The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Clara S.—My husband is the life-of-the-party, but it embarrasses me.

Elliot S.—I like to let my hair down in company.

Clara S.—My husband and I met when we were in our teens. He was the life-of-the-party then and I used to think he was pretty funny, and I was proud of him. Now, however, we're practically middle-aged and he carries on the same way he did then. I no longer think it's funny and I doubt whether anyone else does.

The fact is I don't care what anyone else thinks, but I hate to see my husband make a clown of himself. He has no dignity at all. He is the butt of all jokes at parties. He talks and laughs louder than anyone else. Sometimes I am so embarrassed I get up and walk out of the room when he is performing. I don't want to go out with him any more if he's going to act like that.

Such persons add a lot of zest to the lives of others. Their performances may not always be in good taste, but the individual himself is usually appreciated for his high spirits and friendliness.

If Clara would grant her husband his natural right to full freedom in the home, she might find he is capable of toning down a bit in company. A father like Elliot is a boon to children, but Clara's criticism is teaching them a narrow-minded and petty dislike of him, and of fun in general. Clara would stand a chance of influencing her husband if she learned to appreciate him and break down her own petty inhibitions.

State Supreme Court Reverses Decree

Salem — (U.P.) — The State Supreme court Monday reversed a decree in an action brought by the state and the Douglas Forest Protective association to recover costs incurred in extinguishing a forest fire.

The court held that the owners of the land, Peter and Levi Gourley, were required by statute to use every reasonable effort to control the fire and that this statutory duty was not sufficiently explained to the jury.

An appeal by Cloyd B. Makinson, a Eugene school teacher, was dismissed as moot when the court found he had been returned to full-time teaching. Makinson had sued school district No. 4 in Lane county when he was placed on half-time due to decreased enrollment.

Elliot S. — It is Clara who makes things embarrassing, not I. When we are out together, she constantly tells me to shut up, lower my voice or not tell that story again. Everyone else may be waiting to hear what I have to say, but they have to wait until Clara storms out of the room to hear it. Then they ask, "What was that story you wanted to tell?"

I like to relax and let my hair down when I'm with people. I like to see people have a good laugh. Why should I have to be on my dignity when I'm with friends? Everybody but my wife tells me they enjoy my company. Clara even criticizes the way I act with our kids. I like to joke around with them. We dress up and put on skits and their friends love to watch. But Clara says I'm teaching them to be like me.

The Council: It may be a comfort to Clara to know that her problem is not unique. Women seem to value dignity in social relations more than men, and many women grit their teeth when their husbands go into their act or tell stories.

But Clara fails to apply any criticism to her own social performance. From what both she and her husband say, it is pretty poor. A wife who tells her husband to keep quiet or walks out of the room when he is holding the floor causes acute embarrassment, and puts a pall on the entire party. Her husband's conduct may be enjoyed by many people and bore a few others, but hers distresses everyone and is inexcusable.

Clara seems unable to accept the fact she has married an extrovert and born performer.

Judge Sentences Man To 'Life' With Wife

Hollister, Calif. — (U.P.) — Cruz Bocanegra, 33, given a choice between "life" and a six months' sentence, chose the longer.

Judge Lorena M. Johnson was told by Bocanegra's common-law wife Monday that he was not only struck her but refused to marry her and legitimize their six children.

"I'm going to give you life," the judge said. "I'm sentencing you to marry this girl. Otherwise, you'll have to serve six months."

How This Newspaper Helps Advertisers...

Every newspaper has an editorial thermometer. It's called "circulation." The paper's ups and downs in its efforts to satisfy the greatest number of editorial interests is reflected in its circulation.

So that there is no possibility that the calibrations on our thermometer become blurred by self-satisfaction, we have our temperature taken regularly—by a trained A.B.C.* circulation auditor.

When he leaves, there's no question of how we feel.

And, we're feeling quite healthy today, thank you—an indication that we're doing our job of providing an interested audience for your sales messages.

We would welcome the opportunity of showing you the A.B.C. facts on our circulation, and to explain just how our editorial program is helping to build reader interest for your advertising messages. Call us this week.

Fleas Coated to See Spread of Disease

San Francisco — (U.P.) — Health doctors are now coating fleas with radioactive substances so they can learn how fleas spread disease.

The U. S. Public Health Service and the California medical center use Cerium 144, a rare earth, as a tracer.

Using the radioactive tag, the scientists tagged fleas on wild rodents and, with simple radiation-detecting equipment, followed their life cycle and migration among host animals.
