Arab Leaders Open Summit Conference On Mid-East Crisis

Beirut, Lebanon—(U.P.)—Kings, premiers, presidents and high state officials of the Arab world opened a summit conference here today to work out a united Arab policy in the Middle East crisis. Assembled at the request of President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon, they were expected to take a firm stand in support of Egypt and to discuss the question of an oil boycott against Britain and France. Attending the meeting besides Chamoun were President Shukri El Kuwaty of Syria, Syrian Premier Sabri Assali, King Feisal of Iraq, King Hussein of Jordan, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, Libya Premier Mustafa Ben Halim, and various other legislative leaders and high government officials of the Arab world.

Touchy Oil Problem
The Sudan sent a representative, and Egypt was represented by its ambassador to Lebanon, Gen. Abdel Hamid Ghaleb. Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser also sent a personal message to the meeting. The Yemen delegation had not arrived by the time the meeting got under way. The question of an oil boycott was expected to be one of the more delicate problems of the two-day conference. Diplomatic observers believed the meeting could develop into a tug of war between traditional Arab rivals, Egypt and Iraq. Some reports said Iraq has become alarmed by continuing Moscow radio appeals to the Middle East to destroy oil wells and pipelines. Pipelines Cut

Iraq's pipelines to the Mediterranean have already been cut. Because the Suez Canal is blocked, tankers from the Persian Gulf must take the long route around Africa to European markets. Saudi Arabia has cut off all oil to the British protectorate of Bahrain and its big refinery and has banned shipment of Saudi oil to Britain and France. Saudi Arabia has broken diplomatic relations with Britain and France. Iraq has broken off relations with France and has said it will refuse to sit with Britain in future meetings of the Baghdad pact, a pro-Western defense alliance. Jordan also has severed relations with France.

Porter Planning Appreciation Tour

Eugene — (U.P.) — Congressman-elect Charles Porter, first Democrat elected to Congress in Oregon's fourth Congressional district, said today he would make an "appreciation tour" of the district before leaving for his new post in Washington. Porter said "I am deeply grateful and humble for the trust reposed in me by my constituents in the 4th district and am entering the most important honor of my career with personal freedom from special interests, and a sincere desire to represent all the people."

Neuberger To Support Refugee Admittance

Portland — (U.P.) — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.), today expressed full support for President Eisenhower's action to admit 5000 Hungarian refugees to the United States. The Portland Democrat said he would introduce and support legislation in the Senate to ratify the admittance of the refugees from Soviet aggression in Hungary. Neuberger wired the President that this country "has long stood as a symbol of freedom to the world and has been a home of those who have fled from oppression, tyranny and dictatorship and the beacon of American freedom must shine bright to all peoples in the world."

Truth Serum Test Appears To Clear Woman of Manslaughter

Walla Walla, Wash. — (U.P.) — A "truth serum" test which enabled a pretty brunette to revive a night of horror appeared today to have virtually cleared her of a manslaughter slaying which she confessed. On July 11, 1954, police found Mrs. Violet Sill, 37, Seattle, wounded in the shoulder and abdomen and her husband, Marion, a tavern operator, dying of a shotgun wound. Mrs. Sill told officers she had shot her husband and then tried to take her own life. She was tried, convicted and sentenced to not more than 20 years in the state penitentiary here. Her minimum term was set at five years. Her attorney, David Weyer, remained convinced of her innocence. He invited Stanley G. MacDonald, Portland, a ballistics expert, to investigate.

MacDonald, after two months of tests, said he was convinced the woman was innocent. Tests proved, he said, Mrs. Sill could not have inflicted the two wounds on herself. Last July 19, Dr. G. Charles Sutch, consulting psychiatrist at the prison, administered the truth serum, sodium amytal, and took Mrs. Sill back more than two years to the night of the shooting. Emotionless, she told of going into her bedroom, removing her hat and gloves and coming out. Then her voice became choked with fear. "What happened then?" Sutch asked. "He was standing there in the doorway," she sobbed. "He had a gun."

Mrs. Sill said her husband fired at her and hit her in the shoulder. She ran to the front window to call for help but the street below was deserted. Then she said, Mrs. Sill fired again and the shot tore through her linen jacket and into the stomach flesh. She said she ran across the room, then felt a blow on the back of her head. Her next recollection was looking up at her husband from the floor. Sill was standing over her, the butt of the gun resting on the floor. "I said, 'don't shoot me again!' Then I grabbed the bottom of the gun. I shot him. I hit him. I didn't mean to. I wanted to get away. I was scared. He was crazy."

Golfer To Stick To Golf Advice

Eugene — (U.P.) — Bob Prall, the University of Oregon golfer from Salem, vowed today he'd confine advice giving to golfing. Prall told members of the freshman girls rally squad last week that it was a tradition for fresh coeds to protest against staid homecoming rules. The girls more than took him at his word. Some 400 of them stormed the Student Union building where the football team was about to eat a steak dinner. The football players were smeared with non-kissed lipstick and so was Prall when he tried to stop the girls. "I had no idea the thing would turn out so big," he said. Meanwhile, Mrs. Golda P. Wickham, associate director of student affairs, said the girls taking part in the uprising would have to pay for damages to the Student Union dining room and to two fraternity houses which also were attacked.

Charles Wilson's Wife in Hospital

Washington — (U.P.) — Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, wife of the secretary of defense, became ill early today and was taken to Walter Reed Army hospital. The Defense Department said Mrs. Wilson was undergoing "medical and surgical observation." Defense Secretary Wilson was with her at the hospital. A Defense Department spokesman said that Mrs. Wilson was stricken at her apartment early today. She called her doctor who suggested she go to Walter Reed for examination. Gale Storm, the "My Little Margie" of television, was described as in "good condition" today at St. Vincent's hospital after giving birth to a six-pound, nine-ounce daughter.
