

Eisenhower Calls Top Advisers To Discuss Action

Nation Assured Of No Involvement

Washington — (U.P.) — President Eisenhower called in his top advisers today to plan what the United States will do — short of using military force — to "localize and end" the war in the Middle East.

Mr. Eisenhower assured the nation in a radio-TV address on Wednesday night that the United States will not get involved in the actual fighting.

But he said it is our government's "dedicated purpose . . . to do all in its power to localize the fighting and end the conflict."

Step in United Nations
One step toward that goal was being taken in the United Nations today. With U.S. approval, an emergency meeting of the UN General Assembly was being summoned to take up the Middle East crisis.

On Tuesday the United States was stilled by British and French votes in the UN Security Council in its efforts to take action by the world organization on the Arab-Israeli dispute. But in the General Assembly, where there is no veto, Mr. Eisenhower told the nation Wednesday night, "the opinion of the world can be brought to bear in our quest for a just end to this tormenting problem."

Meets With Security Council
What other steps can be taken was being discussed by Mr. Eisenhower today with the National Security Council and the nation's military chiefs. The Security Council comprises the President's top advisers on international developments.

Consideration is being given to cutting off economic aid to Israel. However, the United States does not plan at present to cut off military aid to Britain and France.

The group also was concerned with planning what the United States will do if the conflict in the Suez area spreads, as officials fear it might, and flares across the Arab world from the Atlantic to the Persian gulf.

Spoke as 'President'
In his talk Wednesday night, Mr. Eisenhower said he was speaking as "your president" and not in his role as a candidate for reelection. He made these major points:

—The United States was "not consulted in any way . . . nor informed in advance" by Israel, Britain or France of their intentions to attack Egypt.

—The United States believes that in resorting to military force in their quarrels with Egypt, those three nations acted "in error." This country does not accept the use of force as a wise or proper instrument for the settlement of international disputes.

—We know "the three attacking nations" have been subjected to grave and repeated provocations by Egypt. Nevertheless, their armed attack can "scarcely be reconciled with the principles and purposes of the United Nations to which we have all subscribed."

— . . . There will be no United States involvement in these present hostilities. I therefore have no plan to call the Congress in special session."

Israeli Forces Claim Victory In Sinai Desert

Allied Headquarters Dispute Ship Claim

London — (U.P.) — The Suez Canal is blocked by a ship sunk by British and French bombers, Egypt announced today.

Even as the British and French stepped up their assaults on Egyptian airfields and Israeli forces claimed victory in the Sinai Desert, Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser proclaimed his defiance over Cairo Radio.

"Egypt will fight a total war against the British-French-Israeli alliance to defend her freedom and independence," he said.

The blocking of the canal was disclosed by an Egyptian communique.

"Britain and France have blocked Suez Canal navigation at a time when they have aroused the whole world by claiming they are protecting canal navigation," the communique said.

Dispute Egyptian Claim
Allied headquarters on Cyprus disputed the Egyptian claim.

An official announcement said the Egyptians themselves had attempted to tow the ship into a sinking position at Lake Timsah halfway down the canal. British naval aircraft attacked it twice and sank it on the second attempt. Headquarters believed it was clear of the channel outside the demarcation buoys.

It was the second day of British and French aerial attack which by midafternoon brought Cairo its eighth air raid alert.

Carrier-based planes had joined jet bombers streaming from Cyprus bases in the round the clock assault, striking at nine Egyptian airbases in both high and low level attacks. Four of the bases were around Cairo and Alexandria and the remainder around the Canal Zone and the Delta.

A French source said combined fleets were approaching the canal from both its north and south ends, apparently in preparation for amphibious landings to seize the canal zone.

Israel Claims Victory
In the Sinai Desert, Israel claimed to have cut off the 20 mile Gaza Strip from the rest of Egypt and to have bottled up some 20,000 of the cream of Egypt's army. Reports in London placed other Israeli forces within 20 miles of the Suez Canal in the south. Paratroops were being used.

Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, commander-in-chief of the Anglo-French forces, said the aerial assault will continue until Egypt "sees reason."

But Nasser showed no signs of quitting.

"Egypt will fight and fight and never surrender," he said. "We will fight from village to village and place to place."

He indicated that Egypt will pull its forces back from the Sinai Desert to consolidate west of the canal. He made it clear that Egypt will fight a guerrilla war as well as an organized war. Weapons are being distributed to the population.

Both the fighting and its attendant diplomatic activity were spreading.

Russia Calls Meeting
At United Nations, New York, an Egyptian spokesman charged that British and French planes were operating from Israeli airfields.

