Rural Traffic Tally Shows 2 Per Cent Jump

Salem —(U.P.)— Latest Oregon highway department rural traffic tallies on major routes today showed that vehicle volume increased two per cent during September over the same period in 1955.

Heaviest average daily vehicle count at 33 check points was registered at the Chemawa station on the Baldock freeway with a volume of 8,573. Some 14,825 cars were clocked on the heaviest day.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Mrs. P. B. — Our 16-year-old daughter is a tomboy.

Mr. P. B. — My wife is trying to make a problem child out of her.

* * *

Mrs. P. B.—I am very concerned about our 16-year-old-daughter, who is and always has been a tomboy. When she was a little girl, we thought it was very cute the way Joan was only interested in cowboy games and baseball. Her father encouraged her interest by taking her to the games with her big brother.

Now, however, she shows no interest in clothes or dating. She has developed a passionate interest in chemistry and mechanics. Her father encourages this. I think this is very wrong, for it take her away from the other things a young girl should care about. I have tried to arrange dates for her through the parents of boys in our neighborhood, but she screams at me and refuses to go. How will she ever get married?

* * *

Mr. P. B.—My wife is trying to make a problem child out of Joan. At 16, it is hardly necessary that she waste her time on boys. Certainly there would be nothing wrong in this modern age, if Joan got an education and prepared the way for her financial independence before marrying and having children.

If Joan were really interested in clothes and dances and such, I don't think I would crack down on her if she stayed within reason. But I do not see why she should have these things forced on her if she does not want them.

When she is ready for adult life, I'm sure she'll take an interest in the things her mother thinks important. Until then, she should be let alone. Joan has too good a mind to waste it all on nothing but feminine nonsense.

The Council: There are problems in this family, but they aren't all Joan's, nor are they of Joan's making. The problems belong rather to the mixed-up parents.

Each parent has very definite ideas about what "ought" to interest Joan, and each has attitudes that will strongly influence and undoubtedly complicate her life.

Both parents seem to see intellectual pursuits as in direct opposition to "feminine" ones. The mother wants to throttle Joan's intellectual interests; the father wants to throttle the feminine ones. Joan is now inclined to please her father rather than her mother. She might change suddenly, but in any case she could not be happy, because she will have to feel that she must sacrifice one thing for another.

Mr. P. B. is right in his feeling that dating and clothes shouldn't be "forced" on Joan. But he is all wrong in setting intellectual interests in opposition to "feminine nonsense."

Of Interest to Women

What Mr. P. B. calls "feminine nonsense" has been of interest to brilliant women through the ages. As a matter of fact, many very masculine men have a strong interest in clothes, social life and cooking. Mr. P. B. himself might be a happier man if he didn't treat these things with so much contempt—and Mrs. P. B. might be a happier woman if she didn't feel that a woman must restrict her interests to this realm.

It is true that Joan would probably be happier if she found some pleasure in the activities of other girls of her age. Mrs. P. B. might be able to guide her gently into an interest in clothes and dating if she also showed some pleasure in Joan's passion for chemistry and mechanics. Mr. P. B. in his turn, might show some interest in seeing Joan improve her appearance.

If these parents change their own attitudes, give up their rigid rules for what they expect of Joan, they might give her a chance to develop quite naturally in many directions at once.

Vatican Expresses Hope Of Changes in Poland

Rome— (U.P.) —A high Vatican source has expressed "cautious hope" that current changes in Poland may eventually lead to less persecution of the Catholic "church of silence" behind the Iron Curtain.

The spokesman stressed the need for caution, however, because in Poland, he said, it was merely a question of "one set of Communists being substituted by another set of Communists."

Tampa's Peter O'Knight airport is one of the few in this country where all runway approaches are made over water.

Junior High Boys To Distribute Signs

Boys from Hedrick and McLoughlin Junior High schools will distribute signs to homes where families of elderly or ill persons which wish protection from Halloween trick or treating.

The distribution is part of annual service programs of both Hedrick and McLoughlin boys.
