80,000 Moslems Riot in Protest Over Annexation

India Takes Kashmir Despite U.N. Vote

Karachi, Pakistan — (U.P.) — More than 80,000 Moslems rioted here Saturday to protest against India's annexation of the State of Kashmir.

Police armed with long wooden staffs flailed at screaming Pakistanis to little avail. The mobs surged through the main thoroughfares of this capital city burning hundreds of effigies of Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru and screaming "Nehru... murder."

A number of casualties were reported.

Calls For War
A Moslem leader called for a war against Hindu India to regain control of the predominantly Moslem state which India incorporated Saturday. Indian Independence Day, in defiance of a United Nations Security Council vote against such action.

The irate Pakistanis man-handled foreigners in the streets and urged towards the homes and offices of Indian diplomatic officials. Barbed wire and police reinforcements were kept to keep the crowds from the Indians.

The demonstrations, led by students wearing black armbands as signs of mourning for Kashmir, were the wildest in Pakistan's history.

For a time, it appeared that the mobs ruled the city. All shops closed. Transportation stopped. Hordes of students marched on a United Nations building demanding enforcement of the Security Council resolution.

Proclaim Annexation
The citizens erupted in this pro-western capital at the moment when the New Delhi government proclaimed annexation of Kashmir, giving India the two-thirds of the former princely state it has occupied.

Pakistan occupied the other third under terms of a U.N. ceasefire reached in 1947 after bloody clashes between Indian and Pakistani forces over control of the state.

The annexation was timed to coincide with today's ceremonies marking India's seventh anniversary of independence from Britain.

Anyone under the age of 20 who has been unable to get the shots at the regular stations, may receive them in the basement of the Elks club, North Central ave. and Fifth st., Monday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Second round of shots will begin on Monday, Feb. 11, according to Dr. A. Erin Merkel, public health physician.

Cold Temperatures To Stay in Valley

Temperatures in the Rogue valley were expected to dip to near 10 above this morning as a mass of cold Canadian air continues to move southward into northern California.

Weather bureau officials here said the mercury is expected to show a warming trend tomorrow, however, with the possibility of some cloudiness Monday afternoon. Although snow is forecast for northern sections of the state late Monday, none was forecast for southern Oregon.

The mercury dipped 18 above in Medford Saturday morning, while other sections of the state reported temperatures as low as 4 below. The coldest January morning on record at the weather bureau here is 3 below.

Portland, which recorded a low of 9 above Saturday morning, expected the mercury to dip near zero this morning for the coldest morning in several years. Thermometers Friday night went down to 28.2 below at Ellensburg, Wash., to break an all time record there.

Seneca, Ore., reported a low of 41 below Saturday morning while Klamath Falls reported zero, Prospect 5 below, Green Springs 10 below, and Pendleton, 15 below.

State police said traffic was moving over the Siskiyou and Green Springs without incident. They reported two inches of new snow on the Green Springs Friday night and three inches on the Siskiyou.

Motorists were advised to carry chains while traveling Oregon mountain on Highway 199, enforcement of the Security Council resolution.

King Saud Arrives In U.S. Tuesday

Washington — (U.P.) — The United States hopes to win a solid endorsement of the Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine from King Saud of Saudi Arabia when the Arab monarch visits here this week.

Officials feel a Saudi statement of approval could do much to sell the President's plan in the turbulent area and thwart Russian designs on its rich oil fields.

King Saud, a strong anti-Communist, is believed to favor the Eisenhower plan but wants more details on how it will work.

The tall, bespectacled king, one of the last absolute monarchs of the world, arrives in New York Tuesday with a retinue of more than 80. He comes to Washington to begin a state visit with Mr. Eisenhower the following day.

The United States is rolling out its most sumptuous red carpet in an effort to impress the king. A squadron of five Navy destroyers will meet the liner Constitution carrying the ruler and escort it into New York harbor. Before landing, Saud will transfer from the Constitution to the lead destroyer for a triumphal trip to port.

Rome — (U.P.) — James D. Zellerbach of San Francisco arrived here last night to assume his new duties as U. S. ambassador to Italy.

Washington — (U.P.) — Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey has proposed that all future U. S. economic aid to foreign countries be in the form of repayable loans.

Government Ousts Russian Military Attache From U.S.

Major Expelled for Improper Purchases

New York — (U.P.) — A Russian embassy military attache was ousted from the United States Saturday in the aftermath of the smashing of a Soviet spy ring here.

Maj. Yuri P. Krylov was expelled for improperly purchasing "quantities" of electronic equipment and trying to buy U. S. military secrets. He left with his wife and two small children aboard the French liner Liberte.