In Moscow, Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin called for a new conference of the 29 banding conference nations to plan aid for Egypt. It was regarded as a Soviet move to gain leadership of the Afro-Asian bloc, totally sympathetic to Egypt.

Bulganin also addressed a note to President Eisenhower.

George Sees Fighting Death Blow To NATO

Augusta, Ga. — (U.P.) — Sen. Walter F. George, President Eisenhower's personal representative to NATO, said today he believes that the outbreak of conflict in the Middle East had been a "death blow" to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

George, retiring chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that France and England, by going into the fighting, "have virtually withdrawn" from NATO which he called the "screen of protection" against Russia.

Encouraged To Fight
"The Israelis started the present trouble because they were encouraged to do so by both England and France," George said. "It may be that Russia's preoccupation with revolt in their satellite nations may have convinced the anti-Communists that it was a good time to act."

The situation in the Middle East today, George said, "presents one of the meanest pictures in world affairs we have had in some time."

He said he was surprised to see France get into the trouble in Egypt.

"France has most of its army (about 600,000) in Algeria where they will probably remain for the next 50 years," the veteran senator said. He added that neither France nor England were ready for war.

He also doubted that Russia would come into the conflict "as a nation."

Residents Along River Warned of Possible Flooding

The Medford weather bureau today warned residents along Rogue river to be prepared for the possibility of high water and advised Maj. Gen. Joseph Hicks, Jackson county civil defense director, to see that emergency crews along the stream are "ready to go."

General Hicks said civil defense workers have been alerted to possible emergency flood conditions during the next two to five days. Among CD workers "standing by" are those in Shady Cove, Eagle Point, Gold Hill and Rogue River, he said.

Heavy Snowfall
The weather bureau reported heavy snowfall at high elevations and said that it is watching to see what a "pretty wet storm" now brewing off the coast, will do. It could start coming into this area Friday night.

Residents along the river were advised to take out all removable property which is not being used. Such equipment as pumps which are not being used during the winter should be taken to higher ground, officials advised.

There is no immediate danger as yet, the weather bureau said, but it is the time of the year for high water and people living along the river should make sure they are ready.

In the 34-hour period up to 10 a.m. today, 34 of an inch of rain had fallen with 28 recorded at the weather station since midnight. Rainfall total for the month was listed at 6.23 inches including this morning's precipitation. The amount is about 4 inches above normal.

Occasional rain is anticipated through Friday with snow above 4,500 feet.

Snow at Crater Lake
Snow on the ground at Crater Lake National park this morning was more than double the depth on any Nov. 1 since 1936, the park service said.

A total of 54 inches was listed at 3:30 a.m. today, compared to 22 inches Nov. 1, 1936, the most snow recorded prior to this year since 1936. Other substantial amounts include 19 inches in 1946, 21 inches in 1950, and 18 inches last year. Amounts in other years ranged upward from no snow at all. No records were kept during World War II years, 1943-45.

Ten inches of new snow was reported at the park this morning, and roads into the park remained closed for the fourth consecutive day.

County Roads
Despite considerable snow on Dead Indian rd., no county roads have been closed because of the storms. Paul Rynning, county engineer, said, "Morrow rd. was 'flooded' Tuesday when an irrigation ditch became clogged and went over its banks, but no damage resulted, he said.

State police advised motorists to carry chains while traveling on the Siskiyou and Green Springs.

Three Americans Jointly Awarded Prize in Physics

Stockholm — (U.P.) — Three Americans were awarded jointly the Nobel physics prize today for their invention and development of the point contact transistor which is making revolutionary changes in the radio and telephone industries.

The physicists, who will split $38,633 in prize money equally, are Dr. Walter Brattain, Murray Hill, N. J.; Prof. John Bardeen, Champaign, Ill., and Dr. William Shockley, Mountain View, Calif.

It took two hours for the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences to reach a decision on the prize award for physics, making it the most hotly debated issue in the august institution's history.

Brattain and Shockley conducted their researches on the transistor while working together at the Bell Telephone Laboratories where Brattain, 54, still is a member of the technical staff. Shockley, 46, now is director of the Shockley Semiconductor Laboratory, a division of the Beckman Instruments company. Brattain was born in China of American parents and Shockley was born in London and came to the United States as a child.

Bardeen, 48, is a professor of physics and engineering at the University of Illinois.

Mrs. Yates, being held on an identical charge, will appear for preliminary hearing at the conclusion of her husband's hearing. She was arraigned in district court yesterday.

It was indicated that Yates' hearing would extend through today and possibly tomorrow. Both Mr. and Mrs. Yates are being represented by O. H. Bengtson, Medford attorney. They are being held in the county jail on $2,000 bail.

