

Utah Republicans Swept Into Office

Salt Lake City — (U.P.) — Republicans swept easily into all major offices in Utah's election. Only one race will be changed in the GOP lineup. Gov. J. Bracken Lee, who lost in the GOP primary to George D. Clyde and then decided to run as an independent, again was decisively whipped by Clyde.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett won another term. Reps. William A. Dawson and Henry Aldous Dixon swept past their Democratic opponents to win new terms.

Spaghetti Consumption in Italy Averages 61 Pounds

Rome — (U.P.) — Italy's consumption of spaghetti, the national dish, has doubled from the pre-war figure of 30.8 pounds to 61.6 pounds per year per person.

It's being washed down with an average consumption of 95 quarts of wine yearly per inhabitant. But despite these statistics, both the wine and "pasta" industries are suffering from combined pressures of foreign competition, vine pests, industrialization and substitute products.

For instance, exports of macaroni-type products are below pre-war figures. This is due not only to post-war difficulties concerning exports, but also to the fact that there are now many factories abroad producing similar foods.

No Italian in his right mind will ever admit that these products can compare to the traditional Italian product. Still, they are suffering considerable competition in foreign markets.

Another factor is the passing of many spaghetti-making concerns from the artisan to the industrial phase. Economically run industrialized plants have largely replaced the hand-made pasta factories.

This means the potential output has increased, but in fact, less spaghetti is being made in proportion than at any time in the past 50 years.

Due to a general rise in the overall Italian standard of living, actual per capita consumption is up, but only an ever-diminishing fraction goes for export. And the total produced comes to about half what the factories could turn out, operating on a full-production basis.

The 1955 production of spaghetti came to 1,42,990 tons (of which about 74,000 tons went abroad). The potential for Italian factories is about 3,000,000 tons.

The Italian wine production picture is only slightly better. Of a world total of about 22,000,000 acres under wine cultivation, Italy, with about 4,000,000 acres, possesses the greatest percentage of any single country. (Spain and France follow with about 3,500,000 acres apiece, and other countries have only small percentages of the total.)

Wine Consumption Off
But Italian wine production, which totaled 5,500,000 tons yearly at the turn of the century, suffered marked reduction during the next 20 years as a result of the spread of Phylloxera, the wine pest. It revived, with the help of American aid after World War I, then dropped again as a result of the general crisis of agriculture starting in 1929, and reached an all-time low in World War II.

In the past 10 years, production has surpassed figures of the past 50 years, but world consumption during this time has been decreasing.

In Italy alone 95 quarts per year per person in 1955 is well below the figure of 130 quarts of 1910. France and Spain also have shown large decreases, and throughout the world, competition from beer and soft drinks has been strongly felt.

In world sales, Italy leads with 20 per cent of the total, followed by France Spain and Portugal, in that order.

SAF Chapter to Hold Dinner Meeting Friday
The Siskiyou chapter, Columbia river section, of the Society of American Foresters will hold a dinner at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 9, at the Jackson hotel. A children's hour will be held at 6:45 p.m.

Jack H. Wood, supervisor of the Rogue River National forest, will discuss the timber resources review. Ed Schroeder, Medford, will talk on Oregon timber management, and Lou Alexander, Medford, will talk on prism cruising.

Weatherhane Counties Correct

Washington — (U.P.) — The eight weatherhane counties were right again in the presidential election, as they have been in every presidential election since 1896.

The eight counties, scattered from New Hampshire to Oregon, rode the Eisenhower landslide in the same uncanny way they have been riding a presidential winner ever since William McKinley.

Here is how the eight voted Tuesday according to nearly complete returns:
Coos County, N. H. — Eisenhower, 11,465; Stevenson, 5,871.
Stratford County, N. H. — Eisenhower, 15,299; Stevenson, 9,619.

Palo Alto County, Iowa — Eisenhower, 3,128; Stevenson, 3,073.
Jasper County, Iowa — Eisenhower, 8,282; Stevenson, 6,144.
Albany County, Wyo. — Eisenhower, 3,852; Stevenson, 3,043.
Laramie County, Wyo. — Eisenhower, 7,975; Stevenson, 6,830.
Vanderburg County, Ind. — Eisenhower, 41,359; Stevenson, 38,844.
Crook County, Ore. — Eisenhower, 769; Stevenson, 651.

'Joe Smith' Scores Nebraska Victory

Omaha, Neb. — (U.P.) — Terry Carpenter, Scottsbluff, the Republican convention delegate who nominated an imaginary Joe Smith for vice president, won a seat in the Nebraska unicameral Legislature Tuesday.

Carpenter, a former congressman and legislator known to his home state as "Terrible Terry," unseated Amos Morrison, Mitchell, by taking about 56 per cent of the vote from his home county district. The vote was nonpartisan.

Carpenter had predicted that the Joe Smith episode would boost his campaign somewhat.

Sadlers Wells Ballet Cancels Moscow Visit

London — (U.P.) — The famed British Sadlers Wells Ballet today cancelled a planned visit to Moscow because of the "renewed suppression by Soviet forces of Hungarian liberty and independence."

A spokesman said "it has been unanimously agreed that in the present circumstances the projected visit . . . cannot take place."

The ballet was scheduled to go to Moscow in return for the tour here of the Russian Bolshoi Ballet company.
