Joint Session Set By Art Educators Today, Tomorrow

Ashland—Miss Marion Ady, chairman pro tem of the College Council of Art Education, meeting jointly with the Oregon Art Alliance group October 26-27, has announced the itinerary for the organizations which includes a round of luncheon meetings, dinners, and visitations to various points of interest in Grants Pass, Jacksonville, and Ashland.

Today's program began with registration in the morning and a luncheon at 2:30 p.m. at the Grants Pass home of Mrs. Nicholas Millbank. Mrs. Robert Law, Coos Bay, conducted the meeting in her capacity as Oregon Art Alliance president. A no-host dinner meeting has been scheduled for tonight.

Tomorrow the combined groups will tour historic Jacksonville and the pioneer museum. The tour will be conducted by Marion Ross, member of the Art faculty at the University of Oregon.

After the tour, a no-host luncheon is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Hathaway Cottage, Ashland, after which an open meeting will take place in the SOC library at 2:30.

An exhibit of the work of local artists, Michael Thornley, Talent, and Warren Wolfe, Medford Senior High school faculty member, will be viewed by the conferees at that time, with a coffee hour following at 4:30 o'clock at the residence of Miss Ady at 298 Palm avenue, Ashland. The meeting will conclude with a no-host dinner at Omar's restaurant Saturday evening, Miss Ady announced.

League Chairman Society Speaker

Mrs. I. S. Thomas, voter's service chairman for Medford League of Women Voters, was guest speaker for a business session of Women's Society of Christian Service Tuesday, October 23, held in First Methodist church. Her talk concerned the ballot of the coming election.

Plans were announced by Mrs. Kenneth Knapp, chairman of Circle 11, for a rummage sale to be held in cooperation with Circle 5. The sale is being held in the basement of First Methodist church today. Proceeds from the sale will be used to supplement the gifts to missions by Women's Society of Christian Service.

Zontians Attend District Session

Three members of Medford Zonta club are attending a district convention being held in Spokane, Wash., October 25, 26 and 27. Mrs. Jean Fish, president of the local club, is delegate and Mrs. Ilean Grigsby, alternate delegate. Miss Josephine Kirtley is also representing Medford at the sessions.

Miss Gladys Puckett of Spokane is district governor and will preside over the main meetings. Included in the business will be a panel discussion on the newly revised constitution and by laws. Mrs. Violet Anders, vice president, presided over the club's luncheon meeting yesterday.

Tropical Squares

Here's a quick-to-fix filling for gingerbread that will give it a tropical flavor: First, bake a gingerbread, using a mix or your own favorite recipe. After baking, cut the gingerbread into squares, split them and spread each with a mixture of ½ cup drained crushed pineapple, 3 ounces of cream cheese and ¼ cup of chopped pecans or walnuts. Put the squares together sandwich style. For a special touch, top with whipped cream and sprinkle with crystallized or ground ginger.

Dance Tonight

Waggin Wheelers Square Dance club will hold a Halloween hard time party tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Art Smith's barn on Griffin Creek road. The club will furnish refreshments and the public is invited to attend.

Pear Cakes

Check pears daily because some ripen faster than others. Keep in cool humid place with temperature 60 to 70 degrees in a fairly airtight container. Bartlett's are ready for eating as soon as the skin shows a golden color.

Auxiliary to Hold Halloween Party

The auxiliary to Crater Lake post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold a Halloween party Saturday, October 26, at 7:30 p.m. in VFW hall, 42 North Front street.

Members of both the post and auxiliary are invited to attend, and are asked to wear masks. Entertainment and refreshments are being planned for the "ghosts and goblins" expected to attend.

Party Series To Be Given for Mrs. Douglas McKay Saturday

A series of neighborhood coffee will be held in Medford tomorrow in honor of Mrs. Douglas McKay, wife of the former governor of Oregon and Republican candidate for the office of United States senator.

The first will be held at 11 a.m. at the home of Mrs. John B. Lyuch, 139 Kenwood avenue, and the second at 12 noon at the home of Mrs. B. L. Hunter, 705 South Oakdale avenue. At 1 o'clock Mrs. McKay will be a guest in the home of Mrs. W. E. Bracker, Griffin creek road and at 2 o'clock Mrs. Fred Beck will entertain for her at her home on Old Stage road.

The three o'clock coffee will be held in the home of Mrs. R. E. Nelson, 1645 East McAndrews road, and the four o'clock party will be given by Mrs. C. Weldon Kline at her home, 18 South Groveland avenue. Hostesses are inviting friends and neighbors in the various districts to meet the candidate's wife.

Mrs. McKay will be escorted during the series by a committee of three Republican women of Medford. Mrs. George Roberts, Mrs. John C. Boyle and Mrs. Ernest R. Hood.

The McKays are arriving in Medford in order to be among those greeting Vice President and Mrs. Richard Nixon this afternoon and to hear the vice president speak this evening at Hedrick Junior High school.

Couple Arrives For Rites Here

Lt. and Mrs. Harold Butler have arrived from Oak Harbor, Wash., to be here tomorrow for the wedding of Miss Tanya Trowbridge and James Paul Shoemaker, Mrs. Butler's brother. The rites are set for two o'clock at First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Butler will be a bridesmaid, and Lieutenant Butler will be best man for his brother-in-law.

Mrs. Robert Stuart recently gave a waffle supper for Miss Trowbridge, inviting friends who will be in the wedding party or who are assisting at the reception. They are Miss Gladys Goetz, Miss Evelyn Stafford and Miss Marilyn Russell. Each presented the guest of honor articles for her kitchen.

