

Stevenson Started H-Bomb Controversy 6 Months Ago

Chicago—(U.P.)—The H-bomb issue, hottest question of the presidential campaign, had its beginning six months ago on April 21.

At that time, Adlai E. Stevenson came out for action to halt hydrogen bomb tests in a non-political speech before the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, D.C.

Devoted 217 Words He devoted just 217 words of a speech attacking the Republican foreign policy to the subject of H-bomb tests.

After criticizing GOP policy, Stevenson gave some of his own ideas. One was that this nation "give prompt and earnest consideration to stopping further tests of the hydrogen bomb."

"As a layman I question the sense of multiplying the enlarging weapons of a destructive power already almost incomprehensible," Stevenson said.

"Of course," he continued, "I would call upon other nations to follow our lead, and if they don't, and persist in further tests, we will know about it and can reconsider our foreign policy."

Began Talking Again

It wasn't long after Stevenson won the Democratic presidential nomination in August that he began talking about H-bomb tests again.

Recalling his April proposal, Stevenson told American Legion conventioners in Los Angeles Sept. that other nations had announced they would be willing to limit H-bomb tests.

Since then, Stevenson has plugged away at the same theme in speeches across the country—at St. Louis, Minneapolis, Seattle, San Diego, Cincinnati, and elsewhere.

Nixon Schedules Four Appearances In Illinois Today

En Route With Nixon — Vice President Richard M. Nixon shifted his "mop-up" campaign to Illinois today.

Nixon scheduled four "whistle stop" appearances in the home state of Democratic nominee Adlai E. Stevenson, before abandoning his campaign train in Chicago late today.

Sees Michigan Victory

After winding up a day and a half of campaigning in Michigan, he predicted the state will be in the GOP column on Nov. 6 as it was four years ago.

But in Illinois, Republicans are reported to be on the defensive generally as a result of state house scandals surrounding the conviction of former state Auditor Orville Hodge for embezzlement of state funds.

Twenty-seven prized presidential electoral votes are at stake in Illinois — a state carried by Mr. Eisenhower in 1952. Republican Sen. Everett M. Dirksen and Gov. William G. Stratton are also up for reelection.

Nixon may be drawn into the debate over the Hodge affair. He got a taste of it during a rally at Kalamazoo, Mich., Tuesday when someone raised a placard asking: "Hodge and Stratton, what about it?"

Dishonesty Cleaned Up Nixon noted the sign and declared: "When we find dishonesty we clean it up rather than cover it up."

Nixon's train stops in Illinois include Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Centralia, Champaign and Kankakee. He is scheduled for a rally at Evansville tonight.

Old Trading Post Found at Niagara

Lewiston, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Historians claim "the find of the century" in an excavation about 500 feet from the Lewiston-Queenston Bridge spanning the Niagara River.

In bulldozing operations for expansion of a motel, workers uncovered the site of the first permanent-type structure in the whole Niagara Frontier area. It was a trading post built by Jon Caire in 1720. Caire was the French trader who set up the first permanent settlement in Buffalo.

Post holes gave the clue to the site along with Indian and French artifacts dug up. More than 600 post holes were found in an area 70 by 35 feet. Structure of the soil has made it possible to spot the post holes.

The British burned the post in 1759, and charred wood and silt settled in the holes as wood decayed. The black silt and charcoal traces still show up in the red clay.

Posts dug up are squared off at the bottom, showing French construction with saws. Among the artifacts found were an Indian ring made of three or four spiral bands, a typical French bracelet from the continent, arrow heads, flints, pipes, bits of china and musket balls.
