

Yugoslav Frontier Guards on 24-Hour Alert for Trouble

Belgrade — (UP) — Border guards have been strongly reinforced, and put on a 24-hour alert along the frontiers of Hungary and Romania, Yugoslav sources reported today.

There was no official confirmation of the reports which followed sharp Soviet criticism Monday of Marshal Tito and a flood of unconfirmed reports of Soviet troop movements toward the Yugoslav borders in both Romania and Hungary.

Garrisons Reinforced
The Yugoslav sources reported heavy firing in Hungary some 19 miles from the Yugoslav border town of Subotica and said the Soviet garrisons had been reinforced in towns along the Yugoslav border.

The Yugoslav sources said heavy firing was heard for two hours at dawn today and said it was reported to be from Red army motorized units clashing with freedom fighters.

The London Daily Telegraph reported newly arrived Soviet troops were clashing with the old Russian garrison troops, some of whom were sympathetic to the Hungarians in their first revolt against Red rule.

Tito Reply Expected
Reliable political sources predicted Marshal Tito would unleash a blistering reply to charges Monday by the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda he was interfering in the internal affairs of Soviet satellites, and contradicting basic Marxist-Leninist principles.

They said Tito also may disclose more details of his lengthy secret talks with Soviet Leader Nikita S. Khrushchev and other Kremlin leaders in Yugoslavia and the Crimea this fall.

Ike Expected To Ask Russians To Describe Disarmament Plans

Washington — (UP) — American officials said today President Eisenhower probably will tell Russia to spell out its new disarmament proposals more explicitly if it is sincere about them.

U.S. disarmament experts suspect that Russia may have put forth the new proposals largely as a propaganda move to divert attention from the Hungarian situation. But they said "stakes in the disarmament race are too high to leave any stone unturned."

Mr. Eisenhower and Harold E. Stassen, his special disarmament adviser, went over the Russian proposals Monday as part of a government-wide "word by word" study of the message. Stassen also met with a seven-agency governmental committee which is trying to determine whether the Soviet proposal holds any hope for successful negotiation on disarmament.

Propose New 'Summit'
The latest Moscow ideas were communicated over the week end to the United States, Britain, France, Red China and India. It called for a new "summit" conference at which the Soviet Union would be prepared to discuss limited application of Mr. Eisenhower's "open skies" aerial inspection plan.

This was the first instance in which the Soviets indicated they might accept the aerial inspection idea in any form.

The Russians proposed creation of a 1,000-mile belt across Europe which would be subject to a test of the aerial inspection plan. The belt would run about 500 miles on both sides of a line separating Eastern and Western Europe.

Blast Western Powers
But coupled with this new proposal, the Russians blasted Western powers in biting language and repeated many old Soviet disarmament ideas, including immediate suspension of H-bomb tests.

Officials said the United States is not ready for another summit meeting on the basis of the new Soviet note. But they said the United States will want to explore the Soviet plan thoroughly through diplomatic channels before accepting or rejecting it. One likely way to do this, they said, is for Mr. Eisenhower to ask Russia for more details if it wants serious negotiations to end the arms race.

Authorities quickly turned down the idea that the aerial inspection be limited to the zone suggested by Russia. That would let Soviet inspectors check almost all the North Atlantic Treaty Organization area but would bar inspectors from seeing what goes on inside the Soviet border. Officials said this would mean the end of NATO's usefulness.

Air Force General Succeeds Gruenther As Leader of NATO

Paris — (UP) — U.S. Air Force Gen. Lauris Norstad succeeded Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther today as supreme commander of Allied powers in Europe in a move pointing up the growing role of air power in modern warfare.

It was the first time an airman has taken over the reins of the combined command and was recognition that air power has become the foremost weapon in defense of the Western world.

Brief Ceremony
The actual turnover came during a brief ceremony at the rambling SHAPE headquarters, located in what was once the private hunting grounds of the kings of France.

Both Gruenther and Norstad spoke briefly to an audience of military men and units from each of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries and a host of Paris dignitaries.

Gruenther, who was slated to retire from the Army Jan. 1 after 38 years of service to become president of the American Red Cross, returns to the United States by way of Canada later this week.

Norstad is already well acquainted with SHAPE. He served for three years, and for two years prior to that was commander of SHAPE's central air force.

Auto Spurs Search For Robbers of Bank

Seattle — (UP) — An abandoned getaway car spurred a search in the metropolitan Seattle area today for two armed bandits who robbed a drive-in branch bank of an estimated $34,000.

The two men entered the branch of the People's National Bank of Washington shortly before the 3 p.m. closing time Monday.

One of them guarded the door while the second drew a gun and stuffed a paper bag with bills.

As the pair fled across a parking lot, the paper bag burst open scattering bills to the ground. The men did not stop but fled in a 1950 Mercury club coupe equipped with stolen license plates.

The abandoned car was found Monday night by police.

Medford Pair Protest Tax Collection Effort

Washington — (UP) — A Medford couple, former operators of a Klamath Falls hotel, filed petitions here yesterday protesting efforts of the federal government to collect more than $47,000 in taxes and penalties the government says is due.

James F. and Nell Pulver, former operators of the Palm hotel in Klamath Falls, denied that they owe the additional money and also pleaded the statute of limitations as a bar to recovery of the alleged tax deficiencies which are for the period from 1942-47.

The couple charged that the government made "arbitrary and false" additions to their taxable incomes and was seeking to impose a tax "on non-existent income."
