

Morse's Record Is Noted by McKay at Ashland Luncheon

Ashland — Douglas McKay charged Saturday that Wayne Morse's statement "supporting abandonment of H-bomb testing completes the Morse record of being wrong on every issue that involves peace or war."

In a talk at an Ashland luncheon meeting, the Republican candidate for U. S. Senator noted that his opponent reportedly told Willamette university students Adlai Stevenson is 100 per cent right in opposing further H-bomb testing.

Morse "was wrong on Korea, wrong on Formosa, wrong on Suez—and he is now wrong in willingness to sacrifice America's atomic leadership that is the most effective deterrent to atomic war in the world today," McKay charged.

"The scientists and the men in Washington who know all the top secret facts have solemnly warned us that we cannot be sure of our ability to detect Russian H - bomb explosions," McKay said.

McKay declared "Morse ignores the fact that Russia has violated 50 out of 52 major agreements since 1933. He ignores the fact that over a period of eight years and in 200 meetings with Russia on control of atomic weapons, the Russians have persistently refused to agree to free inspection—which is the only safeguard for atomic disarmament."

"This is the same Wayne Morse who ridiculed the program of President Eisenhower that ended the Korean war; the same Morse who so bitterly attacked American policy at Formosa that he was quoted with approval by the Chinese Communist radio."

"At the beginning of the Suez crisis, Morse insisted upon immediate submission of the matter to the United Nations. The president wisely took time to cool the hot anger of France and England, who were talking of the use of force—and probably would have gone ahead with it if this country had not urged patience. When President Eisenhower, by his calm, firm leadership, had eliminated the threat of open war, he then urged and obtained submission of the question to the United Nations," McKay said.

Area People Attend Center Open House

Four members of the Medford Ground Observer post, one from the Ashland post and the Air Force district Ground Observer supervisor attended the recent Sacramento Air Defense Filter center open house program.

The program was held from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 20.

Attending from Jackson county were Air Force Sgt. C. C. Poulson, K. J. Knutson, supervisor of the Medford Ground Observer corps; Lucille Brock, past chief observer of the Medford post; Virginia Cox and Mrs. Harry Finley, observers; and Mrs. Max Crowson, chief observer of the Ashland post.

Dr. Fellers Elected To AAUP Chapter Post

Ashland — Dr. Alvin Fellers, associate professor of English at Southern Oregon college, was elected secretary-treasurer of the state federation of the American Association of University Professors at the fall meeting in Corvallis last week.

The federation is composed of the AAUP chapters in the Oregon State System of Higher Education.

John Swarthout, OSC faculty member, was elected president, and Thurman S. Peterson, Portland State college staff member, was elected vice president. Major problems discussed at the conference concerned retirement, salaries and unemployment, Dr. Fellers said.

Near Capacity Crowd At Rosary Crusade

A near capacity crowd of southern Oregon residents attended the Family Rosary rally Thursday evening at Hedrick Junior High school auditorium.

Featured speaker was the Rev. Patrick Peyton, founder of the world-wide family Rosary crusade. He said in an address that family prayer was the answer to many of the present troubles of the average family.

He said family prayer is necessary as a bond to keep the family strong against the frustrations of modern day living. His slogan is "The Family That Prays Together, Stays Together."

Accompanying Mr. Peyton was the Rev. Edward D. Howard,

Health Association To Show Second in Vision Test Series

The Jackson County Public Health association will present the second in a series of two television shows on vision testing in Jackson county schools, at 4:30 p.m. today.

The show will be a mother and child visiting the doctor's office, where the child's eyes are examined and glasses prescribed.

In the first show, Oct. 14, a fifth grade health class in the Eagle Point school was visited. The teacher used the Snellen chart to test the children's eyes. The eyes were then re-checked by a public health nurse and it was explained that a referral slip was sent home to the parents, advising them of the test results.

Explanation
During today's show, explanations will be given on various steps from the preliminary testing by the teacher to the corrective treatment. It will also be explained how this information is recorded and placed in the child's permanent health record in the school.

Participating in today's program will be Dr. Mary Jane Fowler, ophthalmologist; Miss Dorothy Collard, supervisor of Jackson County Public Health Nurses; Mrs. Thomas Helman and daughter, Christine, and Mrs. Ivan Burton, moderator.

The public health association will sponsor a discussion of measures which will appear on the Nov. 6 ballot, Monday, Oct. 29, at 7:45 p.m., at the Congregational church, 300 Oakwood drive, Medford. A member of the city council will be present to answer questions concerning the proposed capital improvement program. The meeting will be open to the public.

4-H Members Win Club Congress Trip

Portland — Charles Elmore, 17, Applegate, and Linda Malloroy, 19, Eagle Point, have been awarded trips in connection with 4-H work as a result of their showing at the Portland International Livestock exposition last week.

Elmore, a 4-H member for eight years, was chosen state winner in the boy's agricultural program for a trip to 4-H club congress. At the exposition he carried projects in swine, beef, forestry, wool, electricity and tractor maintenance.

He has been champion and first place in fleece at Portland International in 1951, swine herdsman trophy at the state fair in 1953, and in 1956 came within one-half point of winning herdsman trophy at the state fair.

Miss Malloroy, a 4-H member for 10 years, was awarded a trip to Chicago for her exhibits in frozen foods.

She previously has won the champion angus showman trophy at the state fair, has been a member of the Pacific International home economics judging team and has shown livestock at the junior Cow Palace in San Francisco.

She is enrolled at Oregon State college and is continuing the OEA organization at the college.
