EUNICE HOWARD
Klamath Falls says:

"Working Girls Are Voting for Doug McKay Because..."

Making our budgets stretch is a continuing problem and Doug McKay's fight for lower taxes will help us. When I think of $320,000 in taxes just to print the speeches and reports of Wayne Morse I get mad all over."

Man Returns Contents Of Lost Pocket Book

The contents of a lost pocket book, which contained about $36 in cash, was returned to its owner, Frank G. Maness, Shady Cove, after Maness was anticipating going 30 days without money.

The pocket book was found and returned by James L. Mitchell, Rogue River.

Maness, who will be 80 Nov. 11, said in a letter to Mitchell that prior to losing the $36, about $70 in cash and an endorsed $30 social security check had been stolen when he failed to lock the door of his trailer house, where he lives.

Maness said in the letter, "So you can realize more fully how I felt on account of your honesty in returning the money which is all I had to live on for 30 days."

Maness also told Mitchell that he could claim any reward up to $10, "... and I will remit at once. As a matter of fact, you could have kept it all."

ROSES LOSE

Central Falls, R.I.—(U.P.)—Edward Eastwood dislikes roses, and the sight of them rambling near the town railroad station annoyed. So, on his way to work each day, Eastwood would sprinkle a packet of seeds among the roses. Now, townspeople can't see the roses for dahlias, petunias, snapdragons, poppies and a variety of other flowers.

FILM WEDNESDAY

The movie "Seconds to Midnight" will be shown Wednesday, Oct. 31, at 8 p.m. at the Berean Baptist church, White City.

Man Returns Contents On The Side

Amsterdam—The French are said to have at least one book on every conceivable subject. The British have special clubs for a wide variety of activities. The Dutch have a museum for everything. There are over 400 museums in Holland. In addition to the art museums there are special museums for railways, press, musical instruments and fashions. There is even a tax museum. This covers the world history of taxes. No matter what your business or hobby is, there is probably a museum in Holland devoted to it.

Check

A Milwaukee checkerupper would meet his match in the Amsterdam checkerupper. Here nothing is taken for granted. One local resident spent his life trying to prove the exact date on which Amsterdam was founded. Spent all his spare time in libraries and other mediums of reference. Had a suitcase packed with documents. However, every time he thought he had finally found the right date some checkerupper proved he was wrong. He never did get it right.

Conscription

Who invented conscription? Does your son know? It was Napoleon. He drafted Dutch young men for his campaign in Russia. The building where these unfortunate fellows had to register is still standing in Amsterdam.

Shoes

The old custom of leaving shoes outside the hotel room door to be shined still prevails in Holland. Frequently seen outside a room are a pair of very large men's shoes and a cute, little pair of women's shoes. I heard a young American woman observe on viewing such a combination say: "How positively romantic!"

Bedmaking

Is bedmaking a lost art? Has the home manager or hotel maid who can make a bed properly become a rarity? That has been my opinion. However, on a more detailed investigation of this vitally important subject I found the fault lies not in the bedmaking. The reason so many beds are uncomfortable is because the sheets and blankets don't fit the bed. They are too small. If my feet protrude through the blankets I can't sleep. If I can't tuck the blanket in on the side so it will stay there I regret to say I am inclined to the use of profanity. At home I have double size blankets.

Potatoes

On this trip in Europe I have been able to get practically anything I have asked for. This includes ice in my highball. There has been one exception. That is a baked potato with a steak. There are 252 ways of preparing potatoes and you can get any one of them in a first class European hotel or restaurant except a baked potato. The chamber of commerce of the state of Idaho, U.S.A., should investigate this situation. Also, some fellow with an inventive mind might invent a gadget for a quick and easy way to bake a potato and find a large European market for it.

Peace Palace

If you are in need of a memory refresher as to the origin of the Peace palace in The Hague please be informed that in 1898 Tsar Nicholas II of Russia decided to call a conference of all civilized nations to bring about world peace. The Hague was chosen as the meeting place. The first peace conference at The Hague was held in 1899. In 1900 Andrew Carnegie contributed $1,500,000 to a building fund for a meeting place at The Hague to be exclusively used for the discussion of world peace. In 1913 the Peace palace was completed. And about six months later World War I started.

Sidelights

Hollanders have a genius for home delivery. If you have a business in which home delivery figures you should visit the Netherlands. You might get some new ideas... as you know, the world's most skilled diamond cutters are found in Amsterdam. But did you know that in the United States experienced diamond cutters are paid $250 a week?

Dogs

The fondness of the Dutch for dogs is very evident in Amsterdam. The pups are privileged characters here. They can dine at restaurants and ride on street cars and buses. Every river boat seems to have a dog. Many dogs ride on their owner's bicycles. I saw one today in a special compartment on the front of a motorcycle. He had on a coat and a hat. A very quaint sight.

October 19, the group took a hike, with Mrs. McGrow, assistant guardian, in charge. Mrs. Dale Ackerman is guardian; Linda Unruh, scribe.

Playful Blue Birds

Another group of Blue Birds has been organized in the Eagle Point area. It is under the leadership of Mrs. Walter S. Lee.

The first meeting was held at Camp White in the home of the leader, October 22. Mrs. Glenn Burrill is assistant leader.

It was voted to call the group the Playful Blue Birds. Project for the year will be a study of bees. The group sang and planned future field trips.
