Decreased Supplies of Food Predicted by U.S. Department

By GAYLORD P. GOODWIN United Press Correspondent Washington, D.C.—(UPI)—The Agriculture Department reports food supplies next year will be a "little lower" than in 1956, and at retail prices higher in the first four to five months of 1957 than in January-April of this year. Consumer demand is expected to continue strong through 1957.

There will be plenty of meat available in 1957 despite a slight drop in supply. The department predicted pork consumption next year at 63 pounds per person, compared with 66 pounds for 1956. Beef consumption will be 80 pounds per person, compared with 83.5 pounds this year, veal consumption will drop to nine pounds per person compared with 9.3 pounds this year, and lamb and mutton consumption will remain stable at 4.5 pounds per person.

Milk production will be up about 2 billion pounds to a total of about 130 billion pounds next year. Prices of dairy products are expected to remain at present levels, although this situation may change when price supports are announced for the marketing year beginning next April.

There will be more eggs, broilers, and turkeys than ever before, the department said. Prices for eggs and turkeys will average a little lower, while prices of broilers will be slightly higher.

More Choosy
The department said declines in consumption rates from last fall and winter are indicated for lard, sweet potatoes, dry beans, apples, and grapes. Increases are in prospect for eggs, chicken, turkey, processed fishery products, fresh citrus fruits, frozen orange juice, fresh and processed vegetables, and potatoes.

Some small shifts in the pattern of food consumption are indicated, the department said. Civilians probably will consume a little larger quantity per person of chicken meat, fresh oranges and tangerines, frozen concentrated orange juice, and processed vegetables in 1957 than this year. Small reductions are likely for meat, but nevertheless the annual consumption rate next year is expected to average higher than in any year from 1909 to 1954.

People are more choosy than ever before about the food they eat. Their incomes have been rising since World War II and they can afford to be more selective. Consumers have been able and willing to pay for many additional services such as partial preparation of foods outside the home, special handling, and pre-packaging to maintain food quality and make it more attractive.

The department said this changing market demand has done much to encourage new marketing practices which, in turn, have had an effect on consumer buying practices.

Irene Hawthorne, premiere danseuse of the Metropolitan Opera company will appear in a program Thursday, January 10, under the sponsorship of Jackson County Civic Music association. The dance concert will be at Medford Senior High school auditorium beginning at 8 p.m.

Octogenarians Wedded Sunday In Grants Pass

Gold Hill — A bride of 83 and a bridegroom 84 years old were united in marriage Sunday afternoon in Grants Pass, as the result of a romance that started last spring at a Townsend club convention in Detroit, Mich., where both were delegates.

Cary Saling Peck of Eddyville, Ore., uncle of Mrs. Albert Harrison of Gold Hill, claimed as his bride Mrs. Ada Bush of Battle Creek, Mich. The wedding was held at the home of another niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heistuman, Grants Pass.

The matron-of-honor was Mrs. Nena Crane of Grants Pass, 80-year-old sister of the bridegroom. Mr. Heistuman acted as best man. Rev. William Shearburn of Grants Pass officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Heistuman served a wedding dinner at their home after the ceremony. Guests included the bridegroom's niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. George Blair of Crescent City, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Harrison and two children, Albert Jr. and Marilyn, Gold Hill. Also present was the bridegroom's grandnephew, Darrell Heistuman of Grants Pass.

The couple left on a trip to Crescent City and then up the Oregon coast to Eddyville, where they will live. Butcherknife lodge, a resort on the Redwood highway, had them as special guests the first night of their trip.

After meeting at the convention last spring, Mr. Peck corresponded with Mrs. Bush, who had been a widow some 18 years. This fall he made a trip by automobile back to Battle Creek, doing all the driving himself, to ask her to marry him. She later sold her home in Michigan and came west for the wedding.

The bridegroom, who will be 85 next month, is also driving his own automobile on the honeymoon trip.
