

KNOW DOUG MCKAY - THE MAN!

Southern Oregon women consider integrity vital to good government. We believe that Oregon can trust a man who rose from poverty to outstanding success in business and public service, yet kept that human understanding that made him a leader wherever there was a constructive job to be done to build the community, the state or the nation. The name of Douglas McKay is associated with constructive effort . . . with jobs that have been finished and well done. Read his biography!

BOYHOOD Born in Portland, 1893. Family was poor and Doug sold papers on the streets of Portland to help provide food for the family. Took his first job when 13 years old to help support himself and mother.

EDUCATION Portsmouth, Ladd and Lincoln public schools, Portland. Graduate of Oregon State College in Agriculture. Worked his way through OSC as a janitor in the Science Building, working for a laundry and at odd jobs—yet became president of the freshman class, president of the student body and, in later life, president of the Alumni Association. (Honorary) Doctor of Laws degree from Willamette University, Dickinson College, University of Maine and Oregon State.

BUSINESS CAREER Began as an office boy at the Union Depot, Portland, at $35 a month. After first world war, sold insurance and then automobiles. Rose to sales manager which position he left to establish a small automobile dealership of his own in Salem. Through his initiative, energy and personal management, this became one of the finest and most successful dealerships on the coast. Sold in 1955.
