

Mystery Explosion Rocks Montgomery In Racial Unrest

By UNITED PRESS
A new explosion early today rocked a Montgomery, Ala., area that has been the scene of bombings and snipings but police failed in hours of search to find where it occurred.

The blast, heard practically all over the capital, sent a horde of police and newsmen scouring Negro residential areas for signs of fresh damage.

Follows Racial Terrorism
The explosion followed a wave of racial terrorism which brought formal charges today to seven white men arrested for dynamiting and shootings in Montgomery's 13 months of bus integration disputes.

Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers, disclosing the arrests Wednesday night, said some of the men have confessed a bombing which injured one Negro last Sunday.

Other developments:
Federal Judge Emmett Choate refused in Miami to dismiss a suit for integration of schools of Palm Beach County, Fla., and gave the school board 30 days to file an answer.

Two teen-agers went on trial in Montgomery on misdemeanor charges for allegedly burning a cross last December at the home of U. S. District Judge Frank Johnson.

Two Tennessee state legislators from Clinton refused to support a proposal that Gov. Frank Clement use his police power to oust Negroes from the Clinton High School.

Florida Man Admits Slaying Waitress

Bartow, Fla.—(U.P.)—A citrus packing house worker today confessed grisly details of how he picked up a waitress at a bar, took her to a remote lake and shot her "because I had a desire to kill."

Lester Earl Parker, 43, led sheriff's deputies Wednesday to the woman's decomposed body submerged under a log in a secluded woodland pond.

She was identified as Edna Carter Cooley, 36, a twice-married waitress and mother of two children.

Sheriff Hagan Parrish quoted Parker as saying he shot the woman last Jan. 14 after he picked her up at a bar in Lakeland, Fla., for the express purpose of killing her. He had bought the gun a few hours earlier.

Young Lovers' Plan Lands Them in Jail

Paris — (U.P.) — Two young French lovers were in jail today on charges of making a good living by bilking more than 60 Paris hotels.

Police said Bernard Cottin and Jacqueline Boulet, both 22, would check into a new hotel each day. They would spend one night. In the morning Jacqueline would descend to the desk and ask to borrow some paper and string to take some clothes to the dry cleaners.

A short time later the couple would leave the hotel with a bundle. In the bundle, police said, were rugs, blankets, sheets and curtains from the hotel room. These would be sold to a second hand dealer and then the couple would check into another hotel.

Ousted Hungarian Dictator in Mongolia

London — (U.P.) — Matyas Rakosi, ousted Stalinist dictator of Hungary, is living in the Far Eastern Soviet Republic of Mongolia, Communist official news sources here said today.

The informants said the one-time Hungarian Communist "strong-man" has left Moscow for the native land of the Mongolian woman he married years ago while undergoing Bolshevik training in the Soviet capital. It could not be established whether "old potato head," as Rakosi was dubbed by Hungarians, went to the distant Asian republic on his own accord or was exiled by the Kremlin leaders.

Nails in Bread Dough Land Youth in Court

Valenciennes, France — (U.P.) — Police held a 15-year-old baker's apprentice today for a juvenile court hearings on charges he mixed nails into bread dough to get event with fellow workers he felt were picking on him.

The lad tossed hundreds of nails into the dough in the belief his "persecutors" would get into trouble, police said.

When the deed was discovered police were called to intercept the delivery truck and to confiscate supplies already delivered.
