Back Stairs: Brunt of Inauguration

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

Washington — (U.P.) — Backstairs at the White House: This is really the first time the staff of President Eisenhower has felt the full brunt of an inauguration.

In 1953, the Eisenhower administration was taking office for the first time and the bulk of the inauguration planning was done by an outside committee.

This year the Eisenhower staff is confronted with many more problems than in 1953. One of these hinges on the fact that a president's staff increases considerably after four years in office.

At the time of his first inauguration, Mr. Eisenhower had really not developed a staff of any considerable proportions. Now his staff runs in the hundreds of men and women, all of whom expect tickets for the inaugural parade on Jan. 21 and, whenever possible, a chance to attend one of the four inaugural balls.

The inaugural committee on the other hand, wants to sell as many tickets as possible rather than pass out free ones in order to meet the expenses the lavish ceremonies which run over a period of three days.

Thus, it becomes inevitable that some people, even though close to the White House, must pay to see the parade. There are just not that many free seats available.

drop in at all 4 inaugural balls. They won't start out until rather late, probably around 10:30 p.m. Theoretically, the Eisenhowers won't spend much more than 20 minutes at each ball, but only the incurable optimists believe it will be possible to stick to this schedule once the Eisenhowers arrive at a place and are engulfed by friends and well-wishers.

Initiative Petitions Filed Against Dams

Olympia — (U.P.) — Some 85,000 signatures supporting an initiative to the Washington Legislature to ban high dams on tributaries of the lower Columbia River were filed Friday with Secretary of State Earl Coe.

On legal advice of Attorney General Don Eastvold, Coe rejected the signatures for filing on the contention that 90,319 were required under a new amendment to the State Constitution. The State Sportsmen's Council, sponsor of the measure, immediately appealed to the State Supreme Court.

The court issued an order directing Coe to show cause at a hearing Feb. 1 why he should not be compelled to accept the signatures.

The measure, known as Initiative to the Legislature No. 24, was aimed chiefly at Tacoma's $138 million Cowlitz river hydro-electric project.

Mr. Eisenhower had better figure out some way of getting a long nap on inauguration day because he will be up rather late that night.

He and Mrs. Eisenhower will

Eugene Firm to Draw Capitol Master Plan

Salem — (U.P.) — A Eugene architectural firm has been designated by the State Board of Control to develop a master plan for the state capitol area in Salem.

Gov. Elmo Smith said Wilmsen and Endicott, Eugene, had been selected for the project. They will be associated with Herman Brookman, Portland, and Francis Keally, a New York consultant.

The action ended a study by the board and the Capitol Planning Commission to carry out provisions of a law passed by the 1955 Legislature appropriating $50,000 to provide professional architectural planning and landscape assistance to the commission for the master plan.

Thirty-five architectural firms indicated interest in the capitol planning project.

Board Secretary William Ryan said Wilmsen and Endicott had done similar work in Lane county and had developed a plan for the future growth of Fairview Home here.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Tim R.—My parents won't let me use the car.

Mr. H. R.—He has more privileges than I had.

Tim R.—I am 17 and a senior in high school. My problem is with my parents. They won't let me use the car because I had a slight accident with it a few months ago.

At my school it is impossible to be popular and have dates unless you have a car. I am a good driver and the accident wasn't my fault. Everyone who saw the accident said it wasn't my fault. Only my parents won't believe me. Nobody was hurt in the accident anyway.

My father, especially, is very strict. My allowance is much smaller than any of my friends' and my father can well afford to give me more. My father is also too stingy to give me enough clothing money, and makes me wear out all his old clothes. As a result I have practically no social life.

Mr. H. R.—I come of a family of five boys and not one of us had anything like the freedom and privilege we give Tim. None of us used a car or went out with girls until we were past 18. Yet we appreciated our parents and grew up into happy, healthy men.

I didn't want to give Tim the use of the car before the accident, but my wife talked me into it on the ground that she wanted Tim to enjoy the same things his friends had. This just doesn't make sense to me. I don't feel that a parent should violate his principles just because of what the Joneses do.

Since the accident my wife has come around to my way of looking at things. There is no reason why we should take "everyone's" word that the accident wasn't Tim's fault.

The Council: Tim should try to realize that his accident was a severe shock to his parents and that it will take time and patient convincing on his part to help them get over it.

Right now Tim feels very

Korea Objects to U. N. Supervised Elections

Seoul, Korea — (U.P.) — The Republic of Korea objected Saturday to a United States call for U.N.-supervised elections in both North and South Korea.

Foreign Minister Cho Chung Wha demanded that Chinese Communist troops be withdrawn from North Korea after which free elections should be held only in North Korea.

Steadman Held for Assault, Battery

Corvallis — (U.P.) — James A. Steadman, former Philomath police officer, was held for the grand jury Saturday on an assault and battery charge.

At a preliminary hearing in District Court here Friday, Philomath Police Chief Harold Avery testified he saw Steadman knock down and beat Benton county Sheriff Clifford Lilly early New Years day when Lilly attempted to jail him for creating a disturbance.

Lilly suffered a heart attack as a result of the fracas and was reported in fair condition at a Corvallis hospital.

Avery said Steadman was discharged from the police force after the altercation.

Former Top U. S. Red Seized in N.Y.

New York — (U.P.) — A deported former top U. S. Communist seized for sneaking back into this country claimed Saturday he risked arrest solely to see his family, but government officials hinted he might be working as a Kremlin courier.

Russian-born Irving Potash, 54, former CIO Fun Union vice president, characterized himself as a "family man" so determined to see his wife, daughter and three grandchildren that he was willing to go to jail for a reunion with them.

But U.S. Attorney Paul Williams won high bail of $35,000 against Potash with the warning that he still is a Communist leader and has reentered the U.S. illegally.
