 11 western states by 1975.

The survey estimates that unless schools turn out more dentists the 11 states will have about 16,000 dentists in 1975—5,000 short of the number needed to maintain the supply at the current level. The survey estimates the states will be about 20,000 dentists short on the basis of expected increasing demand for dental care.

The federal survey—first of a nationwide series—covered Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Marketing Groups Hold Meeting Here

The conference of organized cooperative marketing associations which market Pacific Coast fruits to processors, was held in Medford recently with representatives from five organizations attending.

Presidents, managers and directors discussed legal contract problems, increasing membership and plans for a national conference of bargaining associations in Chicago in January.

Attending the conference were representatives of the California Canning Peach association, the California Freestone Peach Association, the California Canning Pear association, the Washington-Oregon Pear Association and the Washington Freestone Peach association.