There were indications that U. S. government officials planned to implicate other Soviet officials in the spy ring, regarded by the FBI as the biggest such case since Ethel and Julius Rosenberg were executed in 1953 for wartime atomic espionage.

Spreads to Canada
The investigation of the alleged new spy ring spread to Canada where authorities sought possible links with the three Lithuanian-born defendants being held here in $100,000 bail.

Krylov's ouster was ordered last week as FBI agents closed in on Jack Sobie, 53, his wife, Myra, 52, and Jacob Albam, 64, who were arrested in their homes here Friday. They were charged with conspiracy since 1947.

U. S. Attorney Paul Williams said Sobie had succeeded Soviet Embassy Second Secretary Vasily M. Zubilin "as a dominant figure in the espionage ring after World War II."

NKVD Head
Zubilin, who returned to Moscow in 1944, was identified by the FBI in 1953 as head of the NKVD in North America. The NKVD was described by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as "one of the primary branches of Soviet intelligence in North America."

A Federal Grand Jury investigation of the Sobie-Albam case was set for Monday. U. S. officials were expected to introduce evidence implicating Soviet officials and others believed to be involved in the alleged spy ring. There were reports that other arrests would be made.

Chicago — (U.P.) — A national survey has convinced federal health authorities that the Salk anti-polio vaccine is an effective weapon against paralytic poliomyelitis, it was reported Saturday.

Dr. Alexander D. Langmuir, of the U. S. Public Health Service epidemiological center at Atlanta, made the report to an American Medical Association meeting called to plan an intensive national vaccination program.

Langmuir said the polio surveillance study by the Communicable Disease Center at Atlanta in 1955 and last year showed:

1. The poliomyelitis vaccine used during 1956 has been safe.

2. The vaccine has been effective in preventing the paralytic form of the disease.

Gasquet Man Serious After Car Accident
Grants Pass — (U.P.) — August Birschy, about 32, of Gasquet, Calif., was in serious condition in Josephine General hospital here Saturday after being trapped in the wreckage of his car overnight in near zero weather.

Hirschy told authorities he could not remember whether he skidded on the ice or fell asleep while driving about one-half mile north of the California state line on the Redwood highway.

He was brought to the hospital today by a passing motorist who found him about 9 a.m. Attendants said Hirschy suffered frost damage to both feet, several broken ribs, a punctured lung and facial cuts.

Bloodmobile To Visit Medford February 13
The Red Cross Bloodmobile unit will be stationed at the Elks club in Medford from 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 13, it was reported today.

Medford's quota for this bloodmobile visit has been raised from the usual 250 pints to 290 pints. Red Cross officials said more blood has been used here recently than donors have supplied, making the quota increase necessary.

Communists Free Photographer; Four Students Charged

Budapest — (U.P.) — A Communist court freed American photographer Mrs. Gergette Dickey Mayer-Chapelle from prison Saturday and ordered her out of the country within 24 hours.

At the same time, it was announced that four British students, including Judy Cripps, 19-year-old granddaughter of the late Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps, are being held indefinitely on spy charges.

The public prosecutor's office is "bringing charges" against the four students, the interior ministry said. It charged that two of Miss Cripps' three male companions "took part in the activities of counter-revolutionary troops in Budapest."

The British foreign office denied the four were spies.

All western nations were under fire. Istvan Szirmai, head of the government information service charged that American, British and West German intelligence agencies played an important role in the Oct. 23 uprising, entering Hungary in Red Cross cars.

However, there was no question of espionage in the trial of the American photographer.

Mrs. Chapelle, 37, of Milwaukee, Wis., pleaded guilty before a municipal court here of entering Hungary illegally and was sentenced to 30 days in prison. But since she already had been held more than 50 days, she was released and ordered expelled.

A U. S. legation official attended the 5 1/2-hour trial. A legation spokesman said the tousie-haired free-lance photographer would leave by legation car today. She was spending the night at the home of U. S. Minister Thomas Wallis.

Sports Bulletins

standing in community leadership and service the previous calendar year.

Two Architects Are Retained to Draw New School Plans

Two young Medford architects, Jack A. Edson and Wayne E. Struble, have been retained by the Medford school board to work on preliminary plans for the two new schools proposed for construction.

They were selected after discussions about possible plans, materials and designs. Leonard Mayfield, superintendent of schools, said they will compile information regarding costs, alternative plans and materials, and other data. They have been asked to work out the most economical plans possible while maintaining acceptable school construction standards, Mayfield reported.

