Republic of Korea Reports Military Buildup in North

Leaders Hold Meeting To Discuss Threat

Seoul — (U.P.) — The Republic of Korea reported a Communist military buildup along the truce line in North Korea Saturday and government leaders met in emergency session to decide whether a new attack is imminent.

Gen. Lee Heng Kun, South Korea's Army chief of staff, reported trucks had been moving southward in North Korea for two weeks carrying weapons and ammunition for the 700,000-man Chinese-North Korean Army.

South Korea's Army, Navy and Air Force stayed on war alert for the fourth successive day. All leaves have been cancelled for the armed services and national police.

Study Reports

The republic's state council met with the chiefs of staff to study intelligence reports. They refused to comment afterward but high officials took Saturday afternoon off, apparently indicating they did not expect an immediate attack.

A spokesman at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said he had no official information of the North Korean buildup reported by the ROK Army.

In Tokyo, a spokesman for the Far East and United Nations command said no special alert orders had been issued and regular work schedules, holidays and leaves are continuing.

Navy Flying Boat Missing at Sea

Hamilton, Bermuda — (U.P.) — A U. S. navy flying boat carrying a crew of 10 and powerful enemy detection equipment was reported missing over the Atlantic Saturday. The Navy said it "assumed" the plane was the one seen crashing in flames last night by the crew of a freighter.

Six naval planes, two coast guard planes, two destroyers, and a coast guard cutter were sent out to search for the missing Martin Marlin twin-engine P5M, which carried seven enlisted men and three officers on a routine night patrol.

Naval officials said the plane, based on Bermuda, sent out its last radio message at 8:30 p.m. from a point about 350 miles north of Bermuda.

The Liberian freighter Captain Lyrras messaged the Coast Guard at 9:01 p.m. Friday that it had seen a plane explode and fall in flames about 400 miles north of Bermuda and 450 miles east of Ocean City, Md.

'Light Damage' From Mexican Earthquake

Mexico City — (U.P.) — Officials said Saturday that an earth tremor Friday caused "light damage" in several towns in southern Mexico.

Seismologists at the government observatory here estimated the center of the disturbance at 320 miles southeast of Mexico City.

Hungary Reds Turn Back Supplies From West For Wounded

Vienna — (U.P.) — Hungarian Communists Saturday turned back a shipment of western food and medicine for wounded and starving in Budapest.

The puppet Hungarian regime set up "terror courts" to deal with captured rebels whose 18-day-old revolt was dying out amid starvation and chaos.

A Swedish newsman who arrived in Vienna from Budapest Saturday said some sniping continues in the provinces, but all Hungarian army barracks now are in Russian hands.

Hearing on Flood Control for Rogue Set in Grants Pass

A public hearing on Rogue river flood control will be conducted by the Army engineers at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in the Josephine county library at Grants Pass.

Col. Jackson Graham, district engineer for the Army corps of engineers, said all interested parties have been invited to be present or to send representatives.

The hearing was originally scheduled for Oct. 27, but was postponed because the engineers could not have a representative present.

Oral Testimony

Oral testimony will be accepted, but engineers have asked witnesses to submit written statements with their testimony in the interest of accuracy.

Records from the hearings will be forwarded for consideration by the secretary of the Army.

Opposing interests of fish and wildlife enthusiasts and landowners were emphasized in Medford, Oct. 19, when a senate interior and public works committee hearing was held in the federal courtroom of the Medford post office building.

Among witnesses at the Medford hearing were state, county, municipal and service organization representatives as well as individuals. The hearing was conducted by Sen. Richard Neuberger, (D-Ore.).

Russia Threatens to Send 'Volunteers'

Moscow — (U.P.) — Russia Saturday threatened to put "great numbers" of trained volunteer pilots, tank and artillery reservists into Egypt unless Britain, France and Israel withdraw from the country.

A statement issued by the official Tass news agency repeated the Soviet determination to use force if necessary to crush "aggressors" in the Middle East.

It said "appropriate authorities of the U.S.S.R. would not hinder the departure of Soviet citizen volunteers" for Egypt if the three powers refuse to heed the United Nations appeal to quit the country.

Four-Lane Highway Planned to The Dalles

Portland — (U.P.) — Completion of a four-lane highway linking Portland and the Dalles by 1962 was announced here Saturday as a tentative goal of the state highway commission.

The project, calling for widening of the 67 mile river-level route stretch from Troutdale to the Dalles to a four-lane route, would be one of the major expenditures in Oregon under funds granted by the federal highway bill passed by the last congress.

Cost of the four-lane Portland to the Dalles route would be about $30,000,000.

UN Asks Dutch, Danish To Clear Suez Canal

Rotterdam — (U.P.) — The United Nations has asked a group of Dutch and Danish firms to tackle the job of clearing the Suez Canal, it was announced here Saturday.

