

Angry Democrats Suggest Dulles Quit Post

PROPOSED FEDERAL ARMORY—Above is an architect's sketch of a federal armory for use of the armed forces reserve units similar to one that may be constructed on part of the Jackson County Housing Authority site. Negotiations are in progress between Army engineers and the housing authority for acquisition by the Army of a triangular area of about four acres southeast of McAndrews rd. Government surveys and test borings for foundation construction and other examinations have started. If the property is acquired the armory will be built under contract through the Army engineers. Lt. Col. Frank M. Kehoe, Army reserve unit advisor here, said the training center will be constructed to permit expansion as the strength of reserve units increases. He added training centers usually have a floor space of 11,000 square feet to accommodate offices, classrooms, supply rooms and other requirements. In addition, he said, a separate maintenance building of about 2,600 square feet for storage and maintenance of unit vehicles, trailers and other heavy equipment probably will be provided. Such installations accommodate up to 200 reservists. It will be of concrete construction with brick facing and landscaped to harmonize with local surroundings. An off-street surface parking area will be provided for reservists attending meetings. Since negotiations for the site have not been completed, no date has been set for start of construction. However, Kehoe added, if negotiations progress as expected, the facility should be in operation by the summer of 1958.

Egypt Said Being Forced Into Action Against Israelis

Unconditional Withdrawal Asked

United Nations, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Egyptian government sources said today in Cairo that Egypt will be forced to "take action on its own" unless the United Nations succeeds in forcing Israel out of the Gaza Strip. The sources said unless there is an unconditional Israeli withdrawal from all Egyptian territory Egypt will take action ranging from closure of the Suez Canal as a first resort, to a military counter-offensive against Israel as a last resort. The Egyptian position was made public in Cairo shortly after Israel announced plans to develop the Gaza Strip in defiance of United Nations demands it quit all territory captured from Egypt, and after Israel denounced Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's approach to the situation.

Egyptian sources said today's General Assembly debate in the U.N. on the Middle East would prove a crucial point in the worsening Middle-East crisis.

Both Egypt and Israel expressed disappointment in Hammarskjöld's report which called for complete Israeli withdrawal from the Gaza strip and from the Sinai shore on the Gulf of Aqaba.

Reacts Angrily
 Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman Moshe Leshan said in Jerusalem that Hammarskjöld wanted to return to "the very state of affairs which brought about the present crisis." He described Hammarskjöld's view on Gulf of Aqaba navigation a "masterpiece of obscurity."

Egypt reacted even more angrily. Government sources expressed disappointment and said Egypt is prepared to go along with the U.N. only if the U.N. is ready to restore pre-invasion conditions.

Program Would Provide 159,000 Needed Classrooms

Congress Asked To Vote $2,220,000,000

Washington — (U.P.) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today to vote $2,220,000,000 in federal aid over the next four years to help states overcome a "most critical" shortage of schoolrooms.

In a 2,000-word special message to the House and Senate, the chief executive appealed for quick passage of an "emergency" program designed to overcome the nation's present "deficit" of about 159,000 classrooms.

In an effort to head off the fight over school segregation riders which blocked action on a similar school program last year, Mr. Eisenhower appealed to Congress to enact the measure "on its own merits, uncomplicated by provisions dealing with the complex problems of integration."

The president proposed: 1. Federal grants of $325 million annually for the next four years, a total of $1.3 billion, to help build public schools in "financially needy" school districts. The federal money would be distributed under a complex formula taking into account the number of school-age children in a state and the state's average income per school-age child.

2. During the first year of the program, 1957, the federal aid would have to be matched by outlays from either state or local school district funds. After the first year, the matching funds would have to come solely from state funds, a requirement aimed at states which now make little or no contribution to school budgets.

3. The matching funds would be calculated on a formula based on the state's income. The poorest states would put up 50 cents for each $1 of federal aid, the richest states $2 for each $1 of federal aid.

4. Any state which falls below the national average in the proportion of its income devoted to schools, or in dollar expenditures per pupil, would have its federal aid grant "reduced proportionately."

5. The federal government would spend up to $750 million over the four years to buy bonds issued by local school districts which have been unable to market their bonds commercially at "reasonable" interest rates. These bonds would be purchased at an interest rate equal to the rate paid by the U.S. treasury on its own long term securities, plus one half of one per cent.

6. Federal advances of $150 million over four years to help state agencies build schools which would be turned over to local school districts on a "lease-purchase" plan. It was estimated that this federal nest egg would enable such state agencies to float bond issues of their own, bringing in a total of $6 billion.

Portland — (U.P.) — Damage estimated at $17,000 resulted today from a fire at the Lincoln House restaurant here.

Mishandling of Mid-East Problem Cited by Foes

Pennsylvanian In Outright Demand

Washington — (U.P.) — Some Democrats were suggesting today that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign for what they termed his mishandling of the Middle East problem.

Freshman Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) made an outright demand that Dulles give up his post on grounds that he has "lost the confidence of our Allies" and Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), both members of the powerful Senate Foreign Relations committee, hinted indirectly that they also want Dulles to quit.

Dulles went back before the combined Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees today for more questioning—this time in secret—on the "Eisenhower Doctrine" for protecting the Middle East from Communism.