Miss Trowbridge is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Trowbridge, 1625 East Main street, and Mr. Shoemaker is a son of Col. and Mrs. Paul S. Shoemaker, currently on duty with the United States Mission to Costa Rica.

Albania Factory Workers in Protest

Vienna—(U.P.)—Large scale anti-Russian demonstrations have taken place in a Soviet controlled factory in the Russian satellite country of Albania, well informed sources said today.

The sources said workers in a large Albanian chrome, copper and oil factory had organized a protest demonstration against "hunger salaries" in Albania.

The sources said "many" demonstrators were arrested by police but they had no further details on the demonstration.

Reports of the anti-Russian demonstrations in Albania was the first from the tiny isolated satellite nation bordered by Yugoslavia, Greece and the Adriatic.

Medical, Hospital Plans Are Discussed

Vic Follen of the Marsh and McLennan Insurance company, Portland, discussed medical and hospital insurance plans at a meeting of the Medford chapter of National Managers association at the Medford hotel this week.

Follen stated that in about five to 10 years there will be a definite change in all medical policies. He also outlined various types of retirement plans and profit sharing plans available to employers. He added that a profit sharing plan is most satisfactory for employers of small groups.

Visitors at the meeting included Fritz Kuntz and Wayne Gottfried of Tillman Booth company, Clyde Gwantley of American Steel supply and Marvin Zirkle of Gene Burrill Lumber company.

Lack of Girls Lauded By Man for Long Life

Belmont, Mass.—(U.P.)—Charles W. Thiery celebrated his 106th birthday today by toasting the girl he never found.

"A good thing I didn't or I might have been dead years ago," he said.

Thiery is convinced that his bachelor life, along with his refusal to smoke or drink, has made him a happy centenarian. But mostly not having any truck with dames.

"Marriage is all right if you find the right woman," he said, "but how are you going to know until after the wedding."

Jobs for Handicapped Group Slates Program

Members of the Jackson county committee on employment of the physically handicapped last night voted to carry on year-round program in the county, according to Col. Arthur M. Savard, chairman. The year-round program will be designed to carry out the work meant for Employ the Handicapped Week, which usually takes places in October.

Savard said the committee will hold monthly meetings during the next year during which time a program will be developed to educate employers to the advantage of employing handicapped persons who are fully capable of performing particular jobs.

A review of activities by the committee for Employ the Handicapped Week, observed earlier this month, also occupied a portion of the meeting. Plans were also outlined for presentation of awards to firms, organizations and individuals for outstanding service in furthering the committee's program.

Stevenson Would Ask Kefauver To Draw Up Demo Farm Program

Rock Island, Ill.—(U.P.)—Adlai E. Stevenson, supported by his running mate's rural popularity, makes one of his final bids today for Democratic support in the Farm Belt.

He pledged Thursday night to ask Sen. Estes Kefauver to head a "task force" to draw up a Democratic farm program for "quick" action by Congress if he is elected President.

Stevenson and Kefauver talked about the idea Thursday night at dinner in Springfield, Ill. Stevenson said there are 10 weeks between the election and Inauguration Day and the Democratic candidates felt "we ought to waste no time in rescuing the farmer."

Stevenson told about the plan later at a rally of nearly 7,000 persons in the state armory at Springfield.

"The farmers of America know about his concern and sympathy," Stevenson said of Kefauver. "They have every reason for confidence in Estes Kefauver's good sense and good judgment, too."

After the rally in the state capital where Stevenson served four years as Governor, he flew here for the night. He scheduled a speech here today, and then planned to head for California, with a stop at Albuquerque, N.M., for an airport talk on the way.

Stevenson's Springfield speech, climaxing a daylong farm conference by Midwest Democratic leaders, contained the strongest language he has used yet in attacking GOP farm policies.

He accused President Eisenhower of reneging on 1952 campaign promises to work for "full parity" and for some means of protecting prices of perishables like livestock.

"The Eisenhower record of broken promises to the farmer is a record of callous political perfidy," Stevenson charged.

MEDFORD (OREGON) MAIL TRIBUNE—THREE

Back Stairs: Election Night Schedule

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Correspondent

Washington — (U.P.) — Back stairs at the White House: President Eisenhower originally gave some thought to spending election night on his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., but the technical difficulties outweighed an evening at home.

Special teletype, telephone, radio and television circuits would have been necessary in Gettysburg. And the farm probably would have been the target of hordes of photographers and reporters.

There also would be victory marches—if he wins—by his fellow Republicans of Adams county.

So Mr. Eisenhower will spend election night in the relative privacy of family and friends behind the well-guarded gates of the White House. If he decides to appear before the nation by radio or television, all he has to do is go to the broadcast room on the ground floor. He will be able to get election returns easily from the press association wire installed permanently in the White House. And he'll have the big White House switchboard handling the hundreds of telephone calls that descend on a President election night.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential hope, will be in Chicago election night, either at the home of his assistant, William Blair, or in downtown offices. Wherever he is, there will be some agents of the United States Secret Service nearby.

These agents will remain out of sight and out of touch with the Stevenson party. If he loses, they'll quietly return to their regular pursuits. If he wins, the instant this fact becomes definite, Stevenson will find that he has some new friends who stay at his side.

Nothing is quite as doleful as the headquarters of a presidential loser late election night. It was after midnight in 1948 at the Roosevelt hotel in New York when it became increasingly evident by the hour that President Harry S. Truman had done the unexpected and defeated Thomas E. Dewey.

The Dewey headquarters had been primed with champagne and free cigars in the Roosevelt ballroom, just waiting for Mr. Truman's concession. Sometime after midnight, a Dewey aide