Three salvage experts from each country will go to Egypt as soon as possible to survey the canal and determine what equipment will be needed to reopen it to shipping.

Press Survey Shows Desertion From Reds

London — (U.P.) — Disgust with Russian violence in Hungary is causing wholesale desertion from Communist parties west of the Iron Curtain.

A United Press survey showed that Soviet military intervention in the Hungarian revolt has confronted Western Communists with one of their worst internal crises since Stalin sided with Hitler in the short-lived Molotov-Ribbentrop pact of 1939.

Eisenhower Rejects Immediate Summit Meeting With Reds

Believes UN Place To Handle Threats

Washington — (U.P.) — President Eisenhower Saturday rejected an immediate summit meeting with Russia. He said the United Nations is the best place to handle current threats to world peace.

His firm declaration that this country prefers to work through the U.N. to meet the current crises in the Middle East and Eastern Europe was specifically addressed to a Swiss proposal for a five-power conference of U.S., Russian, British, French and Indian chiefs of state.

But it carried the further implication—borne out by diplomatic sources here—that the United States also is opposed to an early big three meeting which Britain and France have been urgently seeking.

Switzerland suggested the five-power summit meeting earlier last week when Russia was openly threatening to move into the Middle East with force. India had accepted the proposal and British prime minister Sir Anthony Eden Friday night termed it a "helpful" idea.

He told Swiss officials he had given "urgent and sympathetic" consideration to the proposed five-power meeting and that he appreciated the sincere "concern for the preservation of peace which inspired it."

"However," he said, "the United Nations is actively seized with the various problems posing a threat to world peace and I believe that the interests of all will be best served by carrying these initiatives to a successful conclusion."

It was noted that the president's language did not rule out the possibility of a big power meeting later, when the immediate crises in the Middle East and Soviet satellite countries have been resolved.

Parade to Highlight Vets Day Celebration

All schools, federal, county and city offices and banks will be closed tomorrow in observance of Veterans Day.

Although Veterans Day is today, Monday is considered a legal holiday.

Highlights of the celebration will be at 7 a.m. veterans breakfast, sponsored by the American Legion, at the Legion hall, 331 South Riverside ave., and a Veterans Day parade through downtown Medford, starting at 11 a.m.

Members of the Retail Merchants association agreed earlier this month to remain open during the day. Veteran employees, however, will be permitted to attend the breakfast and participate in the parade.

Foreign Minister Levels Charge Toward Russia

Jerusalem, Israel Sector — (U.P.) — Israel Foreign Minister Golda Meir charged Russia Saturday with "sowing seeds of hatred and aggression in the Middle East in the hope of reaping the fruits of wrath."

The former Milwaukee school teacher's charge echoed the statement of another Israeli government source that the Russians "are trying to talk Syria and Jordan into some provocative action against Israel."

Man Arrested for KF Bank Robbery

Klamath Falls — (U.P.) — A 23-year-old Klamath Falls electrician, scheduled to be married Saturday, was taken into custody shortly before the ceremony and charged with the $2,700 robbery of the First National Bank of Portland last Thursday.

Joseph F. Santoina Jr., special agent in charge of the Portland office of the FBI identified the man as Paul James Lambertson, a resident of Klamath Falls for about 10 years.

Lambertson was to have been married yesterday afternoon. Wedding guests waited at the church for the bridegroom until police came to inform them he had been arrested.

U.S. Commissioner Bert C. Thomas ordered Lambertson held in lieu of $10,000 bond and held in the city over to the U.S. Grand jury in Portland.

Santoina said that a large portion of the $2,700 taken in the robbery was recovered.

Rome — (U.P.) — A bomb exploded outside the Soviet commercial office here last night. No casualties were reported.

Director Election Scheduled Tuesday

Director elections in the Eagle Point Irrigation district will be held Tuesday, Nov. 13, when voters will choose between incumbent E. H. Bigham and Ed Greenwood for a three-year term on the board.

Voting will take place between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the irrigation district office.

Since candidates in other irrigation districts are unopposed there will be no directorship election in the Talent, Rogue River Valley, Medford or Gold Hill districts.

Unopposed for director positions in the other districts are Otto Bohnert, Rogue River Valley district; Paul Culbertson, Medford Irrigation district; Lester Parks, Gold Hill Irrigation district; Homer Moore and Evan Rasmussen, Talent Irrigation district.

Rasmussen's term will be for one year. He was appointed to fill the vacancy on the board created when Henry Owens moved out of the district.

Administration Said Revamping Power Policy

By A. ROBERT SMITH, Washington Correspondent

Washington — The defeat of ex-Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), along with a general pattern of Democratic congressional election gains in the West, has convinced high officials of the Eisenhower administration that they must now revamp the administration's electric power policy in order to have it meet with public approval in the western states.

