Guilds Observe National Month; Service Planned

The three units of Wesleyan Service guild in First Methodist church are observing National Guild month with a special communion Sunday, January 20, at 8 a.m. in Meeker Memorial Chapel. Dr. Raymond E. Balcomb, minister, will officiate, and the service will be followed by a guild breakfast. All guild members and employed women are welcome. Reservations may be made by calling 2-5904.

The local guilds recently honored the three "displaced" families brought to Medford by the church, the Markoffs, the Burtaffs and the Muellers. The guests shared reminiscences of Christmas customs and carols in their homelands.

Mrs. C. R. Adamson, Eugene district secretary for Wesleyan Service guilds, will speak at a dinner meeting of the Roseburg guild tonight. Plans are also under way for delegates to attend the sessions of the Western Jurisdiction which will convene in Berkeley in February. Following the convention, guilds in Southern Oregon will be hosts to a field worker from the national office, Miss Louise Nichols, and she will speak at a dinner meeting in the local church. Dates will be announced in the near future.

The three local guilds are Ruth Esther unit, of which Mrs. Louise Davis is president; Susannah Wesley unit, headed by Mrs. Gerald Sherman, and Gladston unit, with Mrs. Rex Note as president. These guilds are open to all employed women.

Spring Hats Are Old Hat

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Correspondent
New York — (U.P.) — This spring's hats are old hat.

Like the rest of milady's wardrobe, the new hats return to the 1930's for inspiration. The millinery industry promises we'll be seeing and wearing hats that remind us of Garbo, Dietrich, Harding, Lombard and other movie queens who prospered during the depression years.

The predominant shapes are the turbans, the "profiles" which are worn at a slant, the deep-crowned cloches, the slouch hats which the "Silent Swede" helped to popularize, and the mannish fedoras of Dietrich's heyday.

Hats are smaller—and saner. Gone from the racks are those out-sized, face-hiding numbers of last spring. Gone also is the theatrical exaggeration of the "My Fair Lady" hats.

Chiffon, tulle, veiling and sheer silk flowers replace the heavy veils and ostrich plumes.

Off The Face
The Millinery Institute of America reported that although the industry was inspired by the 30's this year's hats are different — they're worn more off the face.

Even the widest picture hats go further back on the head. The deep cloches barely touch the front hairline.

Brimms are back. Some milliners show hats with double brims, and even what one called a "triple ripple" brim. The brim may extend all the way around the hat, or be just a hint of a visor or turned-back cuff across the front.

Milliner Sally Victor, who is Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower's favorite hat maker, provides a few exceptions to the 30's influence. She revives the small, head-hugging felts of the 1920's—most of them without trim.

Straws Lead
Straws as usual lead the hat parade, but there are more than the usual amount of fabric hats in printed silks, crisp cottons, linens and sheers. Colors include the whole range of beige tones, white, bright pink, red, daffodil yellow, pale blue, both deep and pale grey and a wide variety of the violet tones.

Milliner Irene of New York features Persian purple, a deep shade which she recommends for wear with black, brown or navy.

Cheese and Fruit Recipes Given For Calorie Counters

The calorie counting season begins as soon as the winter holidays become memories! To help add variety to the cottage cheese salads which inevitably appear at lunch time, here are two suggestions:

"Cheese 'N' Relishes, Hawaiian Style" will brighten the table and make the usual salad seem drab by comparison. Pineapple chunks add color, flavor and few calories.

On individual plates arrange crisp lettuce or romaine leaves. Pile cottage cheese on lettuce and surround with drained pineapple chunks. Top the salad with crisp relishes of sliced sweet pickles, cucumber rounds, and radishes or carrot sticks, olives or green pepper. Let your imagination run wild, but arrange the salad prettily.

Here's a recipe for "Surprise Salad Molds" — that's interesting and not too rich to serve to diet-conscious friends. Use 1 can (No. 2) pineapple slices, 1 package black raspberry gelatin, 1 cup cottage cheese, 1/2 cup celery, 1/4 cup small pickled cocktail onions, cut in quarters. Drain pineapple slices; measure syrup and add water to make 2 cups. Heat liquid to boiling; in it dissolve gelatin. Cook until thick and syrupy. Fold in cottage cheese, celery and pickled onions. Pour into 6 individual custard cups or molds; chill until set. To serve, arrange pineapple slices on lettuce; dip gelatin molds in warm water and unmold on pineapple. Serve with mayonnaise if desired. Serves six.
