Need Noted for New Air Traffic Control

Washington — (U.P.) — House investigators reported Friday that the collision of two airliners over the Grand Canyon last June shows the need for a vast new air traffic control system throughout the nation.

A House Commerce Subcommittee headed by Rep. Owen Harris (D-Ark.) said the tragedy revealed that "not only are new equipments needed, but new concepts of air traffic control must be adopted."

The two airliners collided over the canyon June 30 with the loss of 128 lives.

The advent of the jet age, compounding the problems of air safety, the subcommittee said, points up the "urgent need for drastic changes in procedures."

The subcommittee did not state who was at fault in the Grand Canyon crash.

Young Gunman Gets $17,000 in Wisconsin

Milton, Wis. — (U.P.) — A young gunman who apparently had "spotted the bank for some time" robbed the Bank of Milton of about $17,000 in cash early Friday.

John Misener, 35, a new employee of the bank, said the gunman, about 23 or 24 years old, met him outside the front door of the bank about 7 a.m. Misener said he had gone to the bank early because of some work he had to do.
