

Saturday Evening Fight Card Here Packed With Sluggers

A goodly number of hard hitting pugilists are on the card for the Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce Police Athletic League boxing show here Saturday night and at least 16 slugger matches with knockout possibilities are billed, the sponsors have reported.

The card, a 16-bout program, is set for 8 p.m. at the Hedrick Junior High school gymnasium. Proceeds, after expenses will go to the United Medford Crusade. This will be the first amateur card here this season and the Jayvets and PAL organization have extended themselves in arranging a topnotcher. Members of the two groups feel that a good number of the contests are of top billing caliber. As it is, a double main event is on tap.

In one of the main events Denny Meyer, 149, Portland stand-out, will oppose Johnny Green, 150, Roseburg. In the other Larry Lewis, 120-pounder of Medford, is matched with Freddy Smith, Vancouver, Wash.

Smith is a fighter who is coming fast and Portland AAU officials rate him as a prospective champion in the northwest.

John Massey, 190, Portland, and Eddie Kaiser, 192, are foes in the top semi-windup. Only 18 years of age Massey has a bright record of nine knockouts in nine fights. He has TNT in his fists and is marked for future stardom. Kaiser is a more experienced fighter, who has had offers to turn professional.

"Always Dangerous"

Roy Marshall, 125, Roseburg, and Eddie Richey, 124, Portland, meet in the special event. Marshall has scored knockouts in bouts here and has the "always dangerous" tag. Richey originally was matched against Lewis for this card. He has been fighting out of Portland, Fort Lewis and Tacoma this fall and has five wins to his credit. He has dropped only one match this fall and is ranked as one of the best in the northwest in his weight.

Fans will see an old favorite, Bob Apple, 163, Medford, in the featured prelim. He will mix with Rex McGregor, 165, Coos Bay. Apple goes into the ring with the determination and grit he displayed as a Medford high football guard.

In one of the two semi-windups, Dick Rensfield, 175, Ashland, tussles Bernard Dooley, 174, Coos Bay. Both youths are fast on their feet and have knockout punch with explosive ability. Dooley is expected to show the greatest hitting power of the night. With the power packed in the gloves of the two fighters, the bout might even be the shortest of the evening.

Two Groups Indicate Participation In GD Program in County

Two local organizations have indicated they will participate in the "Great Decisions... 1957" program on a volunteer basis, according to Mrs. John Ousterhout, Eagle Point, county chairman.

They are the Medford chapter of the United Nations organization, and the Medford League of Women Voters. Members of the two organizations will form study groups to consider problems of international relations.

The program, which is a cooperative endeavor to stimulate discussion and thought about foreign problems facing the United States, will begin Jan. 20, and will continue for eight weeks.

Committee members have suggested that groups of eight to 12 people gather informally in homes for the foreign policy study. It is not necessary that group leaders be exceptionally informed on foreign policy, committee members pointed out, just that they study pertinent material and guide the discussion. A special meeting for discussion leaders is planned.

Mrs. Ronald James and Mrs. Irving Thomas are assisting on the Great Decisions planning committee by contacting local women's clubs.

Opinions and conclusions of various discussion groups will be compiled by discussion leaders and forwarded to congress, Washington, D.C., presenting a cross-section of ideas on the direction they prefer U.S. foreign policy to follow.

The Medford Public library will serve as a place where the fact sheets issued for individuals and discussion groups can be obtained.

A preliminary list of the areas to be covered in the eight-week program include Russia, Europe, the Middle East, Red China, Colonialism, Neutralism, military strategy, and trade and aid.

There are three phases to the program, Mrs. Ousterhout reported. They include the formation of volunteer discussion groups, considered the most important segment of the project; the dissemination of information or foreign affairs through radio, television and newspaper cooperation, and the distribution of "fact sheets" covering the topics of discussion, to supplement the other two phases.

Groups and organizations participating this year include temporary county committee headed by Mrs. Ousterhout, which serves as the focal point of the program in Jackson county; the Foreign Policy association, a non-profit organization formed to stimulate public awareness of foreign problems; the county extension office; and through it the general and agricultural extension units of the state university and colleges, and organizations joining on a volunteer basis.

Mrs. Ousterhout is coordinating efforts of the county and college extension agencies. She has also spoken before the Medford Ministerial association, informing them of the program. Letters have been mailed to local Granges requesting their participation in the program.