A revision of the "partnership" power policy, if not an outright scrapping of it, has already been ordered and is expected to be carried out before Congress convenes Jan. 3, informed sources have disclosed.

Vice President Nixon is understood to believe the controversial power policy cost the Republicans heavily in the west in their unsuccessful attempt to win enough seats to control the new Congress. Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton, who inherited these policies when he succeeded McKay last spring, is said to agree that a revision is needed. Both Nixon and Seaton did much election campaigning in the western states this fall in behalf of local GOP congressional candidates.

Presumably, policy changes will be a question for cabinet discussion shortly. The first clear indication of any fundamental changes in policy are likely to be made in President Eisenhower's state of the union message in January.

The impetus for this policy revision stems directly from the outcome of key congressional contests in the West, especially the Pacific Northwest where Democrats won their most significant victories. Specifically, these contests were:

In Oregon, where McKay, the ex-cabinet official who ran on the record of his resource development policies, was defeated by Morse, one of the most outspoken critics of those policies; and where two Republican congressmen — Reps. Harris Ellis

Investigators Seek Cause of Crash of Multi-Jet Bomber

Navy Seamaster Goes To Earth in Delaware

Wilmington, Del. — (U.P.) — A shroud of military secrecy hung over the wreckage of the Navy's $3.6 million Martin Seamaster Saturday as investigators sought clues to the cause of the fiery crash of the multi-jet bomber.

The huge four-engine craft crashed into a farmer's potato field near St. Georges, 10 miles south of here Friday afternoon. The four man crew bailed out.

Air Police from New Castle Air Force base blocked off the accident scene, which covered a quarter-mile. The wreckage was reported "unrecognizable" and in pieces no larger than three to five feet square.

Plan Study

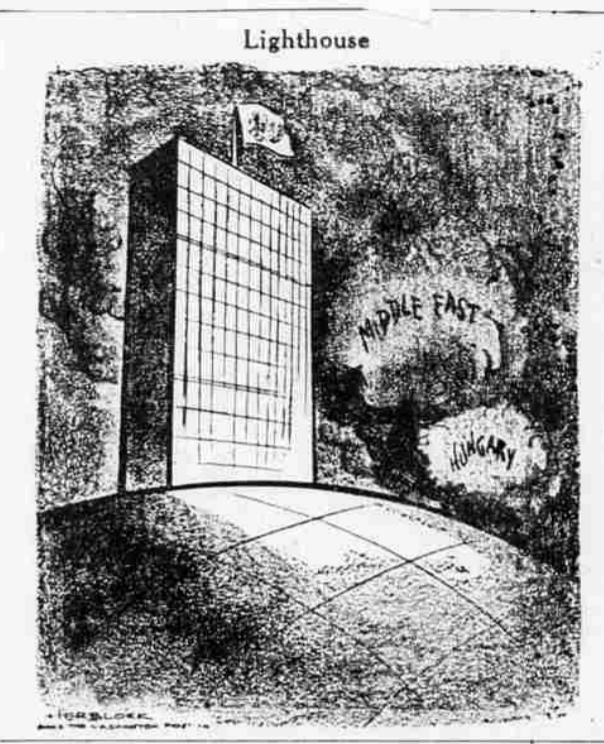

CAA and Navy inspectors and engineers from the Glenn L. Martin Co., Baltimore, builders of the plane, planned to recover all the pieces of the jet for study.

The crew parachuted to safety and were carried by a strong wind into marshlands bordering the Delaware River. A chase plane, observing the routine test flight of the Seamaster, directed volunteer firemen to the scene.

A flight test engineer, William Compton, Lutherville, Md., suffered undetermined injuries and was evacuated by helicopter to Baltimore.

The three other crew members, pilot, R. S. Turner, Baltimore; co-pilot, W. E. Cunningham, Towson, Md., and flight test engineer Thomas Kenney, Towson, escaped injury.

An eyewitness said he saw a "ball of fire" in the sky just before the craft plunged to earth. A state policeman said the Seamaster exploded in midair shortly after the crew parachuted. The plane was the Navy's second and only remaining multi-jet, water based bomber.

Berrydale Residents Make Second Attempt To Annex to Medford

A number of residents of the Berrydale district, which turned down annexation to Medford last Tuesday, are going to make another try at annexing a smaller area, it was announced Saturday.

Nick F. Gier, one of the leaders of the annexation movement, reported that the annexation proposal originally suggested to the Medford planning commission will be made again.

The original proposal was expanded by the planning commission to include more territory, and many Berrydale people believe it was residents of the longer area included by the planning commission who defeated the annexation last Tuesday.

A meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Friends church, Merriman rd. and DeBarre ave., to discuss the cut-down proposal and to muster support for it. The group also plans to attend a meeting of the planning commission Tuesday evening in an attempt to get that organization's approval for the revised plan.

