The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Bell's Palsy

Many persons ask me what Bell's palsy is. It is a weakening of the muscles on one side of the face, due usually to something wrong with the seventh cranial nerve which supplies the muscles. It comes out of the skull through a little conduit near the ear. Oftentimes the person tells of a recent exposure of the side of the face to a cold wind, but in many cases we physicians do not know what the cause was. Sometimes it was an injury due to a tiny stroke up in the brain, and sometimes it was due to something that went wrong in the little canal through which the nerve comes out from the brain. Perhaps it was a virus that attacked the nerve.

Dr. Alvarez

If a person is fortunate, the paralysis will be slight, and it will disappear in a few months. In some cases in which the nerve is badly injured it will have to grow out again, and this will take many months. Sometimes recovery is never quite complete, so that always thereafter a physician can detect a weakening and lowering of one corner of the mouth. In rare cases the paralysis does not clear up, and then an operation can be performed to lift up the weakened corner of the mouth and to fasten it to the bone just below the eye on the affected side.

Occasionally, a person who has had one Bell's palsy will get another. Only once in my life did I see a man who had five attacks. He certainly had bad luck. His only good fortune was that he recovered well from all of the spells.

In those cases in which, with a paralysis of one side of the face, there come marked changes in the person's character and ability, I suspect that the injury was deep in the brain and not out in the nerve. Oftentimes a skilled neurologist, with the help of his special tests, can tell just where the injury was. I know of ino drug which taken by mouth will hurry recovery.

County Service Draft Considered

Salem — (U.P.) — The final draft of a proposed law authorizing creation by counties of service areas in suburban sections outside cities is being considered by the Legislative Interim Committee on Local Government.

Under the proposed bill, the county would be authorized to provide water supply, fire protection, sanitary and storm sewerage and disposal plants, parks and recreation, street and sidewalk improvement and street lighting.

Petitions bearing the names of 10 per cent of the freeholders of a district would be required to request the county court or commissioners for a service area.

An election would be held if investigation and engineering studies showed the service area to be feasible.

Once the district was set up, the county court would assess district residents for costs of the services.

Wounded Coos Bay Hunter Satisfactory

Burns — (U.P.) — The condition of 19-year-old John Hinderlie of Coos Bay, injured in a hunting accident near here Sunday, was described as "satisfactory" today by his physician.

Hinderlie was shot in the upper arm by a .35 calibre rifle. The doctor said the youth would be transferred to Portland for further treatment before being released.

IN LOVE—Actor Donald O'Connor 31, and Gloria Noble, 23, are dreamy-eyed as they take out their marriage license at Santa Monica, Calif. It will be the second marriage for both.

State Driver Permits Receive 'New Look'

Salem — (U.P.) — Oregon driver licenses have a "new look" today because of new typewriters which make licenses virtually impossible to alter.

Officials of the state motor vehicles department said the new typewriters will mean licenses will not have to be enclosed in acetate since names and other pertinent driver information appear in check-perforated type.

The type cannot be erased without marring the face of the license. Officials expected that the new method will save the state about $28,000 a year. The typewriters were installed by Capitol Office and Equipment Company, Salem, on low bid.

Bonn, Germany—(U.P.)— Chancellor Konrad Adenauer fired four cabinet ministers Tuesday and pledged that West Germany will remain a loyal ally of the free West.
