Morse and McKay Map Heavy Schedules For Final Week of Senatorial Campaign

By UNITED PRESS

Sen. Wayne Morse and his Republican rival, Douglas McKay, lined up ambitious schedules today for the final week of their campaign for the U.S. Senate.

Yesterday Morse campaigned in Curry county, then returned to Portland last night. Today he was scheduled to fly to San Francisco to address a labor convention but planned to be back in the state in time for an address tonight in Milwaukie.

McKay planned a concentration on the Portland area for his final week's work with an overnight trip to the Bend area candwiched in. Today and tomorrow he planned extensive tours through industrial plants in the metropolitan Portland area. He is slated to attend a reception for John Roosevelt, son of the late president, tonight.

Morse used a considerable part of his campaign time in the southwestern part of the state yesterday to support the candidacy of Charles O. Porter for election as representative from the fourth district.

The senator asserted that he, Sen. Richard Neuberger and Rep. Edith Green led the fight for restoring appropriations for Chetco Harbor at Brookings and blasted Rep. Harris Ellsworth, saying, "Not one single bit of aid came from Harris Ellsworth in restoring the cut."

McKay spent yesterday in Portland, preparing for a speech he was to deliver today before the Portland Chamber of Commerce. The former interior secretary campaigned in Medford Saturday where he again criticized the Morse-backed proposal to halt H-bomb tests.

"I have seen war at its worst. I never again want to see the weaknesses in this country which lead to war," McKay said.

The former Oregon governor will visit the Bend area on Friday and then return to Portland to wind up the campaign. A final plea for votes has been scheduled over a Portland television station on the eve of the election.

Sen. Neuberger issued a statement today in Portland, charging that Republicans are resurrecting critical comments he made against Sen. Morse in the past, and at the same time trying to smooth over their praise for the senator while he was a Republican.

"This praise of Sen. Morse by prominent Republicans is quite as much a part of history as the disagreements between Morse and me, at the time when he was doing his best to be a faithful member of the Republican party," Neuberger said.

Roosevelt Supports Ike

John Roosevelt, son of the late president, is scheduled to speak in Portland tonight in behalf of President Eisenhower. Roosevelt will address a public meeting sponsored by the "Oregon Labor for Ike" committee.

Robert Holmes, Democratic candidate for governor, told a Portland audience yesterday that "as the state grows there will be much to be accomplished in the area of civil rights."

He criticized Gov. Elmo Smith for failing to answer a questionnaire mailed out by the Council of Churches, and complimented the church group for its interest in the campaign.

Adlai Says Arguments Against End of Bomb Tests 'Defeatism'

Boston — (U.P.) — Adlai E. Stevenson today labeled President Eisenhower's arguments against ending hydrogen bomb tests as "hopeless defeatism."

The Democratic presidential candidate charged that the President offers only a "do-nothing solution" on the problem of "how to save the world from hydrogen devastation."

Stevenson issued a 3,000 word memorandum with a covering statement replying to Mr. Eisenhower's "white paper" which attacked the Stevenson H-bomb proposal last Tuesday.

Stevenson called the administration's document a "campaign pamphlet" rather than an official paper and said it was "remarkable for misstatements and distortions."

Says President Hostile

"After all Mr. Eisenhower's arguments are shaken down," Stevenson said, "the net effect is one of hopeless defeatism."

"The President is not only hostile to new constructive thinking by others on how to save the world from hydrogen devastation, but he quite clearly has no creative or hopeful ideas of his own in this critical field," Stevenson said.

"As in so many other fields, the President simply offers another do-nothing solution," he said.

Stevenson released the statement after his arrival here Sunday night on a flight from Phoenix, Ariz. His 1½ day stay here bidding for Massachusetts' 16 electoral votes in the November 6 election will be highlighted by a speech at a rally in Mechanics Hall tonight, which will be carried over a nationwide television network.

Asks End to Tests

On the H-bomb, Stevenson has taken the stand that this nation should take the lead in seeking a way to end all test explosions.

In his memorandum today, he challenged the President's contention that Stevenson's plan "allows for no safeguards, no control, no inspection."

It has been Stevenson's argument that scientists can detect H-bomb blasts anywhere around the world.

"The President again disregards the key fact that violations of such an agreement can no more be hidden than an earthquake," Stevenson said.

GETS CHECK — Robert Holmes, Democratic candidate for governor, received the "world's biggest check" Tuesday at a luncheon in Astoria held by the Citizens Committee for Bob Holmes. The check, made of plywood and measuring 8 by 3 feet, was taken to the bank by Holmes where Ed Paldanius, left, accepts it. Committee members present included (left) Dan Thiel, Stan Daniels, Harold Johnson, and Aubrey Hubbell.

Nor'easter Lashes Atlantic Coastline

New Bern, N. C. — (U.P.) — A nor'easter lashed the Atlantic coast for a second straight day and raised danger of serious flooding from high tides here and at other points today.

The U. S. Weather Bureau raised storm warnings from Charleston, S. C., to the Delaware breakwater and small craft warnings northward to Block Island, R. I.

Weathermen predicted the storm would continue without letup throughout today.

STOP THIEF

San Luis Obispo, Calif. — (U.P.) — Rancher Joe Cardoza finally foiled the thief who for months had been stealing gasoline from his farm equipment. Cardoza filled a gas tank with water. Sunday he found a stalled car in front of his ranch house. It was abandoned.

Chiloquin Women Killed in Wreck

Klamath Falls — (U.P.) — Two Chiloquin, Ore., sisters were killed outright about 15 miles north of here on Highway 97 when their car careend up a 15 foot embankment, then rolled over several times, early yesterday.

Three young children in the car escaped critical injury but one suffered a broken leg, cuts and bruises.

Police identified the victims of the crash as Nancy Lee Jackson, 16, and Carmel Mae Weeks, 30. Mrs. Weeks was the mother of three children.

Officers said that the accident occurred when the car driven by Mrs. Weeks passed a cattle truck then "fish-tailed" and careened up the roadside embankment.

Police said the car apparently struck an icy spot.

Two of the children, Donald, 5, and Carmen, 8, escaped uninjured. Norman, 3, was hurt.

CAN'T PLAY HOOKEY

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Michel Ray, 12, is one schoolboy who's finding it difficult to play hookey. He is an actor on location in the California mountains and each day school comes to him in a trailer.
