Fresh pears are in plentiful supply on the market now. To enjoy the fullest flavor of fresh pears, be sure that they are fully ripe and well chilled. Allow firm pears to remain at room temperature, in their wraps, until they yield to gentle pressure. Pears to be cooked may be slightly firmer than for out-of-hand eating as the cooking completes the ripening process.

The Bosc pear is excellent baked. Baked pears may be served warm, or chilled. Each of the following recipes is sufficient to fill your pears. Select firm, ripe pears; wash and core, leaving center hollow. Place pears in baking dish and fill each center with one of the fillings. Pour one-half cup sugar syrup over pear. Prepare syrup by heating one-fourth cup sugar with one-fourth cup water until dissolved. Place pears in 375 degree oven, bake for 45 to 55 minutes or until pears are tender.

Fillings: For mincemeat filling use one-half cup mincemeat and one-fourth cup of chopped pear from hollowed centers. For cranberry nut, combine one-half cup chopped cranberries with 2 tablespoons sugar and 2 tablespoons chopped nuts. For coconut orange marmalade filling, use one-fourth cup shredded coconut and one-fourth cup orange marmalade. Mix together until moistened.

Reviewer Has Praise For Artists

Ashland — Aurora Underwood, pianist, and Wayne Angel, violinist, performed Sunday afternoon at Southern Oregon college to a large audience whose attentiveness and responsiveness were a tribute to the artistry of the performers. From the first note of the Chopin "Etude" through a well-balanced, varied program to the final note of the "Twelfth Hungarian Rhapsody" of Liszt, the performers held the attention of the audience and evoked enthusiastic applause. This was, without doubt, one of the most satisfying concerts presented in recent years in Ashland.

Mrs. Underwood is a polished musician who combines mastery of technique with a scholarly knowledge of the composer's intentions. Her brilliant tonal shadings and her skill in bringing out the melodic line of the music were outstanding and effective. Her Chopin ballade, a contrast of tenderness and violence, was a special favorite of the audience. Although the scintillating Chopin "Waltz," Debussy's impressionistic "Gardens in the Rain" and Nin's picturesque "Andalusian Dance" drew vigorous applause, the "Hungarian Rhapsody" brought the most enthusiastic response.

Wayne Angel, twenty-year old Klamath Falls prodigy, demonstrated unmistakably why he won the 1935 national contest of the Federation of Music Clubs and why he is the youngest first violinist in the Portland Symphony orchestra. His solid resonant tone and superb left hand technique were particularly noticeable in the higher registers of the G string in the difficult Paganini "Moses Fantasia."

The warmth of his interpretation in the Bruch "Concerto" established his playing in the hearts of his listeners, and his performance of "Ukelele Serenade," a jazz composition by Aaron Copland, provided a striking contrast. The solidity of his tone on the first notes of his concert indicated a high degree of assurance and poise, which comes only from much experience in solo appearances.

Delta Phi Alpha, honorary music fraternity, and the student chapter of Music Educators National conference, sponsored the concert and provided a reception for the artists. This was the first of a series of programs to raise funds for an organ and grand piano for the college. Miss Helene Robinson is advisor to the organizations.—S.H.M.
