

'Atomic Retaliation' Warning Seen As Soviet Answer To Ike's Doctrine

London — (U.P.) — Nations of the Free World today viewed the Soviet Union's "atomic retaliation" warning as Moscow's reply to the Eisenhower doctrine for the Middle East. All agreed it can not be ignored.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said Wednesday the United States may turn the Middle East and the Far East into "hotbeds of atomic warfare" by carrying out reported plans to establish atom-armed American units in Turkey, Iran, Japan and Okinawa.

The official Soviet Tass News Agency immediately picked up the charge where Pravda left off and warned U. S. allies they might become the first victims of any atomic war. It specifically singled out for warning Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Turkey, Iran and Japan.

But in Washington, President Eisenhower left open the question of whether U. S. forces might be armed with atomic weapons if forced to fight Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Wants Better Relations
He said a final decision has not been reached, although his proposed "doctrine" for the Middle East promises to use force if necessary to battle Communist aggression.

Mr. Eisenhower also said one of the chief aims of his administration during the next four years will be to achieve a better understanding with the Soviet Union.

Western observers saw the Soviet Union extremely worried by President Eisenhower's recent budget message calling for the Army to increase its number of atomic support commands to back up the ground forces of allied nations.

Philippine officials said the Soviet threat should not be ignored. "The world knows the Soviet Union, like the United States, possesses atomic and hydrogen bombs. Consequently, the warning is not an idle one and should not be ignored," a spokesman for the Philippine government told United Press.

Wants To Frighten
The military correspondent of the London Times wrote today that "the obvious aim of the Pravda article is to frighten the Mideast countries."

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

GI Turncoat, Brother Leave Family Farm After Fight With Dad

Carbondale, Ill. — (U.P.) — Arlie Patz, 26-year-old turncoat GI who returned from Communist China less than two months ago with the statement he "never wanted to leave home," apparently has changed his mind again.

Arlie, along with his 18-year-old brother Donald, left the rocky 78-acre farm which had once been part of his homecoming dream Wednesday following a fist fight with his father.

The father, Daniel, said the fight developed when his sons demanded money from a recent livestock deal.

"They both jumped me and knocked me down three times," he said.

The boy's mother, Zady, 46, interrupted and said, "Don't believe him."

She said she planned to leave the small farm also, taking with himself joined the movement and urged a strongly worded petition sent to Gov. Robert Holmes.

The petition said the move to hike property taxes "will deter home building and home ownership and result in the ultimate confiscation of many homes, new and old, through inability to pay such excessive taxes."

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

her two younger children, Jewell, 15, and Harold, 12.

The father said he wanted to stay on the farm, but "it looks like I'm going to have to sell out."

Arlie and his brother reportedly took a taxi to St. Louis, Mo., Wednesday night, a distance of about 80 miles.

Deputy Sheriff Ray Dillinger picked the boys up at their home earlier and drove them to Murphysboro.

The father, displaying a black eye, dropped the assault charges after Arlie told him he would "leave home within 24 hours and never come back."

There were reports that Arlie also was involved in a beer-hall fight a few days ago following an argument over his three-year stay in China.

He returned home Dec. 7, and was welcomed with open arms by his family.

Landis Named Treasurer Of Photographers Group

Carl Landis, Medford photographer, was elected treasurer of the Photographers Association of Oregon at its annual convention in Portland last week.

Wes Guderian, Klamath Falls, was elected president. Dwaine Smith of Classic studio, Medford, also attended the convention.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

Mexico and the U.S. are divided by an international frontier that is about 1,833 miles in length.

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

Philippine officials said the Soviet threat should not be ignored. "The world knows the Soviet Union, like the United States, possesses atomic and hydrogen bombs. Consequently, the warning is not an idle one and should not be ignored," a spokesman for the Philippine government told United Press.

Wants To Frighten
The military correspondent of the London Times wrote today that "the obvious aim of the Pravda article is to frighten the Mideast countries."

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

Portlanders Revolt Over Tax Increase

Portland — (U.P.) — A "revolt" of homeowners against what they termed excessive taxation on their property was launched in Portland last night.

The move was a direct result of a recommendation from the Multnomah County Tax Equalization Board which recommended that the county assessor raise residential property valuations.

Leaders of the Homeowners' Tax League formed last night said the order could result in 25 per cent increases in some property taxes and threatened loss of homes for some owners.

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

County Assessor Wiley Smith

Linn Escapee Held in Nevada

Albany, Ore. — (U.P.) — Earl Junior Bonney, 32, the last of four men to remain free after escaping from the Linn county jail here last Sept. 7, is in custody in Las Vegas, Nev., Sheriff George K. Miller said today.

Miller said he had been informed by Las Vegas police that Bonney was being held under the name of William Barrett on a vagrancy charge when a routine fingerprint check revealed his identity. Bonney has signed a waiver of extradition and will be brought to Linn county to face trial on the charge of assault and armed robbery growing out of the jail break, Miller said.

At the time of his escape he was awaiting an appeal on a life term meted out to him as a habitual criminal. Bonney and three other prisoners escaped the county jail here after slugging Jailer Lou Andrus and locking him in a cell.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

The other three escapees have been accounted for. The body of Daniel C. Ott was found in the Willamette river near Salem; Ernest Loring Gibson, 29, was captured by state police near Coquille after he forced a Bend taxi driver to drive him to Coos county, and James Arthur Patton was captured near Los Angeles.

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of an atomic explosion, denied Moscow's statement that it will serve as a base for U. S. nuclear weapons.

"There is no truth whatever that Japan is offering a base for atomic warfare," said the chief cabinet secretary, Hiro-

hide Ishida.

Japan, the only nation ever to feel the destructive force of