

Nixon Good Winter Bet To Be Candidate Against Field For GOP Nomination

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Correspondent
Washington—(U.P.)—A good winter bet today would be Richard M. Nixon against the field for the next Republican presidential nomination.

The political breaks have been going for the young man from California in the weeks since his reelection as vice president. The biggest break, of course, was the fact that he and President Eisenhower polled a record vote last November. Their tally seems to have refuted the claims of Nixon's opponents that he would cost the ticket some millions of votes. Nixon's greatest political disadvantage is the fear of some Republican leaders that he would not be a prime vote getter on his own.

Doubts Hurt Taft
Identical doubts served to kill off the late Robert A. Taft's chances for the Republican presidential nomination.

Otherwise, political events are breaking well for Nixon in terms of prestige and Republican Party influence. Mr. Eisenhower continues to demonstrate his confidence in Nixon. Good publicity is just as valuable to a politician with himself to sell as to a manufacturer with some other fancy product. Mr. Eisenhower's selection of Nixon to investigate the situation of Hungarian refugees in Austria was a publicity jackpot. To the confusion of his left-wing detractors, Nixon returned from Austria a champion of relaxed immigration regulations.

To their further confusion, Nixon was given an opportunity last week to take a position on the Senate filibuster dispute. Nixon's position placed him right in the middle of the so-called liberal camp. Moreover, it placed him on record with Negro voters as one of those whose interpretation of Senate filibuster rules would favor enactment of far-reaching civil rights legislation at this session of Congress.

The Communists and some others who dislike the vice president for less reason called a personal foul on Nixon for his Senate filibuster position. They said that he had acted in self-interest. The fact sure that there is a scramble among politicians of both parties to win Negro voters.

Neither party can win nationally without substantial Negro support unless it be in a contest so one-sided that millions of balance-of-power votes in the industrial states lose their significance.

Quarterly Workshop Slated Here Friday

A quarterly workshop sponsored by the Family Life Education committees of the Jackson County Public Health Association and the Jackson County Parent-Teacher association will be held Friday, Jan. 11, at the First Methodist church, West Main st., Medford.

The workshop will start at 9:30 a.m. and end at 12 noon. Baby-sitter service will be available for children, committee members in charge said.

Parent discussion group leaders will plan future group meetings, discuss the use of films as a tool for discussions, and consider use of speakers from outside the group as resources for programs. New group leaders will be provided ideas on how to start study groups.

Dr. Harry K. Danielson, psychiatrist with the child guidance clinic will be present for the first part of the meeting to discuss problems leaders may have. Films also are scheduled for the workshop.

Coquille, Bandon Plants To Reopen

Coquille—(U.P.)—George A. Ulett of Coquille Plywood Corporation has announced that the firm's plywood plants in Coquille and Bandon would reopen Jan. 14 after a two-and-a-half-month closure.

Coquille Plywood is a division of Textron, Inc.

About 530 employees would be affected by the return to work order in the two communities.

Ulett said the firm was making extensive renovations to its Norway, Ore., green veneer operation and would reopen that about Feb. 1. He credited a "firming up" of plywood prices for the reopening.

Salem—(U.P.)—The State Highway Department will open bids on projects totaling $4,500,000 in Portland Jan. 22 and 23.

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J.—(U.P.)—Horse thievery apparently is a thing of the past in New Jersey. The Mansfield Vigilante Society, formed 90 years ago to guard against horse thieves, voted Saturday to disband because of a lack of business.
