Gym Class Changed For Children of Illinois Minister

Urbania, Ill. — (U.P.) — School authorities have retreated and announced a "modified" physical education program for two minister's children who objected to "immoral dress and unholy positions" in regular gym classes.

The children of Rev. Orval Lee were suspended "permanently Monday for refusing to attend gym classes. But an announcement of the new school board decision released by Superintendent C. C. Loew Thursday reinstated them.

Father Approved

Philip, 12 and Naomi, 13, started the boycott of gym classes themselves, said their father, but he approved it after he saw a newspaper photo of a gym class in which a girl was lying on the floor with an instructor's hands on her ankles and hip.

The modified program will allow the Lee children to attend classes apart from the rest of the children, Loew said. They will not be required to take exercises which involve a reclining or prone position and may wear whatever they choose.

The program "takes into account certain religious objections," said Loew, and fulfills state requirements.

He said state requirements which stipulate that schools which do not give physical education may be cut off from state funds was the main consideration in the original suspension.

There are more than 29 million miles of telephone wire in the United States.

Specialists Here — Rex Warren, Oregon State college farm crops specialist, and Ray Teal, OSC marketing specialist, were in Jackson county yesterday and today conferring with forage and cereal crops, seed production and weed control committees of the county agricultural planning council. They also planned to attend the county weed control meeting in the courthouse this afternoon.

Stocks Decline on Increased Trading

New York — (U.P.) — Stocks declined substantially on increased trading today and then met meager support which lifted a few issues from their lows.

Selling concentrated on some of the recent favorites, notably shipbuilding issues which at the lows were off as much as 4⅝ points in New York Shipbuilding.

The steels were driven down one to more than two points. They came back a fair distance from their lows. Most other sections were depressed with a few strong spots noted.
