

Brave Jimmy Byrne stands surrounded by scores of potential Thanksgiving dinners. Three-year-old Jimmy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Byrne, who raise the birds on their Upper Applegate farm. This year the Byrnes have a flock of 3,500 bronze turkeys to help supply food for southern Oregon families.

Among the guests at the Champagne Supper given last week end by Medford Junior Service league were (left to right) Bruno Rath, Mrs. Rath, Mrs. D. Ford McCormick and Mr. McCormick. The Rath's are newcomers to the valley. Fresh red roses decorated the club walls, and were pinned to the programs.

Mrs. Richard W. Lamb Jr. baked a pre-Thanksgiving pumpkin pie last week for her husband and the little Lambs, Buddy, whose real name is Dick, aged 5, and Betsy, 3½, admire the tasty looking pastry while Betsy, 2, examines a potholder. Baby Scott, who sat contentedly in his stroller in a corner of the kitchen, is more interested in milk, being but four months old. The family lives at 720 Whitman place and Mr. Lamb is assistant executive for Crater Lake Boy Scout council.

Festive Season

By Olive Starcher

Mid-November in Medford means cool weather, more parties on the social calendar and plans for that unique American holiday, Thanksgiving. In preparation for the day homemakers are laying in supplies from garden and farm for a sumptuous dinner, and service organizations of the city and county have made plans to brighten the day for the less fortunate.

As a Thanksgiving project, Junior Red Cross members made holiday centerpieces for Camp White, and collected food for Thanksgiving baskets.

One of the large pre-holiday parties was the Champagne Supper given November 9 by Medford Junior Service league as a benefit for the league's kindergarten for deaf children.

Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Halboth, posed here in the new Crest room of Rogue Valley Country club, attended the Champagne Supper. Mrs. Halboth, league member, was one of the style show models but was photographed wearing her own Spanish type gown of blue lace and taffeta ribbon with full tiered skirt. Her chandelier earrings are of brilliants in shades of pink.

One foursome at the Junior Service league's Champagne Supper last week end was composed of (left to right) Mrs. Sam Gilbert, Mrs. Fred W. Greene, Colonel Greene and Mr. Gilbert. The Greens, who had made their home in Medford in the past, recently returned here to live after Colonel Greene was retired from the United States Army. Both Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Greene wore the long brilliant earrings which are much in vogue with women this fall for party finery.

Frank B. Hopewell and his mother, Mrs. James Seaver of Lexington, Mass., prepare to sample the pink champagne which was served at the recent supper given by Medford Junior Service league. Mrs. Seaver left Thursday to return home after spending several days here with the Hopewells and their sons, Henry Carlyle and Charles Edward Hopewell. Mrs. Hopewell, a league member, joined her husband and Mrs. Seaver later after the style show for which she modeled.