He was subjected to a blistering Democratic attack on his handling of the Middle East situation during four days of public testimony last week.

The committees also planned to act on Fulbright's demand that the Senate conduct a sweeping review of administration foreign policy before voting on the President's request to use money and troops, if necessary, to protect the Middle East from Communist aggression.

Fulbright concurred in advance of the committee session that he would lose his fight to force such a review prior to action on Mr. Eisenhower's Middle East plan. But he predicted he would succeed in getting such an inquiry later.

The administration turned on the pressure to prevent the foreign policy inquiry. Senators were being told that such a review might cause a new breach in U. S. relations with Britain and France when it touched on those nation's Suez attack and U. S. opposition to it.

Clark's demand for Dulles' resignation was the first to be heard from a senator since Sen. W. Kerr Scott (D-N.C.), made a similar demand on Jan. 9. Clark said Dulles' retirement would be a step toward clearing up U. S. policy in the Middle East.

Humphrey did not flatly call for Dulles' resignation. But he said the secretary "may very well have outlived his usefulness in serving the vital interests of the nation." He said "a large number of congressmen" just don't have confidence in Dulles.

Suspected Accomplice Quizzed in Death Of Chicago Girls; Man Makes Confession

Chicago — (U.P.) — A man sought as a skid road dishwasher's suspected accomplice in the slaying of two teen-aged sisters turned up in custody today on another charge.

Police said they were already holding on a disorderly conduct charge William Willingham Jr., 26, Richmond, Va., a self styled hill billy singer and photographer's salesman.

Mrs. Minnie Duras, skid road restaurant proprietor, identified Willingham as the man who was with dishwasher Bennie Bedwell and the Grimes sisters, Barbara, 15, and Patricia, 13.

Bedwell has already confessed beating the sisters and tossing their nude bodies into a snowy ditch on the city's outskirts. He said he was accompanied by a man he knew as "Frank."

Police awakened Bedwell from a deep sleep and showed him a photograph of Willingham. Bedwell told them it bore a "close" resemblance to "Frank," but he couldn't be sure.

Authorities planned to bring the two together face to face later today. In his confession Bedwell indicated the girls may have been alive when he stripped them and tossed them into the ditch beside German Church Road.

Cold Temperatures To Stay This Week

No relief from the cold weather was in prospect today after temperatures dipped to record lows in several places in Oregon yesterday morning.

The Medford weather bureau forecast a low of near 10 here tonight, and temperatures much below normal for the next five days. There will be a slow rising trend in temperatures during the five days.

Dips to 11 Degrees
 Mercury in Medford went to 11 degrees yesterday, and this morning's 17-degree reading equaled the all time low on Jan. 26, which was set in 1937. The January record low is 3 below, set in 1930, and the lowest temperature ever recorded in Medford was 19 below in December, 1919. Other January lows were 1 above in 1950, 5 in 1949, and 9 above in 1952.

The cold snap caused a serious power shortage in the Portland area, froze water pipes throughout the state, and ice was reported on the Columbia and Willamette rivers and other streams throughout the state.

Prospect yesterday morning reported 10 below and this morning 2 below. It was 16 below yesterday on the Green Springs. Records were set at Eugene where 4 below was reported yesterday and at Pendleton where it was 22 below Sunday.

Other low temperatures Sunday included 25 below at Burns, 24 below at Baker and 22 below at Redmond. Lows this morning ranged from 17 below at Burns to 31 at Brookings.

Bonneville Power Administration last night cut off all interruptible power to 17 metals industries after it had used power from the Hungry Horse dam in Montana to meet firm commitments.

State police said highway conditions had improved over the week end, although packed snow was reported at Prospect and on the Green Springs. Both highways were well sanded, they said. The Siskiyou reported spots of ice. No new snow was reported in southern Oregon yesterday.

Advise Chains
 National park officials advised chains on Highway 62 through the park, and from Annie Springs to the rim. Total snow depth at the park is 75 inches.

Unstable highway conditions over the week end resulted in a basketball game series between Illinois Valley and Brookings being postponed.

Michel Arraigned In District Court; $10,000 Bond Set

Clarence Edward Michel III, 23, of Dillard, was arraigned in district court this morning on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Michel waived counsel and preliminary hearing and was bound over to the grand jury. Bond was set by Judge Rawles Moore at $10,000 on the basis of district attorney's information that Burs H. Cathey of Eagle Point still was in a serious condition.

Michel was arrested by state police late Friday night near the Eagle Point junction of Highway 62, and admitted shooting Cathey, a highway maintenance crewman, with a .22 caliber revolver, about nine miles north of Tiller on the Tiller-Trail highway, state police said.

Car Overturned
 According to state police reports Michel's car had overturned and Cathey and another highway department employee, Charles A. Cearley, Eagle Point, arrived at the scene with a snow plow a short time later.

The highway department employees said Michel ordered them to pull the car back on its wheels and when they expressed reluctance, they said Michel shot Cathey. After the car was righted, Michel left the scene.

Cathey was taken to Rogue Valley hospital by state police and was described as in a satisfactory condition Saturday after a three-hour operation. Hospital officials reported today that his condition had improved slightly.
