

SHADY COVE-TRAIL Carnival Night Planned

Shady Cove-Trail — The regular meeting of the Shady Cove PTA was held at the Shady Cove school Tuesday, Oct. 9th. Preceding the meeting color slides, together with a taped commentary, were shown by Mrs. Al Cooper of Shady Cove. Two films, one of the prehistoric gardens near Port Orford, Ore., and one entitled "Lament of a Trucker's Husband," were viewed by members.

The business meeting was taken up mainly with plans for the coming Shady Cove carnival to be held Saturday, Oct. 27, at the Shady Cove school gym, starting at 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights, Oct. 25 and 26, are designated as work nights at the gym to set up booths for the carnival. Help is needed for these nights.

Mrs. Bill Kennedy, chairman of the ways and means committee, announced the workers for the various booths and said that several booths are still not taken. They are, the bounce ball, bean bag toss, comic photo booth and the witches pot. Anyone who would like to help in any of these booths is asked to contact Mrs. Kennedy at once at 2631.

Workers for the other booths are: cove, Mrs. Tex Burnett, Mrs. Dave Bergren and Mrs. Doll Larson; fish pond, Mrs. Gene House and Mrs. Ervin House; darts, Tex Burnett and Dave Bergren; parcel post, Mrs. Dale Sawyer and Mrs. Bill Kennedy; cream can throw, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mullen and Mrs. Delbert Spain; glass dish toss, Mrs. Jim Vanderlip and Mrs. Dee Stockton; cake walk, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kee; spook room, Mrs. Bernard Henry; food booth, Mrs. Jack Ross and Mrs. Clayton Knotts; hat booth, Mrs. Jim Sawyer and Mrs. Arthur Greenley; tickets, Mrs. Tony Haynie and Mrs. Carroll Watson. Ray Mullen will be master of ceremonies and Mrs. Mullen will have charge of the prizes. Prizes will be awarded the children for the best and most imaginative costumes. A door prize will be given.

The evening closed with serving of refreshments in the cafeteria by Mrs. Jim Vanderlip and Mrs. Dee Stockton. Queen candidates are: eighth grade, Eda Larson, seventh grade, Judy Watts; sixth grade, Gloria Collins, and fifth grade, Mary Weisbrod.

Child Guidance Clinic Has Been Operating Three Years

Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles discussing agencies served through contributions to the United Medford Crusade.)

The Southern Oregon Child Guidance clinic is beginning its fourth year this year along with the United Medford Crusade. A member agency, the clinic receives about 18 per cent of its budget from the UMC.

The clinic has helped more than 300 troubled children and their parents in the three years of its direct service program. Several more children have been helped through the clinic's other two programs.

Consultation and education reaches a wider range of children's problems. The clinic strives in its three programs toward a goal of working for better health and welfare for all children.

As different groups meet to study and understand healthy growth of personality, motivations, and behavior and begins to accept different behavior, a more positive atmosphere is shown through the courtesy of Willard Hubbell, Boy Scout executive, of Valley Forge, Pa., who sent the films to his father, Grant Hubbell, of Trail, member of the Shady Cove Rotary club. Films of this nature show what can be accomplished by American youth today, when guided in the right direction.