Edson has his own architectural office, and Struble operates the Medford office of the James Paine architectural firm, Salem.

School Needed
The school board recently announced that the 1956 school census taken last October indicates the need for a least one and probably two new schools in east Medford. New field the census has disclosed there was an unpredictable increase in immigration during the past year.

If the schools are to be built, a bond issue will have to be approved by the voters of the district, and Mayfield said the work of the architects will be valuable in preparing plans and cost estimates for the information of the voters.

The board is continuing its study of the census results, and the impact they will have on the school system.

Three Drown When Boat Capsizes
Vallejo, Calif. — (U.P.) — Two men and a boy were drowned in the Napa river near here Saturday when their rented boat capsized while they were on a fishing trip.

The body of one man and the boy were recovered and search continued for the body of the other man.

McGinty Presented Jaycee Service Award

Clifford M. McGinty, 2110 Whittle ave., Medford, received the distinguished service award for 1956 from the Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce at their annual banquet program at the Rogue Valley Country club Friday.

Charles Jones, president of the Jaycees, presented the award.

The award is presented annually to the man between the ages 21 and 35 who has been outstanding in community leadership and service the previous calendar year.

McGinty, owner of McGinty Fuel company, is a member of the YMCA board of directors and trustee, Crater Lions club, the Red Cross blood committee, a member of the Lone Pine school board, chairman of the Grandview water district board, and is active in St. Peter's Lutheran church.

Other finalists were Glenn Jennings, 2397 Jacksonville highway; Robert A. Johnson, 20 Valley View drive; Dr. William J. Thompson, 209 Fluhrer building; Ray Johnson, 117 Vernada place; and Clifford Ouellette, 1532 Terrace drive.

Don Carlson is chairman of the DSA committee.

New secretary of State Mark Hatfield, speaker at the banquet, said there are three institutions in this country making these awards possible.

Referring to the six finalists, Hatfield said the prevailing factor in their distinction is that they were born in a country with a free public school system.

Oregon has one of the finest educational systems in the country, he pointed out. The secretary of state said that Oregon has the highest starting minimum wage in the country for a teacher with a BA and the second highest starting wage for a teacher with an MA.

The second institution is "our democratic way of life," often known as the "great American experiment," Hatfield said. He added "we are living in such a pragmatic age, people often consider democracy only from a theoretical or mechanical view."

"We must have a heart-feeling as well as an intellectual understanding of the enlightenment," he said. Because of the enlightenment, there is hope of rehabilitation for the criminally and mentally ill.

According to Hatfield the third and most important institution in America is its freedom to believe in God. Service to man must be rooted by a love in God, he said.

Hatfield said Oregon reflects this wisdom by being a leader in the nation with laws encouraging equal opportunity for employment, civil rights and desegregation.

Robert Boyer was master of ceremonies at the banquet.

$434 Collected in Wheelbarrow Race

A total of $434.86 was collected Saturday afternoon on downtown Medford streets when members of the Medford Kiwanis club and Medford Lions club staged a wheelbarrow race for the March of Dimes.

The Kiwanis club won the race, collecting $21.14 more than the Lions club. Members of the Kiwanis collected $206.86.

Members of the two service clubs pushed wheelbarrows with large containers along North Central ave. between Sixth and Main sts. beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Team members solicited contributions to the March of Dimes with the wheelbarrow pushers advancing one foot for each dollar collected. Both teams traveled about a block and a half.

By agreement prior to the race, pusher of the losing team wheeled the pusher of the winning team in to the United States National bank building where the money was deposited.

Cave Junction Couple Finds House Wrecked
Cave Junction — (U.P.) — Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rawson of Deer Creek, near Cave Junction, returned home from a California vacation Friday to find their home in a shambles.

They said an itinerant bobcat had broken into the house, ripped the new draperies, eaten their groceries, smashed dishes and clawed the floor to shreds.

They said the visitor had apparently stayed several days.

Rehabilitation Hope
"We must have a heart-feeling as well as an intellectual understanding of the enlightenment," he said. Because of the enlightenment, there is hope of rehabilitation for the criminally and mentally ill.

According to Hatfield the third and most important institution in America is its freedom to believe in God. Service to man must be rooted by a love in God, he said.

Hatfield said Oregon reflects this wisdom by being a leader in the nation with laws encouraging equal opportunity for employment, civil rights and desegregation.

Robert Boyer was master of ceremonies at the banquet.

State Senators Take Week End Off

Salem — (U.P.) — Most of Oregon's legislators were home Saturday, getting their personal affairs in order preparatory to the "long haul" of the session—perhaps getting some first-hand ideas from their constituents about what they think of the session so far.

