Senate Committee Votes To Cite 4 Union Officials for Contempt

Washington—(U.P.)—The Senate Government Operations Committee voted today to cite four officials of the Teamsters' Union, including its No. 2 man, for contempt of Congress for refusing to testify about alleged racketeering.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the vote was unanimous. He said the citations would be reported to the Senate today for final approval. From the Senate, they would go to the Justice Department for prosecution.

The citations were against: Einar O. Mohr, a vice president of the huge union and executive assistant to General President Dave Beck at its headquarters here.

Frank W. Brewster, Seattle president of the Western Conference of Teamsters and the union's Joint Council 28.

Nugent Lapoma, Alias George Cavano, secretary-treasurer of Local 174, Seattle.

Harry Reiss, secretary-treasurer of Local 284, New York, linked in testimony last month with indicted hoodlum John Do Guard, alias Johnny Dio.

All four Teamster officials refused to answer questions of the investigating subcommittee last month. They also challenged its right to question them even about financial reports which the Teamsters, whose 1.4 million members make it the nation's largest union, filed with the Labor Department. The subcommittee has power to investigate government operations.

They did not invoke the Fifth Amendment. A series of other officers of Reiss' Local 284 did, however, pleading that their answers might incriminate them when they were asked about charges that they were abetting union funds.

Brewster and Lapoma were also cited for refusal to produce, under subpoena, financial records of their units of the union.

The investigation subcommittee broke ground last month for a nationwide investigation of labor racketeering. A special Senate committee, which McClellan also heads, is now taking over the job with specific power to investigate racketeering.

In another development, Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) proposed a bill requiring most employee welfare and pension benefit plans to register with the government and make financial reports to members.

Douglas headed a Senate Labor subcommittee investigation of the welfare funds in 1955. He said it turned up "shocking abuses such as embezzlement, collusions, kickbacks, exorbitant insurance charges . . . mismanagement, lack of know-how, waste, extravagance, indifference and nepotism."

Portland Jail Crowded; 30 Receive Paroles

Portland—(U.P.)—Police said today they had to release 30 prisoners from the city jail because of no more room. Police said it was a case of either taking no more prisoners in or letting some out. Municipal Judge John J. Murchison ordered paroles for 30 men.

Page Ranks Conferred On Local Pythians

James Cech of Medford and Robert K. Hamilton of Phoenix received page ranks at the regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias earlier this week.

Visiting members from Thermopylae lodge, Grants Pass, assisted in the program. Among them was G. Hugh Welsh, grand chancellor of Oregon.

James O'Duane, chancellor commander of the local lodge, reminded lodge members that next week's meeting will honor past chancellors, who will conduct the program.

The rank of esquire will be conferred on candidate at the Feb. 18 meeting, O'Duane said. Also at the Feb. 18 meeting there will be a short program commemorating the 93rd birthday of the founding of the order in Washington, D.C.

Library Board, Area Students to Meet

Representatives of students at Medford High school, and of Southern Oregon college students living in Medford, have been invited to meet with the Medford Public Library board next week.

The meeting has two purposes, according to members of the board. The first is to see if student cooperation can be enlisted in countering an increasing number of cases of vandalism and theft in the library on the part of a few students. The second is to discuss complaints that students have been discriminated against or treated discourteously in the library.

The board also will go over preliminary budget figures for the library for the coming fiscal year at the meeting.

Enzymes to Restore Flavor Is Possible

Corvallis — Addition of enzymes to canned and frozen foods to restore "fresh" flavors may someday be as easy as easy as sprinkling salt from a shaker.

E. M. Litwiler, Oregon State college food technologist, said such possibilities were suggested at a recent meeting of the National Research council in Chicago. Research findings were reported on "favorese enzymes" that are believed to act on food substances to restore flavors lost in processing.

According to reports at the Chicago meeting, enzymes from fresh cabbage or from a related species such as mustard, will restore the "natural" flavor to cooked or dehydrated cabbage.
