

Adlai Denounces Nixon as Man of Many Faces and Exponent of Expediency

En Route With Stevenson—(AP)—Adlai Stevenson, using some of his sharpest language of the campaign, denounced Vice President Richard M. Nixon on Wednesday night as a "shifty" exponent of expediency and a man of many faces.

He said in Flint, Mich., the vice president was unfit for the responsibility of public office and warned that if Republicans are re-elected that Nixon might become president "at any moment."

"Who can say they have seen his real face," Stevenson said. "There is no man who can safely say he knows where the vice president stands. This is a man of many faces."

The Democratic presidential nominee also added several new blows at former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York which were not in the text.

He charged Dewey was using "the same rusty weapons of sarcasm and ridicule" and said he "carries more weight than anyone else in the Republican Party today—except Mr. Nixon."

Charges Creeping Complacency
Stevenson said he was devoting comment to Dewey because the twice defeated GOP presidential aspirant had spoken in Flint Tuesday "as a principal spokesman for the President and the Republican Party." Moving into Ohio today, Stevenson charged that the administration is suffering from creeping complacency and treating the farmer as a poor, troublesome relative.

Stevenson concentrated on the plight of the farmer as compared with the protection afforded General Motors by the administration.

He said a Democratic administration would "restore true parity of income" to the farmer with price supports that were not "collapsible," protection for perishables, the soil bank and food stamp plan and new methods of getting farm surpluses to the hungry overseas.

"This administration has treated the farmer like a poor and troublesome relation," he said in a speech prepared for afternoon delivery in Akron, his third railroad stop of the day in Ohio.

"The farmer does not want hand outs, all he wants is a fair share," Stevenson said. "And he needs the protection of his government to get it."

Takes Issue With Ike
Re-issuing the label of "Cadillac cabinet" on the men around Mr. Eisenhower, Stevenson said Nixon must be getting sensitive because he had instructed his staff to use no more Cadillacs in parades.

"These Republicans think of everything," Stevenson said. He also took issue with the president for preferring "a successful businessman" such as defense secretary Charles E. Wilson, former head of General Motors for cabinet portfolio because Wilson was "the head of the biggest company" Mr. Eisenhower could select.

"That's one way to pick the men who will serve the people's government, but it's not the Democratic way and we'll do it differently next January," he said.

"We won't look just to the biggest corporations. We won't go just to the richest money-makers. We will go to the men who have proved they understand the people's needs—and who have proved they want to meet them."

Provisions of Zoning Ordinance to Include Agriculture Listed

An agricultural zone with provisions concerning use of buildings and maintenance property has been proposed as an amendment to the city zoning ordinance.

The Medford city council Tuesday called for a public hearing on the proposed zone Nov. 7. The ordinance was recommended by the Medford planning commission after a hearing several months ago.

The zone proposes that no building or land shall be used, erected or maintained within the agricultural district except for eight uses.

Uses Listed
They include one-family dwellings, golf courses operated for commercial uses, agricultural uses which include field crops, truck gardening, berry crops, established orchards and nurseries, and farms including raising and marketing of poultry and fowls.

Other uses include farms that maintain cattle or horses, riding stables, dairies, sheep or goat raising, dog kennels, raising furbearing animals, keeping of not more than six swine, and other agricultural enterprises not detrimental to the public welfare.

Also accessory buildings, such as garages, living quarters and barns essential to operation of agriculture, and roadside stands for selling products produced on the property where stands are located. The amendment provides that no stand shall exceed 200 feet in area.

The proposed ordinance states that buildings can not be erected unless certain property areas are maintained in connection with such land use.

Goat and cattle dairies or hog ranches must have a minimum of 20 acres. Dog and cat pounds and riding academies must have a minimum of five acres.

Less Than Two Acres
Tracts of land within an agricultural district with less than two acres shall be limited to the uses permitted in a single-family dwelling district and raising poultry, fowl and domestic animals, except pigs, with four provisions.

They are (1) that cows, horses, sheep or goats can not be kept on lots having an area less than 10,000 square feet and under no circumstances shall they be kept for commercial purposes.

The number of fowl or rabbits shall not exceed one for each 500 square feet of property, provided that no roosters over the age of six months shall be kept.

(3) The number of colonies of bees allowed on a tract shall be limited to one colony for each 1,000 square feet of area.

(4) Barns or pens for fowl and colonies of bees shall be located on the rear half of the property, not closer than 70 feet from the front property line and not closer than 50 feet from any residence.

House Investigates Political Influence

Washington—(AP)—House investigators today summoned a construction company official for questioning on whether political influence helped his firm win a $43 million government contract.

Testimony by the official, Randall Cremer, opened another round in a House Government Operations subcommittee's investigation of an expansion project at the government-owned nickel plant at Nicaro, Cuba.

Cremer's company, the Frederick Snare Corp., was awarded a $43 million government contract to expand the nickel plant after Cremer conferred with Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

The Democratic-controlled subcommittee has charged that Hall "cleared" the construction company for the contract after Cremer assured him that its top officials were all Republicans.

The subcommittee has invited Hall to testify on "any part he may have played" in the award of the contract.

Mark Hatfield will serve ALL the people ... not just one party!

Putting it bluntly, the voters of Oregon are faced with choosing between Mark Hatfield, a man who will serve all the people of Oregon and another candidate who has been consistently a party tool. The Secretary of State's office is one that must operate with impartiality and with complete service to every one and every part of Oregon.

Many publishers support him. The Eugene Register-Guard says this of Senator Hatfield:

"We know him well enough to know that if he is elected he'll do everything he can to be the best Secretary of State any state ever had."

State Representative E. A. (Al) Littrell will discuss several state measures that will appear on the Nov. 6 general election ballot at a meeting of the Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm association at 8 p.m. today at the Jackson hotel.

A buffet dinner will be held in the Pioneer room of the hotel before his talk. A social hour will be held from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

Fay Bristol, president of the Oregon Mining association and a member of the Board of Governors of the American Mining congress, will discuss the Al Sarena mining case.

Radar Device To Aid Airplane Navigation

Clifton, N. Y. — (AP) — The government division of Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories, Inc., has announced development of an automatic radar device for aircraft, which will provide clearer navigation landmarks and can help prevent air collisions.

Du Mont engineers said the new device, designed specifically to complement airborne radar equipment, is the "clutter-operated anti-clutter (COAC)." It uses impulses returned from a "cluttered" target to adjust the radar set automatically to each element of the target shown on the screen.