It was a rugged first two weeks, especially in the Senate, which started trying to elect a president Jan. 13 and didn't succeed until late Thursday, when Sen. Boyd Overhulse, Madras Democrat, was unanimously elected.

With President Overhulse on the rostrum, the senators quickly got down to the business of organizing Friday. Committees were named, and resolutions passed enabling the financing of the session, including pay for the officers from chief clerk to sergeant-at-arms and for the secretaries and stenographers.

That business attended to, the Senate recessed at 12:20 p.m. and took their first Friday afternoon and Saturday off since the session opened The House had adjourned in the morning, also until Monday.

The Senate recess came just after Sen. Alfred H. Corbett, chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, announced a meeting would be held at 8:30 a.m. Monday to select members with ways and means background, and he invited all of the senators to set in at the "exploratory" session.

The House adjourned after 46 bills were introduced Friday, 11 of them relating to teachers.

One bill would give permanent teacher status to persons hired for their fourth successive year. The tenure law would apply to any school district with more than 2,000 students in daily attendance.

Another bill would give the State Board of Education authority to set standards on qualification of teachers, adequacy of school plants, to establish requirements for graduation from high school, teacher certificate regulations and approve teacher training programs.

A bill introduced by Rep. Robert Klemsan, St. Helens Democrat, would forbid discrimination in the employment of teachers on the basis of race, sex, religion or membership in teachers' organizations.

Roseburg Man Held After Incident on Tiller-Trail Road

Plow Crew Stops at Overturned Car

A 56-year-old highway maintenance crewman, Burse H. Cathey, 105 G st., Eagle Point, was shot through the left side Friday night and a 23-year-old Roseburg man was lodged in the county jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, according to state police.

Officers said Clarence Edward Michel, an employee of the Roseburg Lumber company, Dillard, admitted shooting Cathey with a .22 caliber revolver.

Attendants at Rogue Valley hospital, where Cathey underwent a three-hour operation during the night, described his condition as "satisfactory" Saturday.

North of Tiller
The shooting occurred about 9 p.m., nine miles north of Tiller on the Tiller-Trail highway.

Officers said Michel's car had overturned there and Cathey and another highway department employee, Charles A. Cearly, Eagle Point, arrived at the scene with a snow plow a short time later.

A motorist, whose name was not known, also arrived, but left to report the accident to Ray Harnish, maintenance foreman for the Eagle Point highway department sector. Cathey and Cearly remained at the accident scene.

At 9:44 p.m., Harnish called state police and relayed the message that the car had overturned. The motorist said he then started back to the scene, but before arriving, noticed the previously overturned car traveling toward Eagle Point.

Reaches Scene
When he reached the accident scene, he found the snow plow but could not immediately find the two crew members. A few moments later he found Cathey, suffering from the bullet wound and hiding in the snow. Cearly, who was not injured, was also hiding in the snow nearby. The men said they were afraid Michel was returning to harm them.

When state police arrived, Cathey and Cearly said Michel had commanded them to put the car back on its wheels. When the maintenance men expressed reluctance, they said Michel shot Cathey.

They told officers Michel then ordered Cearly to get into the snow plow and prepare to pull the car to its wheels. Despite his bullet wound, Cathey was ordered to hook a chain from the snow plow to the car. After the car was righted, Michel reportedly sped away.

Arrested Later
Michel, accompanied by his 22-year-old wife, Rosetta, and 13-month-old son, Steven LeRoy, was arrested by state police at 10:55 p.m., near the Eagle Point junction of Highway 62. Police said he admitted the shooting.

Officers said Michel told them he consumed a pint of brandy after getting off work in Roseburg. When he got home, he said he decided to take his wife and child to Brownsboro to visit his wife's mother. He told police he intended to leave his family at his mother-in-law's home, then make his "get-away."

Cathey was reported to have lost a considerable amount of blood and suffered an intestinal perforation as a result of the wound. He was given two blood transfusions at the hospital. He was taken to the hospital by Harnish and police officers in a state police car.

Philharmonic Concert At High School Today
The Philharmonic Society of Southern Oregon will give the second concert of the 1956-57 season at 3 p.m. today at Medford High school auditorium.

Richard D. Werner, orchestra director, will conduct the program which includes numbers by Massenet, Grieg, and Tschalkowsky. Mozart's "Symphony No. 40 in G Minor" will be featured by the Philharmonic guild during intermission.

The program will be repeated at 8 p.m. in Grants Pass Junior High school.

The orchestra is made up of musicians from southern Oregon.
