NOT RECOMMENDED—Mrs. Albert J. Wollner of Berkeley, Calif., a sleep-walker went a step further and sleep-drove her husband's car 23 miles. She left her Berkeley home at 2 a. m., drove across the city of Oakland to awaken behind the wheel of the moving auto 23 miles away on U. S. Highway 50 two miles east of Castro Valley. The frightened woman parked the car because it had a manual shift. Her own car is equipped with an automatic shift and the manual shift mystifies her when she is awake. Police officers telephoned her husband to come and get her.

Stocks Turn Down After Rally Fails

New York — (U.P.) — Stocks turned down today after an attempt at following up yesterday's late rally failed. A cutback in automobile output, report of a 16 per cent drop in housing in 1956, and doubts cast on the ability of oil companies to sustain recent price increases after Suez Canal traffic is restored worked against the market.

Widest losses appeared in steels, selected papers, machinery issues, and specialties. High priced Superior Oil equaled its high, fell 35 points and regained five to a level 25 under the previous close.

Today's prices on selected stocks:

New York Bobsled Run Is Considered

Albany, N. Y. — (U.P.) — New York state's conservation department hopes to bring back to glory and fame that once attended the world-renowned Mt. Van Hoevenberg bobsled run high in the Adirondack mountains.

Commissioner Sharon Mauhs said the bob run has "too long been the orphan" of the department. He has hopes that with sufficient promotion and publicity that run can recapture the flavor that attended it during past Olympic games.

Located just outside the winter sports mecca of Lake Placid, the famed bob run was constructed in 1932 for the Olympic games of that year. Many a native of the area will tell you that little has been done since then to keep the run a major attraction of the state.

Now the department is considering the possibility of installing a chairlift near the run to be used in summer as well as winter by spectators who want to inspect the speedway.

Proponents of the plan to build up the area argue that more money should be spent. Ben Becker of Albany, a former president of the Amateur Athletic Union, said the reason Squaw Valley had received the 1960 winter Olympics was because of monetary guarantees made by the state of California.

He also argued that 60 per cent of those attending Vermont and nearby resorts in other states are from New York. Becker told the commissioner that it was his thought that New York does not spend enough money on the run to operate it properly.

Mauhs said he has started the ball rolling to rehabilitate the bob run by purchasing two sleds from an Italian maker. He added that he believes some changes should be made in fees charged at the bob run.
