

Families, Friends Gather For Thanksgiving Dinners

Traditional Thanksgiving dinners for families and friends are being held today in hundreds of Medford and valley homes.

Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts are entertaining today for members of their family and for two or three friends in the neighborhood. Family members present will be Mr. and Mrs. Allyn A. Monroe and their children, and Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen and children.

Only family member absent is the Rasmussen's oldest son, Bob, who motored south to Stanford to attend the Stanford-California football game and the traditional house party and dance planned by his fraternity chapter, Delta Kappa Epsilon.

The Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Luther returned home recently after a vacation spent in Carmel, San Francisco, and Reno, Nev. While in Carmel they saw Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carpenter and Mrs. F. Corning Henly, former Medford residents.

Mr. and Mrs. George V. Holzgang, 825 Park street, have as guests today their two sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Holzgang and Mr. and Mrs. G. Conrad Holzgang, Eugene. Both young men and Mrs. Curtis Holzgang are students at the University of Oregon, the men being juniors and Mrs. Holzgang a senior.

Both couples are also newly married. Mrs. Curtis Holzgang is the former Darrelyn Eitel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eitel, Route 1, Medford, and the Holzgang-Eitel wedding took place here September 8.

Mrs. Conrad Holzgang is the former Joy Goode of Cambridge,

England, and her wedding to the Medford man took place August 29 in the Episcopal church in Eugene. The pair met while the bridegroom was serving in England with the armed forces.

The young couples were accompanied home by Ralph Eitel Jr., also a student at the university.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Dunlevy, 408 Ardmore avenue, have as their Thanksgiving guests today Mr. and Mrs. John Nuich and two children, Mike and Kathy. The Nuich family came here recently from Tacoma, Wash.

A large group is having dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schuchard, 101 Geneva avenue. In addition to the Schuchards and their five children the list includes Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hull and son, Gregory, Mr. Schuchard's mother, Mrs. Milton Schuchard, Mr. Hull's mother, Mrs. Amelia Hull, Miss Frances Kenny and Mr. and Mrs. Roland G. Beach.

A family dinner is being given today by Mr. and Mrs. Alan Jewett at their home on 6 South Groveland avenue. Their guests are Mr. Jewett's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jewett and three children, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Jewett, Central Point.

Also entertaining at dinner today are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. V. Carpenter, Topside, Old Stage road. The guests are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Van Horne and two daughters, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Kellogg and four children, Gold Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Calloway and two children, Butte Falls; and Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter and three children, Medford. Mrs. Van Horne and Dunbar Carpenter are niece and nephew of the hosts, and the Van Hornes will remain in Medford over the week end.

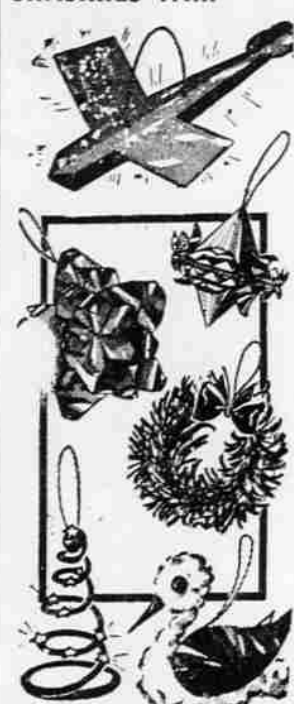

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Drew today are Mrs. Drew's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Maddox and their son, Blake Maddox, who arrived last night from the University of Oregon where he is a senior; their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Clay and son, and Mr. Clay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clay.

Mr. and Mrs. Maddox returned to their home in Medford this week after spending the past year at Tecate, Mexico. They plan to return south after a short stay here.

Another dinner will be held at the home of Miss Aline Mann, 3224 Forest avenue. Among the guests will be Miss Beryl Ann Brownell, Gary, Ind., who is in Medford as a guest of Mrs. William H. Fluhrer, 2525 Lyman avenue. Miss Brownell is women's editor of the Post-Tribune at Gary. She arrived early in the week from Los Angeles, and will leave during the week end for her home.

Letter Describes Teheran Bazaar, Purchase Methods

The complicated process of making a purchase in an Iranian bazaar is described by Mrs. Robert M. Shoemaker in a recent letter to her parents, Gen. and Mrs. Roy V. Rickard, 901 South Newtown street, Medford.

Mrs. Shoemaker and her husband, Captain Shoemaker, are living in Teheran while he is on duty with the United States Military Mission with the Iranian Army.

Mrs. Shoemaker wrote: The Teheran Bazaar is covered by a high dome which allows enough light to see, but dim enough to be eerie. The Bazaar is made up of narrow criss-cross dirt alleys lined with shops which are no larger than a horse's stall. Making any purchase is a slow, slow process. First there is an exchange of greetings, then you are offered a chair and a little glass of lukewarm tea with a lump of coarse sugar. Of course, we always refuse. The tea water comes from a local gutter, and they wash their feet and dishes in the same pool of water. Also, there is a disadvantage to bargaining if you are seated. But it is only proper to refuse in the same drawn-out manner in which the invitation was issued.

Very Courteous
These people show more courtesy and hospitality in the middle of complete filth and poverty than Americans show each other in our brilliant salons or formal drawing rooms. After the precise conventionalities of greetings are over, I admire something, usually what I don't want, but do want to get a line on his prices. When we get around to what I do want, if he says "1800 rials", I quickly say "1200 rials" and we both know that if I am going to buy and he is going to sell, we are working on a 1500 rial price. (Seventy-six rials to a dollar.)

If, eventually, he can't afford to let it go at the middle price, he will put it aside and show me something "khelyi khub" or very good, for less money. If I don't want it at all, I click my tongue with an upward jerk of the head, which is the universal gesture of disdain over here. That is the same as telling him his prices are like the braying of a donkey to my ears, or why insult this person with such trash. We have to remember that shaking the head sideways meaning "no" to us, means "yes" to a Persian.

"We have some modern shops by near-East standards, in the new section of town. These glass front places are mostly Jewish owned and operated and have fairly set prices. But if you are willing to ignore the dirt, and have the time, the Bazaar is vastly more interesting.

Return
Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter, Foothills road, returned home earlier this week after a vacation spent in Carmel, Calif., with Mr. Carpenter's uncle and aunt; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carpenter.

Girl, 10, Scales 46 Highest Peaks

Schenectady, N.Y.—(U.P.)—Ten-year-old Monica Schaefer has become a member of a highly exclusive club—the "46'ers." Monica qualified for the honor by climbing the 46 highest peaks in the Adirondack Mountains, all about 4,000 feet. She started climbing at the age of five by scrambling to the top of Mt. Marcy, the Adirondack's highest peak at 5,344 feet. Monica's mother, Mrs. Paul Schaefer, and her 20-year-old sister, Mary, also are "46'ers." Dad? He trails badly, having climbed only 20 peaks.

4-H Club News
Busy Bees Sewing Club Refreshments were served at the beginning of the meeting by Mrs. Dye. The meeting was then called to order by the president Linda Walker. We said the flag salute and the club pledge and had the minutes of our last meeting read by the secretary. Mrs. Jones helped us for the rest of the meeting on our needle cases. She showed us how to backstitch them together and how to decorate the covers. We cut out designs of felt to be glued on the covers. Some of the designs were very original. Mrs. Jones closed the meeting and set November 30 as the date of our next meeting. Peggy Dye, Reporter
