Residents of County Farm Home to Receive X-Rays

Several residents of the Jackson County Farm home are having chest x-rays this week. The x-rays are being arranged with the Jackson County Public Health association, which operates the clinic at Sacred Heart hospital.

Transportation is being arranged for the group by Mrs. Thomas Freed, health chairman for the American Legion auxiliary.

In a recent report on tuberculosis in the county, Dr. J. Arthur Myers of Minneapolis pointed out the prevalence of tuberculosis in the older age group. "From 60 to 75 per cent of the deaths from tuberculosis in recent years have been occurring among persons 40 years of age or older, and approximately 40 per cent among those aged 65 and older," he stated.

Girls in Uniform Same as Civilians

Washington — (U.P.) — Lt. Col. Mary L. Milligan, new director of the Women's Army Corps, said today girls in uniform are "no different" than civilian working girls.

And she said most men who once didn't think so now accept the fact.

Col. Milligan, formerly an Edgewood, Pa., school teacher, said with a smile that women in khaki may develop certain habits—like strict military neatness—to a "greater degree" than some of their civilian sisters. But she said there are "no major differences."

The Army named Col. Milligan Tuesday to succeed Col. Irene O. Galloway as head of the nation's 9,000 women soldiers. Col. Galloway has headed the corps for four years.

The dead boy was Michael Locke, who was staying at the Melton home while his mother, Mrs. Olive Locke of the Burton district, was at work at the Washoulog Woolen Mills.

Injured and brought to Vancouver Memorial hospital were Steven Melton, 19 months, who was carried unconscious from the burning house; Douglas Melton, 4, and their mother, Mrs. Marvin Melton, who suffered shock and burns.

Two other Melton children, Cheryl, 10, and Michael, 8, escaped without serious injury.

News About Books From the Library

Parents, grandparents, and other interested adults who visit the Children's Book Week displays at the Medford Public Library this week will find many of their own childhood favorites on exhibit.

Children's classics such as "Little Women," "Tom Sawyer," and "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" are still loved by young readers. "Heidi," "Little Black Sambo," "Pinocchio," and "Winnie the Pooh" are book companions that are cherished today just as they were a generation ago.

However, according to children's librarians, adult booklovers are too prone to cling to their own old favorites when selecting gifts and library books for children and not to realize that recent years have produced books equal to those in literary quality.

The Children's Library association of the American Library association each year makes two awards for distinguished contributions to American Literature, the Caldecott and Newbery Medals.

A list of these selections, books worthy to take their places with the classics, has been published in the form of a bookmark by the Children's Book Council, a year-round information center on books for children.

These bookmarks will be available to visitors who attend the Book Week observance at the Medford Public Library or other Jackson County library agencies.

The books themselves are also included in a special display at county library headquarters, and each branch agency has received a share of the prize-winning selection.

Principal speaker at the fraternity's annual banquet Friday night will be James J. Wadsworth, chief deputy U. S. delegate to the United Nations.

Am asked about "Tranquillizing Pills." I suggest the inquirer take this up with his family physician. Many men of medicine consider these pills dangerous. Not to the one taking them but to other people. As for example, taking Tranquillizing pills can cause the driver of an automobile to fall asleep at the wheel.

Horses and Women
What was the girl you married wearing when you proposed to her? Have you done any woman a great favor lately? What was she wearing when she asked you for aid? Our horses and women experts during the course of their research have come across a claim that when a smart woman wants to strongly influence a man she wears what our feminine friends and relatives call "A Little Black Dress."

I thought it was a red dress, or a watermelon pink dress that women wore on these occasions. I have asked our experts to check this claim thoroughly. In the meanwhile, gentlemen, when a woman you know calls on you or meets you by appointment somewhere, be on your guard if she is wearing a little black dress.

Asking
Queries from clients. Q. Did you claim there are more people named Smith in Scotland than there are those named MacDonald? A. Yes, sir. About 20,000 more. Eighty thousand Smiths. Sixty thousand MacDonalds. Q. Where are the following places in New York City? 1. "Dead Man's Curve." 2. "Deadheads Hill." A. The places you mention are of the past. "Dead Man's Curve" was at 14th st. and Union Square. A curve in the cable car line made it impossible for the motorman to stop the car until he had rounded it. Several people were killed there as a result. "Deadheads Hill" was above the Polo Grounds. From that point baseball games played by the New York Giants could be seen for free. However, you couldn't see the batter. Only from the pitcher's box to outfield. "Deadheads Hill" was officially known as "Coogan's Bluff."

'Distress' Selling Cuts Lumber Prices

Portland — (U.P.) — "Distress" selling of carloads of lumber shipped eastward last week has lowered prices for Douglas fir green dimension to the lowest level in more than two years, officials said today.

Lumber trade sources said enough transit shipments were en route from the Pacific Northwest to the Midwest and eastern markets to depress prices still lower as new trains arrived at railroad diversion points later this week.

The slump came in the wake of weeks of slow marketing and gradually softening prices attributed to cold weather halt of eastern construction and slow retail yard buying to reduce year-end inventories.

The $62 to $64 level for two-by-four standard or better grade Douglas fir random lengths was the lowest since April-May of 1954 when these items sold for as low as $60.

Corvallis Club To Fight Slot Charges

Corvallis — (U.P.) — Leo Herb, manager of the Corvallis Country Club, said today he would fight charges of illegal possession of slot machines.

Herb said he would plead innocent of the three charges filed by state police following a raid at the club Saturday afternoon. State officers led by Sgt. J. C. Darby of Salem seized three "one-armed bandits" at the club.

Herb said he would fight the charges on the grounds that the officers entered the club property without a warrant. Sgt. Darby said the raid was made after police had received information the slots were in operation. He did not disclose his source of information.

Ashland-Talent Drive Reaches About $7,630

Ashland — About $7,630.32 has been collected so far for the Ashland - Talent Youth Fund drive, according to Allan Harris drive chairman.

The board of directors recently discussed the feasibility of changing the name in future years to the United Plan. Ken Jones, president of the board, explained that by changing to the United Plan Ashland and Talent would have to raise over $20,000. This would not include several agencies that are not under the plan.

The board decided to continue with the Ashland-Talent Fund drive, to take care of the needs of the local youth groups first. Dr. Elmo Stevenson and Archie Fries were appointed by Jones to select new board members to fill vacancies on the board.