Principal aim of those seeking annexation is to obtain city services for the installation of a sewer. The present sanitary district there does not have the bonding capacity for construction of both a sewer line and a disposal plant, and under city policies use of Medford's disposal plant is no longer being extended to districts outside the city.

Those supporting the plan are worried about an extreme health hazard in the area, Gier said, a statement borne out by Dr. A. Eric Merkel, county health officer, who has pointed out that several cases of infectious diseases have been reported there in recent months, and the danger of contagion is high. Septic tanks have overflowed, and the ground in much of the area no longer will absorb the sewage being poured into it.

The larger annexation proposal was defeated, 487 to 240, at last week's election. The large Grandview-Kenwood annexation, however, was passed by residents there.

Students Celebrate Oregon State Win

Corvallis — (U.P.) — Bedlam broke loose in Corvallis, the home of Oregon State college, last night in the wake of Oregon State's stunning 29 to 19 win over Stanford at Palo Alto which virtually assured the Beavers a place in the Rose Bowl New Year's.

Thousands of students and football fans converged on downtown Corvallis. Traffic was jammed for blocks and wildly shouting motorcades paraded through the city.

The traffic situation led police Sgt. Charles Adams to comment, "If somebody doesn't get killed I'll miss my guess."

In spite of the noisy celebration and general disorder that reigned, no injuries were reported.

Observers said that it appeared every person in the city who had a car was in on the noise making. Those who didn't have cars were piled on the tops and hoods of the vehicles belonging to their friends.

Official Count Gives GOP Lane County Seat

Eugene — (U.P.) — The official count of the state house of representatives vote in Lane county Saturday reversed a previously announced unofficial tally and showed Republican Edwin E. Cone of Eugene had been re-elected to the legislature.

An earlier unofficial count had Democrat Charles Paddock winning one of the five Lane county seats.

But Lloyd Payne, head of the county elections department, said Saturday official figures gave Cone 29,147 votes against 28,392 for Paddock.

Washington — (U.P.) — The Agriculture Department has set Dec. 11 for a referendum in which farmers in 24 states will determine the kind of corn program to be in effect for the 1957 crop.

6,000-Man Force Flown to Naples; Prepare for Egypt

London — (U.P.) — The first units of a United Nations police force began assembling in Naples Saturday and prepared to start flying to Egypt Tuesday on an urgent mission to occupy the Suez Canal zone and prevent a general mid-east war.

An American airlift carried the advance guard of the 6,000-man international force to the Italian staging area.

Swiss air and United Nations signed an agreement for the transportation of the troops to Cairo. U. S. planes will not fly in.

Shuttling Troops

A Swiss air announcement in New York said three DC-6B transports will begin shuttling the troops, 75 at a time, from the staging area Tuesday morning.

Glant U. S. "flying boxcars" airlifted 100 Danish and Norwegian soldiers to Naples. From there, Swiss planes were expected to fly the advance contingents to the Suez Canal zone as soon as Egypt gives formal clearance — probably today. The Egyptian government Saturday accepted the police force in principle.

Officials said the American part of the airlift would end in Italy because the arrival of U. S. transport planes on Egyptian soil might create a "touchy" situation.

Additional Contingents

Additional contingents for the international force were expected to follow within the next 48 hours from the Scandinavian countries, Columbia, Canada and India.

Britain, France and Israel have promised to withdraw their troops from Egypt as soon as the international police force takes over effective control.

In Cairo, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the UN Peace force, met with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi to make last-minute arrangements for the arrival of the UN force.

Brig. Abdel Kader Hagem, head of the Egyptian government information office, said the international police force would be stationed on a "temporary basis" along the truce line set up in 1949 Middle East armistice agreement.

Toys Being Taken For Holiday Gifts

Toys are now being accepted at the Medford fire department for repair and distribution to needy children at Christmas time.

About 570 children received toys for Christmas last year as the result of an annual project of the Medford city firemen and the Medford Lady Lions. This year firemen and Lady Lions have expressed hope of furnishing even more children with toys through the project and cooperation of the public in donating used items.

Firemen repair the toys and the Lady Lions distribute them.

Firemen have asked that those desiring to give toys should bring them to the fire hall, Third and Front sts., so repairs can be completed by Christmas. All types of toys are acceptable, including dolls, tricycles, wagons, scooters and gifts such as old portable radios and costume jewelry are needed for older age groups.

The annual fireman's ball to help raise funds for the toy project will be held Thanksgiving night, Nov. 22, at Rogue Valley ballroom.

Television Highlight

"World in Crisis," a CBS television program outlining the current situation in world affairs through on-the-spot reporting will be seen on television station KBES at 4:30 p.m. today. It was reported today.

The program was formerly entitled "Satellites in Revolt," but the spread of unrest and armed conflict to the Middle East caused a broadening of the scope of the program.