They are accused of forging prescriptions for dilaud, a pain-relieving narcotic, at Wainscott's pharmacy.

Dulles Expected To Ask UN To Order Cease Fire

United Nations, N. Y. — (U.P.) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is expected to ask today's emergency session of the U.N. General Assembly to call for an immediate "Palestine cease fire" and withdrawal of all foreign troops from Egypt, diplomatic sources said today.

Britain, France Object
Dulles was flying from Washington to lead the American delegation at the assembly's first emergency session, summoned by the Security Council Wednesday night over the objections of Britain and France.

The meeting was called after British and French vetoes of an American cease fire and withdrawal resolution blocked action by the council Tuesday on the Middle East fighting.

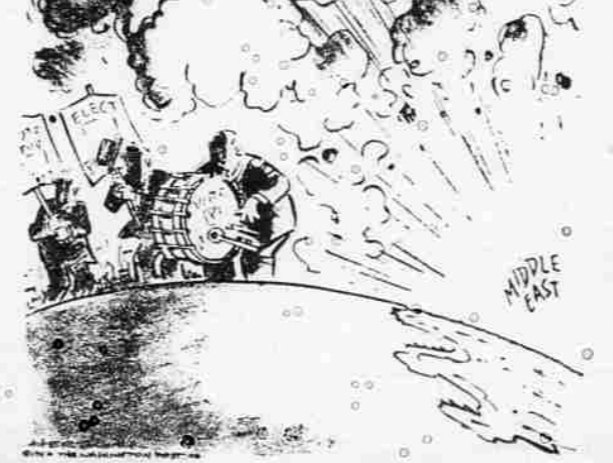

A few hours before the assembly was scheduled to meet, an Egyptian spokesman said British and French planes were operating from airfields in Israel in what he called a "declared war" against Egypt.

Work on Wording
U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., who led the U.S. fight in the Security Council to end hostilities, was busy consulting other delegations on the wording of a resolution to be put before the council.

It was certain that the resolution would not be worded the same as the one vetoed in the Security Council.

Hospital Said Bombed
The Egyptian spokesman accused Britain and France of bombing a hospital, a mosque and "innocent civilians."

Abdul Mawgoud Hassan, Egyptian press spokesman, said "the British and French have in fact joined, in a cowardly and shameful way, Israel in declaring war against Egypt."

Withdrawal of Foreign Troops Seen in Request

Lodge Working on Council Resolution

Nationalist Hungary Quits Warsaw Pact

Vienna — (U.P.) — The new nationalist Hungarian government quit the Warsaw pact today, the first Russian satellite to abandon the Soviet defense setup.

"Titoist" Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy declared Hungary's neutrality and called on the Big Four powers to guarantee it. The declaration was carried on Budapest Radio.

At the same time, Nagy protested to Russian Ambassador Andropov that Red Army reinforcements had entered Hungary. Andropov was reported to have said it was merely a regrouping of troops and not a new attempt on the part of Russia to smash the Hungarian revolution.

As part of his bid for independence, Nagy asked U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to place the Hungarian crisis on the General Assembly's agenda as a priority issue for debate. The assembly meets today in New York.

An earlier Radio, Budapest broadcast announced that Nagy had taken on the job of Hungarian foreign minister. This move was seen here as a preliminary to Hungarian withdrawal from the Warsaw pact. It also was interpreted as another step in placing rebellious Hungary among the ranks of neutralist nations with no political commitments to either Russia or the West.

Favorable Look on Overall Rogue Job Reported by Staff

The Senate interior and public works committee looks favorably on the overall Rogue River Basin project, it was reported in Washington today by a committee staff member.

Goodrich Lineweaver, reclamation consultant for the committee, which recently held a hearing in Medford on Rogue river flood control possibilities, indicated there is a chance that an effort will be made in the next congress for authorization of the project.

One phase of the Rogue basin proposal—the Talent division—is already under construction. It was approved after divergent interests agreed that it was non-controversial.

Action on the full program, however, originally estimated to bring some 74,000 acres under irrigation at a cost of some $94 million, has never been taken because of controversy over the possibility of damage to the Rogue sports fishery.

At the Medford hearing, it was apparent that the controversy between irrigation, reclamation and flood control interests, on one hand, and recreationists and fish and wildlife enthusiasts, on the other, is far from settled.

The Washington story, carried by United Press, did not make clear whether Lineweaver was quoting members of the committee, or whether his statement was his own opinion.

Studies involving the Rogue basin, ordered to be renewed after last winter's floods, are still in progress by both the bureau of reclamation and the corps of Army engineers, neither of which have as yet issued reports. Both have emphasized that the interests of all parties will be considered in their studies.
