Hungarian Actor Here as Refugee

By GAY PAULEY United Press Correspondent New York — (UP) — A new matinee idol is in our midst. He came to town with the appropriate amount of publicity for he and his family were among thousands of refugees welcomed to the United States after the revolts last October in Hungary. Since his arrival, however, Sandor Szabo has been living in such obscurity you would hardly suspect that he is—or was—Hungary's leading actor. Szabo, his actress-wife, Kato, and their two sons—Berne, 15, and Balags, 13—fled to Vienne in mid-November, and were among the refugees brought to Camp Kilmer, N. J., Dec. 8.

On Russian Blacklist "It was necessary that we leave," said Szabo, through an interpreter, "I had a part in the revolution. . . I was on the Russian blacklist." Now, he and his family will become U. S. citizens. And the actor will hurry his English studies.

"Not very many roles in Hungarian here," laughed the actor, who is a ruggedly handsome man of 40. Szabo said he had played both romantic and character roles in Budapest, but perhaps is best known there for his interpretation of Cyrano. Like most of the other refugees, Szabo and his family came to America without funds and with only the clothes they wore. And, like most of the others, they are finding Americans warm and generous.

Studying English Free The boys already are enrolled in a Friars' school in Providence, R. I., and the Szabos have free room and board at the City of New York YWCA, which has provided 50 rooms for refugees. And, the Szabos are studying English free—at the American National Theater and Academy (ANTA).

In a few days, they will move to a small apartment, paid for by a Rockefeller scholarship, which also will help the couple with food and clothing bills. "Our only worry now is for our relatives in Budapest," said the actor. "Both our mothers still are there."

Sex Education To Be Topic for Discussion Group Jackson Parent-Teacher association group will meet Thursday, February 7 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Alfred Mercer, 736 West Jackson boulevard. The discussion will be on sex education for children. Guest speaker will be Mrs. James Medley, teacher from Jackson school.

Free baby sitting service will be provided at 413 North Columbus avenue for those attending the meeting. For transportation call Mrs. John Lynch, 3-1984, Mrs. John Schroeder, 2-4765, or Mrs. E. D. Grimes, 3-1704.

Reception Given After Christening

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ashton, 54 South Keene Way drive Sunday, February 3, in celebration of the christening of their grandson, Douglas William Edward Ashton. The infant, born December 12, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ashton of Medford. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, Woodlawn, Wash.

The christening ceremony was held during the 11 o'clock service of Medford Congregational church, with the Rev. Thomas McCamant, pastor of the church, officiating.

Mrs. C. W. Austin assisted at the tea table during the reception. Mrs. Donald Johnson, a close friend of the infant's mother, came from Portland to be present for the christening. Mrs. Johnson and Harold Brew, Medford, were named sponsors for the baby.

For the rites the baby was dressed in a christening robe which had first been worn by his grandfather, W. E. Ashton, for his christening. The dress had been made by hand with many tucks, ruffles and lace especially for the occasion according to Mrs. Harriet Ashton, Spokane, the child's great-grandmother.

What girdles have always tried to do ...
Warner's STA-FLAT does!

Girdles From $8.95
Warner's A'Lure Bra $3.95

We have it — so now you can have it, too — the miraculous new Warner girdle that keeps you flat and comfortable. Its secret is STA-FLAT(r) — light, flexible (but incredibly strong) springlets pocketed in the girdle's front panel.

It's these little springlets that completely change the way a girdle works. You see, they give NOT just pinpoint control, not just the limited support of fabric... but a flattening of a far greater area — with utter freedom.

Seeing is believing though. Why not come in and let us fit you in a one, two or three ring version of a STA-FLAT girdle or corsetette? Prove to yourself what this Warner-wonder can do.
