Wednesday Club Has Annual Party

The annual Christmas party of Wednesday Study club was held Wednesday in the Church of the Brethren.

After the business meeting dessert luncheon was served and gifts exchanged. Guests were Miss Elizabeth Burr and Mrs. W. P. Tucker.

Mrs. F. K. Deuel read a Christmas story, "The Little Mixer," by Lillian Nicholson Shearon. Although the book was written thirty years ago, the problems of the younger and older generation, then and now, are very much the same, the story indicated.

The story is about four very small girls whose conception of Christmas, due to their religious training, was quite confusing, they being of Protestant, Christian Science, Jewish and Catholic faiths. However, the consensus was, "the very best kind of Christmas was to hang stockings on the mantle and that Santa Claus should make his entrance, not by the door, but to climb down the chimney."

Portland Pilot Survives Bail-Out

Portland — (UP) — A Portland lieutenant in the Oregon Air National Guard escaped injury late Saturday night after he was forced to bail out of his F-94 shortly before it crashed in the vicinity of Mt. Adams.

Officials at the Portland Air base identified the pilot as Lt. James R. Carskadon. They said he was shaken up slightly but otherwise was not hurt.

The base operations office reported that Carskadon was approaching for an instrument landing at the Portland base when his radio went dead. A lead plane attempted to guide him in but the pilot lost sight of the assisting craft in the overcast.

With his fuel supply nearly exhausted, Carskadon was forced to give up the landing attempt and abandon the plane at 16,000 feet.

Air base officials said the plane was seen to crash by observers at Trout Lake, Wash. The pilot hiked to a farm home and was driven into the town of White Salmon where he was picked up by Air Force personnel.

The mishap occurred about 9:15 p.m. Officials said they heard from the pilot by phone within 20 minutes of the time he had bailed out of the craft.

Cold Air, Snow Sweep Midwest

By UNITED PRESS

Cold air and to four inches of snow swept the Midwest today and headed toward the New England states, already coated by a hazardous glow of ice from freezing rains.

Icy roads were blamed for numerous traffic wrecks in New England, and weathermen warned road conditions would get worse as the new storm approached.

The snowfall promised a white Christmas for sections of the Upper Mississippi Valley, and Northern Great Lakes region and the entire northwestern states from the Rockies to New York.

Elsewhere, however, weathermen foresaw little possibility of snow during the next two days. A special weather release predicted mostly fair weather in the southern half of the nation Christmas Day.

Skies will be "rather cloudy" in parts of the East and very cloudy in the Midwest as a result of a new storm disturbance. Fair weather is seen for the West, except for rain along the north Pacific coast.

Eight-Year-Olds Win on TV Quiz

New York — (UP) — Two eight-year-olds scored on a $32,000 "Babe Ruth" question Sunday night on "The $64,000 Challenge."

In another contest, Theodore Nadler, St. Louis, won $16,000 and retained his championship by defeating Joseph Doniger, Roslyn Heights, N.Y., the fifth of seven challengers on a "geography" question.

Cab driver Thomas J. Kane, Lockport, N.Y., champion in the English language, tied at $8,000 with his challenger, Mrs. Ruth Von Phul, San Antonio, Tex.

A scheduled match between "food and cooking" champion Dr. Francis Salvatore, Englewood, N.J., and his challenger, Dr. Peter Gray, professor of zoology in the University of Pittsburgh, was postponed until next Sunday.

The two Babe Ruth experts, Marjorie Garmise, West Hartford, Conn., and Terry Shand III, San Antonio, Tex., both supplied the following information about the Bambino; he played with the Baltimore Orioles and Providence in the International league and the Boston Red Sox in the American league in 1914; as the leading American league pitcher in 1915 Ruth won 18 games; he was walked a total of 2,056 times and struck out 1,330 times in his whole major league career.

The two children meet on the $64,000 level next week.
