New FHA Loan Provisions Explained by E. M. Denney

New provisions of the Farmers Home administration's farm operating and real estate loaning programs authorizing loans to farmers who have part-time employment off the farm was explained today by Eugene M. Denney, local FHA supervisor.

The loans may be made to eligible individuals where sound farm programs can be set up, for purchase of livestock, equipment, farm operating expenses and for refinancing secured chattel debts, as well as for real estate development and refinancing, Denny stated.

To be eligible for a loan the applicant must be of legal age, a citizen of the United States, unable to get credit from other sources and have had farm experience sufficient to indicate reasonable prospects of continuing successful farming operations.

He must be an established bonafide farmer, conducting substantial farming operations and spending the major portion of his time farming, and must have a dependable source of outside income. The applicant must show he has resided on a farm for a substantial portion of his life and depended on farm income for his livelihood.

Denney pointed out that the loan applicant's farm must be of such size and productive capacity that the expected income, plus the income from part-time employment, is sufficient to pay farm operating and living expenses, pay debts, and have a reasonable reserve for emergencies.

Additional details on new legislation may be obtained by calling the local FHA office in the Manchel building, Grants Pass, or by mail to postoffice box 311, Grants Pass.
