

Women's Society Is Organized for St. Luke's Church

The first meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the newly organized St. Luke's Methodist church was held recently at the home of Mrs. John A. Taylor.

A nominating committee presented a slate of officers, and Mrs. John F. Williams was elected president of the new group. Other officers are Mrs. William W. Williams, vice-president and secretary of spiritual life; Mrs. Walter M. Higgins, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Norman T. Capsey, secretary of missionary education and service; Mrs. Lawrence Horton, secretary of Christian social relations and local church activities.

In order to raise funds for the treasury, the group planned a rummage sale to be held Tuesday, November 27, at the Fehl building. Donations will be welcomed.

Any woman in the community wishing further information about the new society is invited to attend the next meeting to be held November 5, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ralph Barclay, 425 South Modoc avenue.

UN Program Given For Service Guild

A program in observance of United Nations month was given at the last meeting of Ruth Esther Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist church. Miss Annette Gray, program chairman, presented a panel of speakers.

Mrs. Mamie Bloomfield spoke on "Equality of Birth" and Mrs. George Watson followed with a plea for "freedom from fear and freedom for expression for the children of the world."

There is growing hope for these because of such movements as United Nations and the ecumenical movement of Christian churches, according to Miss June Wheaton, another speaker. A discussion period followed.

Mrs. Jessie Minear, coordinator for the guild, outlined the fall topics to be used in the Sunday evening study groups.

Devotions were presented by Mrs. George Reneker. Refreshments were served, with Mrs. W. R. Peabody as chairman.

Murrow Family Problem One Of Logistics; Wife Worries

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Correspondent
New York —(U.P.)— Mrs. Edward R. Murrow confided today that the biggest problem in being married to the always-on-the-go newscaster performer is one of logistics.

"It's a matter of trying to see that the right things are in the right place at the right time," said Mrs. Murrow. "I don't always succeed, although I've had a lot of practice."

The Murrows observed their 22nd wedding anniversary this week.

"I'm the worrier of the family," said Mrs. Murrow. "I'm the planning type . . . always running around with a list of things to do."

We took a cue from one of her husband's programs and did a "person to person" visit with her in Manhattan. She won't let her husband turn the camera on his own family for one of those television visits with various celebrities.

"Ed and I think other people are more interesting," she said. The Murrows shuttle between two homes, one of them a nine room cooperative apartment on Park Avenue, the other a 280-acre farm near Pawling, N. Y.

Shuttle, that is, when Murrow is in the New York area. "I always seem to be arriving in time to say good-bye to Ed."

Miss Donna Halvorsen, a freshman, is general chairman of the Frosh Fall Frolics. It will be held Friday, October 26, in Churchill hall and a "hard times" theme will be used.

Miss Halvorsen is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Halvorsen, 754 Marshall avenue, Medford.
