Medford Lady Elks To Give Luncheon

Medford Lady Elks will entertain the Ashland Lady Elks at a party Tuesday afternoon, October 16. Luncheon will be followed by entertainment and cards. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock and each Medford member is asked to bring a salad of her own choice.

Those planning to attend are asked to call Mrs. Frank Little at 2-4225 or Mrs. B. L. Marten at 3-3200. Reservations are to be made on or before October 11 in order that the committee may have the opportunity of making better preparations for the party, those in charge state.

Rogue River PTA To Meet Tonight

Rogue River—Rogue River Parent Teacher association will meet at 8 p.m. today at the high school gymnasium.

The program will include a discussion on the Child Guidance clinic by Miss Mary Vandenberg of Medford. PTA officials have invited all residents interested to attend because October is membership month.

Laundry Institute Gives Information On Synthetic Blends

The introduction of the many new blends of synthetic and natural fibers into the washable textile field can cause housewives many headaches.

Laundrying and textile technicians at American Institute of Laundrying, research and educational center for the professional laundry industry, point out that cottons have set the pace for housewives on maintenance procedures. Many housewives tend to treat all garments as though they were cotton. This will result in trouble both in washing and finishing.

For example, a great number of cotton-nylon blends are used in washables today. If such garment is dried in an automatic drier, the fabric may have wrinkles set in it by the spinner. If the garment is ironed with a cotton setting, the nylon in the blend can be damaged by heat.

As a general rule, A.I.L. authorities advise handling according to the capabilities of the synthetic in a blend. This means that if a nylon is in the blend, the temperature of the washing water should be less hot than if the garment was 100% cotton. It also means that the synthetic setting should be used during ironing.

Try adding to your basic oil vinegar dressing recipe 1/2 teaspoon of oregano, a dash of garlic powder and Italian red wine. The taste is delightful. Shake well before using.

REVIVAL MEETINGS—The Pilgrim Holiness church, Pine and Sixth sts., Central Point, will hold a series of revival meetings starting Sunday, Oct. 14, through Sunday, Oct. 28. Evangelist will be the Rev. H. B. Kreider of Orlando, Fla., and father of the Rev. H. James Kreider, pastor of the Central Point church. Services will be held nightly except Saturday starting at 7:30 p.m.

Rummage Sale Said Successful; Guild to Meet

St. Mark's Episcopal women have reported that the recent rummage sale was unusually successful, with about $825 realized. In addition, about 300 pounds of good clothing were given to the Medford Council of Church Women for shipment overseas.

St. Elizabeth's guild of the church will meet Friday, October 12, in the parish house at 12:30 o'clock for luncheon. It is stated that an important business meeting will follow.

Grange Notes

Upper Rogue Grange

Upper Rogue Grange met in regular session Thursday, Oct. 4, with George Kinsky and Kay Finch, of the U. S. Forest Service showing moving pictures. Visitors attending were Mr. and Mrs. Shy Morthland, of Roxy Ann Grange. The fire insurance agent reported on a new policy for brother and sister Greenman.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Work were voted to become members. Morthland presented some new ash trays to our Grange.

It was also voted to grant permission to the Rogue Wonderland assn., to hold their meeting, Jan. 2, in the Grange hall. Jackson county council meeting will be held at 8 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 13, in Eagle Point Grange hall.

Lost Girls Respond

To Dinner Bell Sound

North Granby, Conn.—(U.P.)—Police sent out a public address system and a siren or two in an attempt to help three 13-year-old girls find their way out of the woods in which they were lost.

The girls came home—after hearing a dinner bell from the back yard of an aunt of one of them.

Wondering what to do with that cake in the freezer to make it a little bit different? Thaw (takes about 2 hours), cut into wedges and spread with softened butter, sprinkle with mixture of cinnamon and sugar, broil until bubbly. The family will think it's a brand new cake, just out of the oven.

Brother and Sister Harding served refreshments.

MEDFORD (OREGON) MAIL TRIBUNE—THREE

Rogers' Birthplace Due for Inundation

Talala, Okla.—(U.P.)—The birthplace of the humorist, Will Rogers, is in an area which will be inundated when the $41,000,000 Oologah Dam project is completed in 1960.

The old homestead of Clem Rogers, the comedian's father, overlooks a grassy valley on a 2,000-acre tract some three miles southeast of here. Oologah, which Will claimed as home, is about six miles south of here.

Most of Will's belongings are on display at the Rogers memorial at Claremore. But the pasture where he learned to handle a rope and perform other ranching chores holds memories of the humorist's early days.

The old Rogers house—a log cabin converted to a white frame dwelling—is occupied now by one of Will's nephews, Herb McSpadden. He says the house probably can be moved, but the land is doomed.

Smith Announces New Superintendent

Salem—(U.P.)—Appointment of P. J. Squier, former warden of the federal prison at McNeil island, as superintendent of the new Oregon State correctional institution was announced today by Gov. Elmo Smith.

The federal prison service veteran of 30 years is now superintendent of the Monroe reformatory in Washington state.

Gov. Smith said Squier's appointment will become effective July 1, 1957, but that he will start work Nov. 8 as a consultant to the architect for the new correctional institution to assist detailed planning on the Salem-area building. The institution is expected to be completed by Jan. 1, 1959.

John Richardson, of San Francisco, spent several days visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Richardson, on Laurelhurst rd. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bitterling, of Eagle Point, were overnight guests recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Carlton. Word has been received of the sudden death of Mrs. Claude Close in Roseburg. Mr. and Mrs. Close have a home on Butte creek. One son, Leon, lives in Medford.
